CHRISTMAS—ITS SPIRIT INVADES ENTIRE WORLD

Nations Observe Day in Many Ways.

from Bethlehem, where Christ was born, and from all the four corners of the world, cables and radio last night brought the story of Christmas. It was a story of religious ceremonials, of giving, of feasting, of happy children. It was a story of Santa Claus, known in a score lands by as many names, carrying good cheer to young and old. It was a story which bespoke a happy world, with peace and good will in almost every land. Here it is:

BETHLEHEM, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Pilgrims from many parts of the world came to this historical biblical town tonight and joined in the simple, devout celebration of the birth of the Nazarene. A clear, starlight night, following a day of brilliant sunshine, added to the impressiveness of the observance.

Among the faithful who visited the holy cave of the first Christmas were 20 Americans and Canadians. The celebration in general did not attract the throng of other years. It was estimated that not more than 1,500 persons, other than residents of Bethlehem and nearby Jerusalem, were in the little town tonight.

Arabian Christmas hymns were sung in the Greek convent adjoining the Church of the Nativity, while at the same time choirs of boys and girls sang the old Latin chorals as midnight was ushered in with the ringing of bells.

Congregation Visits Grotto.

The Latin patriarch, covered with diamonds and clad in purple, celebrated a pontifical mass in the presence of the governor of Jerusalem and consuls of the Catholic powers.

After the service he led the whole congregation in procession down the steps to the grotto where the manger is said to have stood. He placed a figure of Jesus on the spot where there is a Latin inscription announcing, "Here Jesus was born of the Virgin Mary."

After the ceremonies, the way was left open for the balance of the night for visitors to come and go and to pray in the grotto.

All London Celebrates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 24.—London's streets, theaters, hotels, and restaurants, which are open unusually late tonight, are crowded. The city is filled with people celebrating Christmas eve. Special services were held in all churches tonight.

Scenes of animation are occurring in the poorer quarters of the city where the shops are open until midnight. The poor are crowding the stores at the last minute, hoping to get a low priced turkey.

All of those Londoners who have not joined the crowds are pouring out of the city to celebrate tomorrow with their families in the country or are making merry in studio parties and similar social gatherings.

Royal Family Gathers.

One of the happiest Christmas parties tomorrow will be at Sandringham, where the royal family is to be united in an atmosphere strikingly in contrast to that of last year, when the king lay dangerously ill, and when the fear of death threw a wet blanket over the holiday observances of the entire nation.

This is the first time since the war that all of the children and grandchildren of the king and queen will be together at Sandringham. It will be the largest royal house party since the famous Christmas parties held there by King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

Princess Mary, her husband, Viscount Lascelles, and their two little sons reached Sandringham last night and were greeted by little Princess Elizabeth, who had already accompanied her royal grandparents to Sandringham. The duke and duchess of York and the duke of Gloucester

CARRY FEASTS AND GIFTS TO HOMES OF POOR

3,300 Crusaders Set Christmas Record.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Participating in the largest yuletide crusade in the twenty years of their existence, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Good Fellows this year have supplied Christmas cheer and happiness to 21,900 poor children.

This Christmas morning there are no empty stockings in the homes of these poor children. Holiday joy prevails because the needy youngsters were not forgotten by Santa Claus.

The Good Fellow crusaders of 1929 numbered 3,300. Activities of the Good Fellows each Christmas are predicated solely on happiness to the little ones, and for that reason their number, nearly 22,000, is tabulated rather than the number of families visited.

Good Fellows Extend Work.

THE TRIBUNE Good Fellows this year extended their work to several institutions for children.

Christmas parties were arranged for the boys and girls at St. Mary's Training school, the Chicago Home for the Friendless, the Wendell Phillips Day nursery, and the Illinois Social Hygiene league. The children at Marks Nathan Jewish Orphans' home will enjoy a Good Fellow show immediately after Christmas.

The Christmas Parade.

Without much ado, the big parade of TRIBUNE Good Fellows started yesterday to the streets of poverty. No blare of trumpets heralded their approach as they marched to the homes of the poor children with baskets of food, candy, and nuts, and a few inexpensive toys.

The Chicago firemen, headed by Fire Commissioner Albert Goodrich and Deputy Fire Commissioner Edward Maloney, led the parade. Immediately following the commissioner and deputy commissioner came Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan and Assistant Marshals Patrick J. Egan and Daniel Carmody and Battalion Chiefs Thomas Scanlon and Joseph Mackey.

Students Give Help.

Next in the line of march of the Good Fellow army came the Lane Technical High school students in command of Grant Beebe, and by their side were pupils of the Hirsch Junior High school, with Miss Kathleen Gibbons in charge. Then came Jimmy Gilboy and his technical engineers, and Irwin (Bosco) Knott and his unit of electricians. Marching with the precision of a well drilled fighting outfit came the units of sororities, fraternities, clubs, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and groups of office employés.

The Good Fellow department wishes all crusaders a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Following are accounts of the experiences of TRIBUNE reporters who preceded the main big parade of Good Fellows:

GLADDENED BY GIFTS

BY MARIE FLEMING.

Our first call was at a home where the windows shed scant light and our breath formed steam in the chilly air. The mother of nine children greeted us and escorted us to a back room to see her group of little ones—wide eyed and expectant as the contents of our baskets were passed around to each thrilled little soldier, one smiling in glee at the shiny tractors and trains, another at the bright books and balls and games and goodies he received. Their parting calls of "Merry Christmas!" "Happy Christmas!" followed us.

At another home the mother, a refined woman and far beneath her sphere in her poverty, told us how her husband had not been able to work for four years and made us feel, in her repeated "How can I thank you?" the genuine gratitude of her heart for the happiness we were

12 Alimony Debtors Freed for Holiday

Twelve members of the Alimony club, the exclusive circle of men at the county jail imprisoned for their defiance of court orders to pay alimony to their ex-wives, voted to disband yesterday before Superior Judge Sabath, who had sentenced each of them to membership in the last three months. Only one of the thirteen members, Walter Snyder, held out for his principles; the others were freed in a general demonstration of Christmas good will.

The entire club was ferried through the slush in a patrol wagon at the order of Judge Sabath in keeping with an established seasonal custom. The prisoners were lined up in the courtroom with their former wives as the judge took to the bench, radiating cheer.

Promises Holiday Dinner.

The first case called was that of Gerhardt Johnson, who was jailed for refusal to meet $110 in alimony arrears. The judge asked Mrs. Johnson whether she would prepare a Christmas dinner for her former husband if he were released. An affirmative answer effected a reconciliation and the couple left the courtroom arm in arm.

The same question put to Mrs. Della De Rietz, 1741 Kimball avenue, in behalf of her husband, William, $505 in arrears, met with a stumbling block when Mrs. De Rietz said she was destitute and had nothing with which to prepare a dinner. The judge met the situation by ordering Bailiff Si Lewis to send a basket to their home, and effected another reconciliation.

Ex-Wife Loans Carfare.

In another case Sebathial Dillenbeck said that he didn't have the carfare to go to the dinner his former wife promised to prepare. At this admission Mrs. Dillenbeck loaned her husband $5 to make the trip, adding to the $1,300 debt for which he was jailed. The other men who were released on their promises to meet payments in the future were Frank Roth, Mikhael Brisick, Joseph Lewandowski, George F. Gomoll, John Melcser, George T. Tschida, Sam Young, Henry Miller and Charles Gordon.

The one jarring note came from Snyder. He is $2,175 in arrears and is said to have concealed assets and to have chosen deliberately a six months term rather than make a payment. The judge characterized Snyder's attitude as one of defiance in refusing a release order.

All of the men freed were ordered to report Feb. 5 on the progress in meeting the payments. The judge refused to sign a decree of divorce during the day.

AIR MAIL PILOT HURT BY CRASH IN SNOWSTORM

Pilot Thomas Hill, flying with the Chicago to Detroit air mail, crashed in a heavy snowstorm about four miles west of Michigan City, Ind., last night and was seriously injured. He was rescued on a bobsled two hours after the crash by Fred Bennwart, on whose farm the machine fell. St. Anthony's hospital in Michigan City was notified and an ambulance was rushed to the Bennwart farm. Hill was taken to the hospital, where Dr. Ralph D. Bergen found that both his jaws were broken and he had suffered many contusions and lacerations. He also was suffering from exposure he underwent while he lay crushed in the machine and was unable to talk. Dr. Bergen said, however, that he probably will recover.

Apparently Hill became lost in the snowstorm. Several farmers heard his machine circling about the Bennwart farm and he dropped flares in an attempt to find a landing place. Unsuccessful in this, he tried a blind landing, in the opinion of the farmers, and crashed. Bennwart found the plane on its nose in the snow with Hill crushed in the wreckage.

Hill's home is in Kalamazoo, Mich., and he is employed by the Thompson Aero corporation of that city.

BURKE REPORTED CAPTURED NEAR MEXICAN BORDER

Posses searching the Arizona hills near the Mexican border last evening captured a man believed by Sheriff H. J. Patterson of Nogales, Ariz., to be Fred Burke, wanted in Chicago for the Moran gang massacre, in St. Joseph, Mich., for murdering a policeman, and in five states for bank robberies.

Sheriff Patterson telegraphed Chicago police for fuller descriptions of Burke. Dispatches said the man had been picked up on suspicion of bootlegging yesterday and had been released. Subsequently the sheriff recalled the resemblance the suspect bore to photographs of Burke and sent out the posse. He was recaptured and brought in manacled.

Cardinal's Auto Stolen, but for 10 Minutes Only

It took the Chicago avenue police just ten minutes last evening to recover Cardinal Mundelein's stolen limousine and arrest the thief. The $14,000 automobile was taken from Wells and Oak streets while the cardinal's chauffeur, Patrick Ovarell, was delivering Christmas presents. At 6:30 p. m. Ovarell reported the theft and at 6:40 Detectives Edward Bazarek and William Fleeman in a squad car forced the limousine to the curb at Halsted street and North avenue and arrested Thomas Reynolds, 2127 Sheffield avenue.

Fights Bandits in His Store; Shot to Death

Alfred S. Kuiken, 65 years old, a butcher at 13142 Western avenue, Blue Island, was shot and killed last night in his shop by one of two holdup men. The bandits emptied the cash register and fled, catching a southbound bus on Western avenue.

According to Milan Gizich, a customer who was in the shop, one holdup man entered the butcher shop and asked for a goose he said his wife had ordered. While Kuiken was searching for the goose, the second gunman entered and both produced revolvers, covering the butcher and Gizich.

Butcher Resists Robber.

"Now hand over the dough in that cash register," ordered one bandit.

Instead of complying the butcher seized a cleaver and swung at the holdup men. One man fired instantly, the bullet striking Kuiken above the heart. The butcher slumped to the floor, the cleaver still in his hand. The bandit who had fired stepped over the body, opened the register, and crammed the currency in the register into his pockets. Then, warning Gizich not to leave the store for five minutes, they ran out.

Search Buses for Gunmen.

Gizich said he saw the two man stop a Western avenue bus bound southward and climb aboard. Chief Fiedler of Blue Island police and the county highway police, when informed of the shooting, immediately posted guards on all the highways and searched every bus.

The bandits were described as about 25 to 30 years old, wearing caps and dark suits and no overcoats. Both had a heavy growth of beard on their faces, the witness said.

The slain butcher is survived by his widow, five sons, and a daughter.

Christmas Toy Brings Death to Baby Girl

A Christmas toy brought tragedy yesterday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Steinbrenner, 2225 North Springfield avenue. Last Saturday night a miniature automobile was delivered for their only child, Dolores, 18 months old. On Sunday, while she was playing with the toy, she slipped and was injured internally. Last night her Christmas tree was dismantled and the holly wreath was taken from the front window. Dolores was dead.

Christmas Baby Born at Stroke of Midnight

On the stroke of midnight last night a 9½ pound boy was born to Mrs. Charles Rizzo, 3721 West Division street, her first child.

Killed as He Fires on Chief of Argentina

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 24.—Christmas eve was marked by added rejoicing here tonight as it became generally known throughout the city that President Yrigoyen had escaped three bullets from the gun of an assassin this morning.

An excited crowd surrounded the president's house this evening. The crowd staged a demonstration in honor of the chief executive, who has come to be looked upon as a "miracle man" in Argentina.

Members of the crowd recalled that the anarchist bombing of the local branch of the National City bank of New York occurred at the same hour of the same date two years ago, bearing out the saying that Christmas eve is a dangerous day in Argentina.

Yrigoyen Takes It Calmly.

President Yrigoyen, himself, took the attempt upon his life with far more calm than any one else. He arrived at his office shortly after his accustomed hour, and commenced his day's work as usual. The president insisted on going to the hospital to see his chief bodyguard, Antonio Piazza, who was shot in the groin by the assassin. His wound is not serious.

The attempt on the president's life was made at 11:20 a. m. as he left his home on the way to his office. Three shots were fired at the presidential party from behind a wall along the road. Police guards in an escort automobile, following the president's car, immediately fired a volley at the assassin, wounding him mortally. He was struck by seven bullets. Officials in the escort car tried to save the assailant in order to bring him to trial, but the prompt action of the guards was too effective.

Attempt Kept from Public.

The story of the attempted assassination was kept quiet this morning, owing to the unsettled temperament of the citizens of Buenos Aires at this time, but a few hours after the shooting occurred the police issued a statement which identified the assailant as Gualterio Marinelli, a dental mechanic, living on the same street as President Yrigoyen. Later a brief communique was issued by the police, as follows:

"While the president of the republic was passing, a citizen fired several shots at his automobile, wounding Antonio Piazza, who was traveling in the machine. President Yrigoyen and Dr. Meabe escaped uninjured.

"Immediately Canzaneilo and Undercommissary Bruno, who traveled in the escort car, intervened, but they could not prevent the policemen from firing on and killing the attacker. During the affray an employé of the investigation department, Carlos Maria Scillia, was wounded."

Assailant Native of Italy.

Marinelli, the assassin, was a native of Ancona, Italy. He came to Argentina in 1896 when he was 11 years of age.

Marinelli was said to have had anarchist opinions, but was a mild mannered man who always spoke well of President Yrigoyen.

Police tonight are displaying extraordinary activity in watching anarchistic centers. Photographs shown tonight of President Yrigoyen's car revealed that one window was broken by a bullet, while two bullets are imbedded in the woodwork of the machine.

When Yrigoyen was elected to the presidency of the Argentine Republic for the second time in 1928 by an overwhelming majority, it was justly

ALL EXECUTIVE OFFICES RUINED; BLAZE 2 HOURS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—A spectacular fire that originated in the basement and spread rapidly through the upper sections of the structure, wrecked the executive offices wing of the White House tonight. The damage was so heavy that it probably will require the construction of an entirely new building. The estimates of damages tonight ran as high as $135,000 and as low as $75,000.

Nineteen fire companies, comprising almost the entire force of the District, responded to the four alarms sent out as President Hoover was finishing his dinner in the White House dining room. The firemen kept up a continuous fight for two hours before the flames were under control.

The stubbornness of the fire aroused fears at one time for the safety of the presidential mansion itself. The mansion is separated from the executive offices by 200 feet. It has not been visited by a serious fire since it was destroyed by the British in 1812.

Hoover Saves His Papers.

President Hoover was among the thousands of Washingtonians who deserted Christmas eve celebrations to watch the blaze. Hastily leaving a Christmas eve party for children, which went on undisturbed in the east room, the President watched the office buildings, including his own office, ruined by flames, but had the satisfaction of knowing that his personal files were saved. Many important records were destroyed but under the President's personal direction all of his personal and business papers were moved to safety.

Great calcium lights set up in Executive avenue, between the state department building and the White House, added their glare to the blazing structure to make the White House grounds as light as day.

Attracted by the shrieks of sirens the flame-lit sky and the rapid spread of reports that the White House was afire thousands deserted home Christmas parties, receptions and theaters.

Troops Called Out.

A cordon of police was called for at once to surround the White House grounds to keep away the curious. Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley called out 100 infantrymen and assigned them to patrol duty around the structure until morning.

Before the fire was declared officially out by Fire Marshal George F. Watson two injured firemen had been taken to hospitals. One man, W. A. Clark, was seriously burned while leading the first contingent of fire fighters into the burning building. Another was overcome by smoke. Six were slightly injured when the ceiling of the President's office caved in.

It was impossible to definitely determine the origin of the fire tonight, but officials were inclined to believe it started from a new flue connected with a fireplace in the office of Walter Newton, Mr. Hoover's political secretary. Others believed that defective wiring or the strain of too many Christmas tree lights had caused the trouble.

Hoover to Move Offices.

As it will be impossible to use the executive offices for months, it was announced tonight that the President, his three executive secretaries and office staff will move across the street to the state, war and navy department building. It is possible an entirely new office structure, large enough to take care of the expanding activities of the executive, will be erected.

The fire was discovered shortly after 8 o'clock this evening by W. W. Rice, a switchboard operator stationed in the basement of the executive offices building. He noticed wisps of smoke curling into his room in the west side of the building. He summoned Policeman R. L. Trice and Russell Wood, White House secret service man, and the three rushed through the basement and found the blaze apparently in the west wall of the building. By that time the fire had eaten its way to the main floor above the basement and smoke was pouring out of the windows.

President Is Notified.

Operator Rice hurried back to the smoky basement telephone room and hastily telephoned to Ike Hoover, White House usher, who had already heard the first alarm sent in by Wood and Trice. Apprised of the rapidly spreading fire, the usher tiptoed into the dining room where the President and his Christmas eve party guests were finishing dessert.

Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, was the first man notified. Then the usher turned to the President and in turn told the news to George Akerson, French Strothers, and Walter Newton, all of whom were attending the party with their families.

Without advising the children of the fire, the President and the four secretaries went out through the south door of the White House and hurried to the office occupied by the President. Smoke was already curling up through the roof. Allan Hoover, the President's son, and Richey were the first men into the President's office. They immediately began moving out Mr. Hoover's personal and business files.

President Directs Work.

The President gave directions where to locate certain things, but accepted the advice of Richard Jervis, chief of the White House secret service, and did not go too close to the smoky building.

A few moments later White House policemen and augmented reserves of secret service men took over the work of moving out the files. The President, still attired in his dinner jacket but wearing a heavy coat over it, moved to the roof of the corridor and stood there for an hour, at times directing the work of rescuing the files.

When the first fire companies arrived they found the roof over Mr. Newton's office in flames and attempted first to extinguish them from the outside with a hose. Unsuccessful, several firemen entered with gas masks and chemical extinguishers, which also were ineffective. Finally the fire was attacked from the roof with water and apparently brought under control.

Break Out in New Spot.

But a six foot airway garret furnished a draft for the flames and no sooner were they subdued in one section of the building than they burst out in another.

Owing to masses of public documents and letter files in a low ceilinged garret over the main floor of the building the flames had plenty to feed on. White House officials said, however, that many valuable documents had been removed from the garret during a recent remodeling of the executive offices building and were now stored in the library of congress.

At 2:45, while the fire was still raging and the photographers' flashlights were heightening the weird effects produced by the intermittent bursts of flames and the calcium glares, the dozen or more children who had been enjoying the Christmas eve party in the east room were taken home. The Marine band had continued playing and Mrs. Hoover had continued to preside as hostess as if nothing had happened.

After the fire had been subdued Fire Chief Watson inspected the entire structure. He found water ankle deep throughout the building. The ceiling of the President's office was caved in, water covered the floor, and the draperies and wall paper were blackened by smoke and dirtied by streams of water.

Holes had been chopped in the roof by the firemen to get at the flames, and the water pouring in had weakened the ceiling supports and sent the plaster crashing down. This room appeared entirely ruined.

Offices Built in 1903.

The executive offices building was erected in 1903 at the time the interior of the White House itself was remodeled and reconstructed.

Up to the time the executive offices building was erected the offices of the President, his secretary and clerks were in the White House. President Roosevelt persuaded congress to remedy this condition by appropriating $300,000 for the remodeling of the mansion and $65,000 for erecting the adjoining executive offices building.

The executive offices building, only one story high with a basement, was connected with the White House by a still lower structure, resembling an enclosed corridor. To balance the corridor and the executive offices building a long wing was erected to the east of the White House. This wing, fitted with reception rooms and cloak rooms, is used only when the President gives large entertainments.

Several years ago it was found necessary to extend the executive offices building and a new office for the President and a new cabinet room were built on the space that had been used by President Roosevelt as a tennis court.

The last congress appropriated $65,000 for remodeling of the executive offices building and this work was recently finished.

The President's office in the burned building was an oval shaped structure, its walls covered with green burlap. It contained no furniture except the President's desk and chair and two low book cases. Its only ornament was a small pen and ink portrait of Abraham Lincoln which hung on the west wall.

HOOVER LIGHTS CHRISTMAS TREE AS CHILDREN SING

Wishes Nation a Merry Yuletide.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—As head of the American family, President Hoover tonight ushered in the Christmas season by lighting the national community Christmas tree and wishing the whole nation a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

A coast to coast network set up to broadcast the singing of carols carried the President's greetings to radio audiences throughout the country.

As has been the custom of Presidents for the last six years, the President and Mrs. Hoover motored to Sherman square for the tree lighting ceremonies a few moments after dusk. Cabinet officials and other high officers of the government were waiting on the temporary platform beside the community tree, a thirty foot living spruce, when the presidential party arrived.

Singing Opens Program.

After Christmas carols had been sung by Boy and Girl Scouts, led by the United States Marine band, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur delivered a short address in praise of the rapidly growing custom of utilizing living community trees during the holiday season.

Then President Hoover stepped forward and turned an electric switch and the huge tree burst forth in brilliantly colored lights. Almost simultaneously a red flare flashed upward 200 feet toward the clear starlit sky.

Gifts were presented to the President and Mrs. Hoover by Boy and Girl Scouts and then Mr. Hoover stepped impulsively forward.

Gives Nation Greetings.

"May I have the privilege and pleasure," he said, as the master of ceremonies waved the band to silence, "to wish you and the great unseen radio a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year?"

Following the Christmas tree exercises the President and Mrs. Hoover were hosts of the children of the audience that is listening in over the President's immediate official family.

2 "SANTAS" PUT YULE FEASTS IN TEN POOR HOMES

Find 9 Children Hovering About Small Stove.

Last night it didn't look much like a merry Christmas for the Zvronek children, nor for Baby Eileen and her eight brothers and sisters, nor for the dark eyed little Anparo or the Erdlovec urchins—but two TRIBUNE Good Fellows found them in time. And at least it's going to be merrier, if not positively gay.

Most of the ten families the two men had on their list live in that district on the northern fringe of the stockyards area. Most of them live in bare rooms. And the Christmas spirit beamed from little faces as the loaded taxicabs stopped at their doors.

Children in Family.

It was the Shanahan children who rejoiced the most when the baskets with their loads of toys and trinkets had been placed on the table by one Good Fellow. There are nine of them. They were gathered for warmth around one little "monkey" stove in the kitchen of their home on Throop street, and for light they were burning their last candle. It happened to be a Christmas candle. They hadn't had any gas or light for three weeks past, because they couldn't pay.

Baby Eileen, who is only 8 months old and doesn't know that her father has deserted them and that her mother has only the $15 a week salary of the oldest boy with which to feed her flock, crowed and smiled as the visitors admired her blue eyes.

Unfortunately the Good Fellows had turned out their pockets to purchase the articles they brought, together with a whacking big Christmas dinner. So they couldn't help Mrs. Shanahan to get the locks off her gas and light meters. They're hoping some one with better lined pockets will be able to do that today.

Grateful for Presents.

Anparo's parents hail from Mexico, and speak only a few words of English, but their smiles and delighted gestures were plain enough to express gratitude. Anparo was captivated with a toy phonograph that actually plays, "Silent Night, Holy Night," and the lovely strains of the carol streamed after the Good Fellows as they stamped out of the two rooms that served Anparo's family of seven as a home.

The Erdlovec youngsters, too, sat saucer-eyed as their little machine spun merrily round with its records.

A Christmas dinner for each of the ten families went with the toy baskets, but enough need was found in some of the homes, especially that of the Shanahans, to provide good works aplenty for those disposed to help out this Christmas day.

As for the two Good Fellows, each of whom spent $100, the knowledge of the cheer and relief they spread will accentuate the merry Christmas both are enjoying in the midst of their families and at bountifully spread tables.

LIGHTENED SENTENCE IS COURT CHRISTMAS PRESENT TO PRISONER

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24.—(AP)—An aged mother and her son, who was convicted of violating the prohibition law, were given a Christmas present in the form of a lightened sentence for the son by Judge Louis Fitzhenry in federal court here today. In order that Victor Benetti of Staunton may spend Christmas with his mother, Judge Fitzhenry amended the liquor law violator's sentence to payment of a $400 fine and posting of $1,000 bond.

Benetti was sentenced to three months in jail at the October session of court and had served only two months and five days. The man's mother is said to be seriously ill.

CHICAGO OPENS HEART TO POOR IN YULETIDE SPIRIT

Thousands Made Happy at Christmas Parties.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

"Glad tidings of great joy" broke over Chicago last night. And once again a great city turned from mundane things to the spiritual light that streamed from a stable in Bethlehem nearly 2,000 years ago. It was Christmas time again in Chicago—a storm bound, windswept city, but buoyantly joyous at celebrating again the happiest anniversary of the year.

A white Christmas it promised to be, and a white Christmas it is. More snow fell last night and the weather was forecast unsettled and colder weather for today, adding that it would probably become fair by tonight.

Poor of City Rejoice.

All over the city rejoicing was the watchword, and not least in the districts where dwell the poor. Many agencies helped to give these a merry Christmas.

Greatest in the quantity was the mass Christmas party the Salvation Army held yesterday morning at the Coliseum with the proceeds of the day of patient exhortation by the "free kettle brigade." Fifty-five tons of food were prepared in more than 5,000 baskets to be given away with the hundreds of toys. Nearly 15,000 children and their elders attended the party.

Widows and orphans of Chicago policemen were remembered yesterday by Thomas B. Hogan, vice-president of the Yellow Cab company, who sent checks aggregating $2,000 to heads of benevolent associations of the four police departments of the city. Commissioner of Police William F. Russell, Capt. Timothy Howard of the South Park police, Capt. William Stocker of the West Park police and Capt. Charles E. Shaw of the Lincoln park police each received one of the slips, for $500 each.

Gives Turkeys to Employés.

County Treasurer George F. Harding invited the 180 employés on his staff to take their pick of the stock of dressed turkeys he had provided.

M. J. Connelly, chairman of the Eighth Ward National Republican Club Goodfellows, was assisted by a group of the members in distributing baskets yesterday to the poor families of the ward. Finances for the purpose were obtained from a charity ball held at the Trianon ballroom December 3.

The 16th Ward Regular Republican club, of which James W. Breen is committeeman, distributed 450 Christmas baskets to needy families last night.

A Christmas party for Negro poor of the neighborhood was held last night by the Abraham Lincoln Republican club of the 3d ward at Dwight hall, 306 East 43d street.

State Representative Lawrence O'Brien of 1138 North Franklin street furnished "the makings" for a real Christmas for 700 families in that vicinity.

Sidney A. Loeb of the Sherman hotel was host for the twenty-first consecutive year yesterday afternoon to all the children of his acquaintance at a party at the hotel. Music and vaudeville, a "color organ" performance, and a big Christmas dinner were on the program. One hundred small relatives and friends of Mr. Loeb attended.

To Distribute Food.

This morning City Sealer Dan Serritella will start distribution of many baskets to worthy families, from headquarters established at 2606 Wentworth avenue. The work will start about 10:30 o'clock.

Police of the Chicago avenue station, together with the judges and politicians of the district, have made arrangements to take care of 700 people with a Christmas dinner at the station at noon today.

Six hundred more baskets have been prepared by William J. Balmer to be distributed this morning from 9:30 o'clock on, at 63rd street and Eggleston avenue.

Alderman Pacelli of the twentieth ward will head another corps of workers who will send out baskets from 1949 South Halsted street from 11 o'clock on this morning.

A two hour vaudeville program will be given this evening for the disabled war veterans at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital at Maywood through the courtesy of the Radio-Keith Orpheum circuit. An informal parade of police cars will escort the thirty entertainers from the State-Lake building to the hospital. The performance is scheduled for 10 o'clock.

Twenty-five orphan children will be guests of the management of the Washington Pines hotel for a turkey dinner. They then will be taken to a Balaban and Katz theater and each will be presented with a gift.

Good Fellows of the Ravenswood Kiwanis club will gather this morning at Constellation Masonic temple, Damen avenue and Byron street, for a Christmas party for a number of youngsters.

Students of Lake Forest academy will entertain 50 needy boys from the Association house, 2200 West North avenue, with a dinner and entertainment at the academy dining hall today.

One of the happiest gatherings in the city will be the first family reunion in eighteen years of the Kerr family, at the home of Alexander M. Kerr, 1516 Touhy avenue. Those attending will be A. M. Kerr and Robert G. Kerr of Chicago, Mrs. Elizabeth Kerr Foster and Miss Helen Kerr of Beloit, Wis.; Andrew A. Kerr of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and John R. Kerr of Monmouth, Ill.

Carolers, singly and in groups, have added vastly to the general spirit of good will that has animated Chicago during the holiday season by singing the old Christmas songs. One such group, the Postal Telegraph Messengers' Glee club, gathered at noon yesterday at the La Salle street Y. M. C. A. for a short program, and went from there to the Postal Telegraph building and the Insurance Exchange.

At the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company the halls rang to the echoes of carols sung by vested choirs of three west side churches—St. Leonard's boy choristers of Berwyn, Hope church girls' choir, and St. Patrick's boys' choir. The Hawthorne Men's Glee club also sang.

More than 400 members of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school celebrated Christmas eve last night with an old time program of carols and recitations at the Chicago temple.

Reports from railroads with Chicago terminals indicate that the city is host this year to the largest number of Christmas visitors in its history. C. A. Cairns, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago and North Western road, said 14 Christmas eve trains were run in two or more sections from California and Colorado.

Between 20 and 30 overflow cars and Pullmans were used on other trains of one section each, Mr. Cairns said.

CHICAGO MAKES NEW RECORD FOR CHRISTMAS MAIL

A new record for Christmas mail handled by the Chicago postoffice was assured yesterday when it was estimated that between four and five million pieces of letter mail and more than 1,000 tons of parcel post above last year's record already had passed through the postoffice. In addition, Postmaster Lueder was expecting an unprecedented rush of post-Christmas mail during the last half of this week.

"The blizzard of last Wednesday and Thursday and an unusual delay on the part of holiday mailers means that the Christmas rush will not end this year, as is usual, with Christmas day," he said.

AIR MAIL PILOT BLINDED BY SNOW, HURT IN CRASH

Michigan City, Ind., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Thomas Hill, Kalamazoo, Mich., mail pilot, carrying mail from Chicago to Cleveland, was blinded in a snowstorm and crashed his plane near here late tonight. He was seriously injured and is not expected to live.

Hill, piloting a cabined monoplane carrying seven sacks of mail, dropped flares about the countryside, the first one being noticed about 11 p. m.

The plane was found soon after the crash, with Hill caught beneath the wreckage. He was taken to a farmhouse in a bobsled to await the arrival of an ambulance to bring him to Michigan City.

GOOD FELLOWS PLAY SANTA TO 22,000 CHILDREN

Christmas Joy Reigns in Homes of Poor.

VISITED BY SANTA

BY RUTH M. DE YOUNG.

Merry Christmas! It rang through the dismal rooms and the barren walls echoed the greeting as the Good Fellows took heaping baskets of toys and books and boxes filled with a real holiday dinner yesterday to destitute homes on the southwest side. Families with 10 or 11 children, which had been visited by sickness and unemployment in the last year, were huddled into one or two rooms, and the Good Fellows' mission convinced them that there was a Santa Claus.

Little, curly headed brown eyed Johnnie, an 8 year old cripple, beamed with delight as he unpacked the fire engine and jumping jack.

"And here is Frankie, and Bobbie's in the cradle!" he exclaimed. "Betty was just taken to the hospital. Papa's out of work and mother's sick."

Still he beamed. Despite hardships, he was happy—at last!

"Still there is hope. God bless you and keep you," was the farewell of a haggard little woman, the mother of 11 children, none of whom was old enough to work. Down on West Taylor street, in the second floor rear of a tumbledown frame building, they lived, without food, clothing, or furniture, and with only a small wood stove to keep them warm. But the Good Fellows had remembered them and given them renewed hope.

Sonny Boy, the baby in a fatherless family of ten, shouted his last greeting, "'Appy New Year, Santy Claus!"

TOYS CHEER CHILDREN

BY BETTY O'NEIL.

Our first stop was at a rickety frame house. There were seven children ranging from 2 to about 12 years huddled in one room. They were engaged in stringing beads which had been given to their father. There was virtually no furniture in their four small rooms, but the place was comfortably warm.

The youngsters beamed with delight as the toys were distributed. They held their gifts as the food was opened, and when the turkey was reached the mother, who was unable to speak English, tried to make us understand that she had no pan in which to cook it. My companion gave the money to purchase one. As we left the family in chorus wished us a merry Christmas.

Our next stop was at a Mexican home in Vernon Park place. Poverty and sickness made this home a pitiful sight. Three children are in the county hospital with pneumonia and four children have died within three years. The father has had little work in the last few months. When the gifts were opened the mother said she would take some of them to the hospital.

Our last visit was to the basement of a frame flat. We were greeted at the door by a little boy and girl who had had little hope of a visit from Santa. It did us good to see the little boy's eyes when he opened the box to find a fire engine. His little sister began immediately to play with her doll. Their father is a truck driver who has had little work lately.

The children told us their mother was going out to try and get them a Christmas tree and on the floor of the scantily furnished flat we saw a few pieces of tinsel to be used for decorations.

GET WILD WELCOME

BY ELEANOR NANGLE.

In a home on South Wentworth avenue the Good Fellows got a wild welcome. Eight little darkies flashed their bright eyes and stretched their little red mouths wide in yells of delight. Lafayette, who is 6, was entranced with the red fire engines; Lucinda and Corinne scrambled for the dolls and bright colored toys. The others, old enough to be sedate or too young to do more than coo at our overflowing baskets contented themselves with gasps and squeals. The gentle eyed mother viewed the toys with milder enthusiasm. The food engrossed her. Hunger has stalked her family for months; her husband has been out of work.

The next family we visited was even more poverty stricken. It consists of a widow with four children, all clothed in rags and with no food nor coal in the house. The youngest child, Violet, is 17 months old, a pitiful little mite whose legs are withered from infantile paralysis.

In a rear basement on East 44th street we found a family with nine children, the youngest a 3 months old baby, who slumbered in a broken down Morris chair propped with pillows and pieces of blanket. The father deserted the family in April.

GIRL CLUTCHES DOLL

BY ANNA NANGLE.

When we arrived at a home on West 13th street, we realized the joy that a visit from the Good Fellows brings. To watch little Mary clutch a gayly dressed doll to her hungry little heart—to see baby brother Bobby cooing happily over a wobbly little duck—to hear them talk of playing at fireman with the little red trucks and of blowing soap bubbles with the clay pipe, was to realize what real happiness is.

Watching the brown eyes of the children of a family in South Wallace street open wide as their mother drew a fat turkey, oranges, apples, sugar and numerous other luxuries from the seemingly unlimited supply in the big brown box, we saw their world changed completely—the dingy little home had taken on the brightness of the holiday.

WAITING FOR SANTA

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Our Good Fellow baskets went to the back of the yards district. In the first cottage we visited nine youngsters were gathered about a bit of a Christmas tree hung with wisps of tinsel and bits of colored paper. The younger ones were waiting for Santa Claus with unwavering faith, even though mother had said that Santa was getting very old and she didn't believe he'd be able to make the trip this year.

They pounced on the toy basket. The prettiest doll was handed to 5 year old Catherine who was crippled with infantile paralysis. Jimmy seated himself astride the bright red fire engine and whooped.

We trudged through the snow for a half dozen blocks or more to a basement. The poverty of despair stared out at us through the dull eyes of six children and their mother. The children, ranging from 6 to 12 years, were barefooted. They were wrapped in rags.

We had a basket left over after our assigned trips, so we went to Lieut. George Teeling of the Maxwell police station. "One?" said Lieut. Teeling, "I could give you a thousand. There's a colored woman here right now looking for help. She has a flock of youngsters and they're actually starving." We took the woman home. The five little ones swarmed over the toy basket and into the box of food. There wasn't a penny in the house.

CHRISTMAS PARDON RECEIVED AFTER 25 YEARS IN SING SING

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—Emil Totterman, the oldest prisoner in Sing Sing in point of service, was released today after spending 25 years behind the bars. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt pardoned him.

Totterman was not penniless when the gray gates opened for him, nor was he at a loss for a home in which to spend the first Christmas day outside prison in a quarter of a century.

Officials revealed that he received a check for $1,080.50 which he had on deposit in Sing Sing, as well as $44.68 for "wages" paid him at the rate of a cent and a half a day. The check represented for the most part a monthly pension of $50 given him by the government for service in the Spanish-American war.

Friends from northern Westchester were waiting for him outside the gates and he left to celebrate Christmas at their home.

"I'm going back to Finland," he said, "as soon as I can. I have a sister there. What I will do to earn a living I don't know. But I'm leaving this country for good."

Totterman, now 54 years old, was sentenced to death in 1904 after he was convicted of the murder of Sarah Martin in a Manhattan hotel. He never admitted the crime, and because of his good record during the Spanish-American war his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

SAD CHRISTMAS IN OHIO HOME OF VANISHED BOY

Orrville, O., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Tonight in this little town a Christmas tree stands, unlighted, in its cheerless corner—a tree of tragedy. Its symbolism of laughter and good cheer has been shorn, even as its green needles have withered and fallen, undisturbed, to the floor. And as each dead needle has fluttered downward another heartache has been impounded.

Tonight the tree that a year ago basked in the childish Christmas joy of a happy, carefree 4 year old boy now reflects the dry eyed grief of the parents of that boy, who vanished three days after the bit of spruce was erected for him. Dry eyes because the tears have long since been drained to the depths.

Melvin Horst loved that tree. It was the first time he really realized what Christmas meant. But his joy was short lived, for on Dec. 27, while his tree was still bright with colored candles, Melvin disappeared from the back yard of his home, where he had gone to play with new toys.

Perhaps tonight he is dead—even as his beloved tree has died waiting his return. No word has come from him. Frantic search has failed. The earth might have opened and claimed him for all the trace he left in his unwilling going.

A light burned in that living room tonight. It has burned for a year, throwing its flickering shadows on the Christmas tree which the mother of Melvin murmurs will stand as a beacon, as a memorial of love until her last born comes home—in life or in death.

IF HOLIDAY RUM HAS BUM FLAVOR, THERE'S A REASON

Real Liquor Is Scarce Because of Blizzard.

The flaming brandy on thousands of Christmas puddings in Chicago homes today will probably be colored alcohol; the cocktails with which many will whet their appetites before dinner will be made with bad gin; the odds are ten to one that the choice liqueurs many a proud host will serve were manufactured in Melrose Park.

This picture was painted yesterday by a wholesale bootlegger whose boast is that he has never sold a drop of other than genuine stock. He said there was a scarcity of good liquor in this district at present and a flood of cheap, locally manufatcured stuff.

Truck Deliveries Cease.

"The recent blizzard blocked the roads and stopped truck deliveries of choice liquor to Chicago," this man said. "A week ago there was plenty of genuine liquor here for current consumption. But now that is all used and the sources won't be open again for a few days. It seems that most people waited till the last minute to lay in their Christmas supply, and they waited too long and the good liquor is gone.

"The stock market crash spoiled the high grade liquor market. Many men who paid the highest prices a year ago are now buying the cheaper, rot article."

Among the labels on the cheaper grades of whisky, imported here from Florida, are Indian Hill, Old Crowe, and Father Time, the liquor authority said. A grade known as "Old 99" which has gained wide circulation in the last week was pointed to as a particularly atrocious example of what happens when whisky is diluted with alcohol until only a lingering memory of the original Bourbon is left.

"You'll hear a lot of fairy tales from the bootleggers," said the wholesaler. "Right now a story is going about that a cruiser has just docked with 500 cases. You'll hear other stories about airplanes bringing in the stuff. All bunk.

Good Liquor Comes from Canada.

"Good liquor comes here from Canada by way of Detroit, and the local dealer can't make a profit unless he charges at least $85 a case. Other shipments come in carload lots from Boston, and the price is equally high. Any whisky offered at less than $85 a case must be doctored or the bootlegger loses on the deal. And I never yet met a philanthropist in this business."

Some of the good Bourbon in Chicago is being sold at from $85 to $90 a case. There is some ten year old American Bonrbon at $145 a case.

WINS ALIMONY

MRS. ANNE YOUMANS.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Temporary alimony of $150 a week, and $1,500 counsel fees were awarded today to Mrs. Anne Youmans, wife of Vincent Youmans, composer and producer, by Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Callahan, pending trial of her suit for separation. She had asked $500 a week.

Youmans contended that they made a separation agreement on June 28, 1927, whereby she was to go to Reno for a divorce and receive $50 a week for herself and $50 more if there were any children. She maintained that the agreement was voided because they continued living together the day after it was signed and he did not keep up his payments.

The next August twins were born and he agreed to give her $150 a week, she said, but stopped these regular payments last June. Since then, she charges, he has given her only $800.

They were married in February, 1927.

Steps in Front of Train; Note Tells Funeral Choice

Frank Sagi, 55 years old, 2012 North Sayre avenue, stepped in front of a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific train at Grand and Oak Park avenues, Oak Park, yesterday, and was killed instantly. A note in his pocket directed finders of his body to remove him to a mortuary at 6883 Fullerton avenue, which was done. His friends told the Cragin police Sagi had long been ill.

MEAT MARKET ROBBED.

Two armed men last night robbed Albert Jochum of $20 in his meat market at 1870 North Halsted street. They also took $6 from Ben Wasserman, a clerk.

CHRISTMAS EVE BLAZES KEEP FIREMEN BUSY

Blast Routs Cafe Crowd; Gas Overcomes Clerk.

Three 4-11 alarms in quick succession kept the fire department on the jump last night when fire crews were anticipating a quiet Christmas eve.

A mysterious explosion in the two story brick quarters of the Jersey Auto Salvage corporation, 2123 South Wabash avenue, blasted out the walls and started a fire that demolished the next two buildings south, destroyed 15 automobiles, and caused a damage officially estimated at $100,000.

The blast showered automobile accessories in Wabash avenue and shattered windows in Colosimo's restaurant, across the street at 2128 South Wabash avenue. Seventy-five diners fled from the restaurant, believing it had been bombed.

Fifteen thousand gallons of paint in the salvage company's plant furnished fuel which sent the flames sweeping through the Wabash Auto Laundry company, 2125 South Wabash avenue, and the Millar Brothers' auction house, 2127 South Wabash avenue. The roofs of both these structures collapsed.

Fumes Overcome Clerk.

Two hours earlier a blaze in the film inspection room of the Advance Trailer Service corporation, on the eighth floor at 845 South Wabash avenue, destroyed films worth $15,000, inflicted serious burns on a stenographer, and spread poisonous fumes which overcame a clerk.

Dorothy Harries, 6938 South Park avenue, was sealing Christmas packages when some hot wax dropped on a scrap of waste film. The resulting blaze licked over the floor to the film vault, from which a burst of fire issued. Nick Kutnik, 19 years old, a shipping clerk, of 758 Bunker street, plunged through the smoke and slammed the steel door of the vault.

Kutnik collapsed while groping for a fire extinguisher. Ethel Cjez, 19 years old, a stenographer, of 1616 South Hamlin avenue, was burned about the face, hands and shoulders when she re-entered the blazing room to get her fur coat.

Loren Smith, 22 years old, employé of the Vitaphone corporation in an adjacent office, carried out Kutnik.

Fire Blockades Traffic.

In the interval between the two Wabash avenue fires a 4-11 alarm brought twenty companies to the plant of the Perfection Manufacturing company, 2269 Clybourn avenue. Fire of unknown origin spread through stored varnish and wrecked the second floor of the structure with a damage estimated at $50,000 by Fire Marshall Corrigan. Traffic at the intersection of Clybourn avenue and Halsted street was blocked for an hour.

WHOOPEE! PARIS GAY AND WET ON CHRISTMAS EVE

Champagne, Food, Then Food and Champagne.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 24.—Paris is passing the wettest and gayest, if not the most expensive, Christmas eve since the war.

Heedless of the soaring prices, the Parisian has fallen to with great gusto to keep up the tradition that makes Christmas eve in France what New Year's eve is in the Anglo-Saxon world. So great is the demand for champagne, from the aristocratic Heidsieck and Veuve Cliquot, at $2 a bottle, and the humbler stuff at 60 cents, that the cellars of many wine shops went dry this evening.

Trucks from the big wine depots have been called out to rush bottled reserves, but the traffic tangles are such that many a thirsty Frenchman will have to console himself with sparkling white wines, like Vouvray or Asti Supmante, in place of the national beverage.

Price of a Good Meal $4.

There is no shortage of champagne reported by the thousands of restaurants in town, which are serving classic Reveillon at prices ranging from $2 in the merely decent places to $10 and $15 in the swank establishments, like Ciros.

The average price for a gorgeous meal of oysters, lobster, roast meat, some fancy fowl, and a lot of indigestible desserts is around $4 in the first class restaurants. This is exclusive, of course, of a good bottle of Bordeaux or Burgundy, bringing $1.20, and champagne, from $2.40 to $4.

France had no Wall street crash. Unemployment is practically nonexistent and economists, in drawing up the annual reports, predict that France again will top all the other countries of the world on the point of prosperity. Prices are going up by leaps and bounds and the middle classes of Paris are undoubtedly hard put to make both ends shy howdedoo. But the department stores and the luxury shops report an orgy of pre-Christmas spending, and if traffic jams mean anything in the shopping districts they confirm these reports.

Turkey is the only food which has not gone up in price. Hard times in England have resulted in car loads of birds being turned back to be thrown on the market of Paris. More than 600 tons have been sold in the last 30 hours at 20 cents a pound.

Chicken, rabbit, goose and duck are all higher. Oysters are out of sight at $8 a dozen, but the choice "Belons" and "Marennes," although a scorned but tasteful Portuguese variety, can be bought for 12 cents, and snails for 25 cents a dozen. Lobster is 50 cents a pound and trout is over a dollar a pound.

And yet Paris is passing a wild night in which the midnight masses in all the great churches constitute only an interlude between food and champagne and more food and more champagne. The Montmartre night clubs are full to capacity. The Americans are doing their stuff there.

HOLY RUSSIA'S BELLS SILENT; CHRISTMAS JUST THIRD DAY OF TOIL

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 24.—Moscow, the city of church bells, Moscow, the capital of "Holy Russia," has no Christmas day this year, no holiday, no trees nor feasting, and no special services in churches or chapels. Christmas is but the third day in the new "unbroken working week" which, only introduced a few months ago, has found favor with the masses.

Movie shows, skating rinks, theaters and other forms of amusement are so limited and the city population's living quarters so crowded that the universal week-end holiday had more drawbacks than charms, whether one went out or stayed at home.

The new system has reduced unemployment and increased production. According to the Industrial Gazette 35 per cent of industry is now on the unbroken week basis, which will become universal by the end of next year. From the religious angle the population seems little disturbed. The Greek church had lost its hold on the urban masses.

CHRISTMAS—ITS SPIRIT CAPTURES ALL THE WORLD

Von Hindenburg Gives Gifts.

BERLIN, Dec. 24.—(AP)—President von Hindenburg celebrated Christmas eve in the closest of family circles at the executive mansion, from which even other officers of the government were barred. With almost youthful ardor, the 82 year old president actively distributed the gifts piled under a brilliant Christmas tree among his eight grandchildren.

As a result of the decree which closed all shops this year at 5 p. m., Berlin at an early hour assumed a quiet and almost provincial aspect which was enhanced because the sudden advent of a cold wave caused an unprecendented exodus of people for winter sports in the Silesian, Thuringian and Hars mountains.

Bells Peal in Rome.

ROME, Dec. 25 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The pealing of bells in most of Rome's 400 churches ushered in Christmas at midnight [5 p. m., Chicago time] ranging from solemn and deep in tone to light and joyous. The chimes kept up for a good hour, while the chanting of the midnight masses began in the presence of great congregations, including many foreigners.

As for many years past, one of the best attended of these nocturnal services was that at Santa Maria Maggiore [St. Mary Major], the imposing basilica on the Esquiline hill, which is said to possess a relic of the original cradle in which the new-born Christ was laid. That precious relic in a silver setting was this evening displayed for public veneration.

Admission to the church was by ticket, and many would-be worshipers there were turned away.

After the religious functions, formal and informal supper parties were the order of the night throughout the city and there were concerts of sacred music in some of the big hotels and in the private homes of the wealthy. Today will be the children's day and many will visit the toy and candy fair in the Piazza Navona, near the Tiber.

Florence Has Unique Celebration.

FLORENCE, Italy, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Florence, the city of flowers, celebrated Christmas eve tonight in a fashion typically and traditionally Florentine.

After 6 p. m. the streets were jammed with persons, who wandered from one square to another, laughing and shouting to one another.

The Florentines do not believe in doing their Christmas shopping early. They wait until Christmas eve, and at 8 o'clock the crowd on the sidewalks and streets was so great that it interfered seriously with vehicular traffic. For three hours the people marched about with no fixed destination in mind, and then they all went home, leaving the streets temporarily deserted. Three-quarters of an hour later the streets were magically filled again by crowds on their way to the midnight masses.

Spain Shops Late.

MADRID, Dec. 24.—(AP)—"Noche Buena" tonight found work-a-day Spain given over to celebration and last minute Christmas shopping as old and young thronged the streets of the capital and other municipalities in preparation for tomorrow's observance. Many coaches suspended operation in Madrid and Christmas eve trains ran on limited schedules.

Cold Yule in Havana.

HAVANA, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Cuba prepared today for the annual visit of Santa Claus with redecked spruce trees and holiday cheer. For the first time in ten years Havana and western Cuba will have cold weather this Yuletide. Weather forcasts are for "a real cold Christmas day."

95 in Shade in Brazil.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Scores of juvenile delinquents were able to place their shoes and hang up their stockings in front of the chimneys at home tonight through the action of Judge Mello Mattos, who authorized parents to take them home for Christmas day and return them to the court's jurisdiction later.

Rio de Janeiro began celebrating Christmas eve in a downpour of tropical rain that somewhat lessened the heat of the last few days. Americans living in Brazil had the untusual experience of preparing for Christmas with the mercury at 95 in the shade. There have been several cases of heat stroke in the city streets recently, and all those who could escaped to the beaches.

Hoover Grants Christmas Pardon to Rum Convict

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 24.—(AP)—A message from President Hoover today was instrumental in gaining Christmas freedom for Andy Palmer, 71, who was serving a liquor law sentence in the county jail here. Recommendation for Palmer's release was made by a physician and the President directed that the federal court fine be remitted.

LINER LEVIATHAN ARRIVES AT N. Y. 30 HOURS LATE

Ship to Shore Telephone Calls Are Heavy.

New York, Dec. 24.—[Special.]—The Leviathan of the United States Lines arrived today from Southampton and Cherbourg thirty hours late, due to a series of mishaps which began with the fracture in her plates on the starboard side forward, on Dec. 11 when the vessel was eastbound, and ended with fog off the Ambrose channel lightship, Monday night.

Because of this delay many of the passengers will not be able to reach their homes in the south and west for Christmas.

One hundred thirty-six commercial calls from ship to shore went by the wireless telephone system when the distance was 2,400 miles. Most of the calls were made when the Leviathan was 1,600 miles from New York. The heaviest traffic was on Monday.

Experimental Stage Over.

The telephone service which was tried out by the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Leviathan has proven so successful that the system is to be installed on other ships.

"In only a few months," J. L. R. Van Meter, head of the commercial traffic department of the A. T. and T. said today, "we expect to install the service on other ships. The experimental stage is over. It is now a matter of development. We will use the Leviathan's plant as a laboratory."

Returns Home After 13 Years.

Among the passengers was Lady Ribblesdale, mother of Vincent Astor, who came to spend Christmas with her son after an absence of thirteen years from her native land. Lady Ribblesdale said she had not felt well on the voyage as she recently had recovered from an operation. Mr. Astor, who boarded the ship at the pier said he was going to take his mother south after Christmas in his new yacht, the Noormahal.

MEXICAN BEAUTY IS HELD IN DEATH OF STATE DEPUTY

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Closely following the acquittal of Maria Teresa de Landa, "Miss Mexico" at the Galveston beauty pageant in 1928, on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting of her bigamous husband, Gen. Moises Vidal, another beauty queen, Sara Velarde, has been accused of a similar crime.

Miss Velarde, selected last year as the most beautiful girl in San Luis Potosi, was taken into custody following discovery of the body of Timoteo B. Guerrero, state deputy, with a dagger in the heart, lying in a hotel room in the state capital.

Reports from San Luis Potosi said Guerrero took a room in a hotel there with Miss Velarde, and after his body was found the next morning the girl was apprehended trying to escape. She denied having killed him, saying he committed suicide.

Jews Charge Unfairness by British in Palestine Quiz

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

JERUSALEM, Dec. 24.—The Jewish case came to a dramatic close at today's hearing of the Palestine inquiry commission when Sir Boyd Merriman, counsel for the Jews, charged that the British government was unsympathetic toward the Jewish national home policy in Palestine. He cited the leniency of the commission's counsel, Mr. Preedy, in examining Arab witnesses, while "most hostile questions" were put to Jewish witnesses.

TEACHERS RUSH TO SHOPS WITH BELATED CHECKS

12,793 School Employes Paid in 11th Hour.

Chicago's army of 12,793 school teachers and other school employés hurried to do their holiday shopping in the last few hours of Christmas eve, following the distribution of belated pay checks yesterday afternoon in the 360 public schools.

Shortly after noon a fleet of taxicabs under a police escort set out from the school board offices at 140 West Randolph street. In the cabs were paymasters taking bundles of checks to the eighteen district school superintendents scattered throughout the city. Waiting at the district offices were the school principals, who in turn went to their schools and delivered the Christmas salaries to the teachers and employés.

All Paid by 5 P. M.

Superintendent Bogan, who planned the method of distribution, last night said the last of the checks were in the teachers' hands by 5 o'clock. Thus ended another of the frequent last minute scrambles by the board of education to pay its employes.

The salaries, due last Friday, were finally paid after the school trustees found a plan Monday evening whereby they could borrow the needed $3,100,000, from the school building fund under arrangements made with the Central Trust company and Halsey, Stuart & Co., who last summer loaned the board $40,725,000 for the building fund.

School officials had planned to distribute the checks yesterday morning, but the delay, it was explained by the school attorneys, was due to the formalities of the transaction. The checks were delivered too late, however, for those who had abandoned hope and left to spend their vacations out of the city.

It was reported that many school teachers waited in the school buildings, with temperatures as low as 50 degrees, for more than four hours.

Having met the present pay roll the school treasury now holds a total of $165,443. Inasmuch as there is more indebtedness, amounting to $663,900, and including teachers' pensions and other bills, it is apparent that the school trustees must begin searching immediately for another loan.

The board will meet on Friday afternoon to consider means of meeting its outstanding financial obligations.

RUM SMUGGLERS DON SHEETS, DRAG SLEDS ACROSS ICE AND SNOW

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Ghosts are walking once more on the Detroit river.

Customs officers reported today that down river rum runners are resorting to "ghost walking" tactics. This discovery was made yesterday on Beaubien bay, off Ecorse, when a sled loaded with 10 cases of liquor was seized.

"Ghost walking" consists of covering one's self and one's sled load of liquor with a sheet and then setting out for the American shore. Against the ice and snow the white robed cargo is practically invisible. Yesterday customs officers heard some one walking on the ice off Ecorse. They investigated and found the sled. Footprints and other markings in the snow told officers that the rum runner had fled, trailing his sheets behind him.

Hungry Porto Rico Babies Receive $2,000 from U. S.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Returning today from New York Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, wife of the governor, brought more than $2,000 given her in the United States for the Golden Rule fund for hungry children in the island.

VALLS REFUSES TO RESIGN TO PACIFY MEXICO

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 24.—(AP)—District Attorney John A. Valls of Laredo, whose attempts to arrest Plutarco Elias Calles were followed by closing of the Mexican consulate here, issued a 1,000 word statement today repeating that "the innocent" have nothing to fear from him, and that he will not resign in order to bring about reopening of the consulate.

His statement, he said, was in answer to the statement of Genaro Estrada, Mexican foreign affairs minister, who wired the local chamber of commerce that conditions must be made safe for Mexican officials in Laredo before the consulate can be reopened.

Nationality Disregarded.

"The Mexican government," Valls said, "insists as a basis for removal of reprisals imposed on Laredo that I resign or dismiss charges against Calles and promise not to molest Mexican citizens in the future. My answer is the Mexican government is an impudent intruder and will not be permitted to exercise any rights of sovereignty in my district. I will continue to prosecute all violators of the law, regardless of nationality.

"The only regrettable incident in this whole affair is the sad spectacle of American soldiers acting as military escort to fugitives from justice."

Brands Charges False.

Calles was protected by an armed guard when his train passed through Laredo.

Valls said the charges made by Genaro Estrada that Mexican citizens are unduly molested were "utterly and detestably false."

"To hospitable and chivalrous citizens of Mexico," the statement continued, "I not only bid a cordial welcome, but I assure them their honor, their lives and property will receive greater protection here than in their own country."

IT'S A GLOOMY CHRISTMAS FOR DRUGGAN-LAKE

Beer Kings' Property Goes in U. S. Coffers Friday.

Santa Claus has nothing pleasant in store for Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, for he will bring them only a prospect that their $35,000 equity in the Standard Brewing company and other Cook county property, and also Druggan's estate near Miami, Fla., once appraised at $200,000, are to disappear into government coffers next Friday.

Myrtle Tanner Blackidge, collector of internal revenue in this district, has scheduled the Florida property for auction this week to settle part of a delinquent income tax bill of $517,342 which the government claims the former beer partners owe.

Compromise Offers Spurned.

Druggan and Lake, through their counsel, Capt. William F. Waugh, have staved off the auction of the Chicago properties by posting an $85,000 bond. The government has rejected all offers of compromise, including a recent offer of $110,000 which was disclosed yesterday.

Robert E. Neely, chief deputy in the department of internal revenue here, said last night that no new compromise offer had been considered by the government.

According to Mrs. Blackidge and Mr. Neely, the government will be satisfied with nothing less than a complete settlement, and if the tax collectors find that Druggan and Lake haven't the half million necessary to square matters, they are going to take all the gangsters' property they can find.

Valued at Millions.

In the years of their beer prosperity Druggan and Lake are said to have owned five breweries worth upward of $2,000,000, a valuable Oak Park home, an estate at Lake Zurich valued at about $150,000 and stocked with blooded cattle, horses and chickens, and the Miami Beach estate valued during the boom at $200,000.

It is now said that $20,000 is the limit which the government can expect from auction of the Florida property, and that any transaction concerning the west side brewery will put a white elephant in the government's hands.

FIRE SWEEPS LOFT DRESS SHOP.

Fire, believed to have originated in an overheated electric burner, swept through the Charmaine Dress shop, 6 West Washington street, early yesterday, destroying stocks which the owner, Louis Bubis, valued at $[illegible].

DOES SANTA SMOKE? QUESTION RAISED BY PROTEST AGAINST AD

Battle Creek, Mich., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Does Santa Claus smoke?

The matter was made a question of official importance last night when Walter H. Hoshal, superintendent of the Calhoun County Council of Religious Education, protested to the city commission against advertisements showing a corpulent St. Nicholas with a cigar in his mouth.

Mr. Hoshal said: "To mislead children into believing that the symbol of the Christmas spirit should smoke is to flaunt the sacred memories of childhood."

The commission passed the matter along to the city attorney.

Mayor William P. Penty said he had observed that men riding in the cold do not seem to get much enjoyment out of smoking and that accordingly he does not believe Santa Claus will be puffing a stogie as he makes his rounds tonight.

TURKEY OBSERVES CHRISTMAS AS A DAY OF ECONOMY

ANGORA, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Christmas day, a day of gifts and merriment for the Christian world, will this year be Turkey's day of grim national economy.

The Turkish government has named Dec. 25 as national savings day to instill notions of economy in the luxury loving Turkish people. The savings day is part of the government's program for extricating Turkey from impending economic disaster.

The Angora Industrial bank will give a tea party tomorrow to Turkish mothers and school teachers, in order to outline methods of teaching economy to the youth of the country. Speeches and publications throughout the nation will be devoted to the same purpose, and Christmas day will henceforth be celebrated annually as national economy day.

One of the government schemes for household economy is the replacement of the traditional Turkish coffee with linden tea, a product of the Anatolian soil.

MOTHER OF SEVEN GETS 15 MONTHS' DRY SENTENCE

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Bootka, 52, the mother of seven children, today was sentenced by federal Judge Albert L. Reeves to serve fifteen months in the women's Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., for violation of the prohibition law.

Sentence was passed following a raid last night in which police said they found four pints of whisky in the Bootka home. Mrs. Bootka was arrested by federal officers last May but sentence was suspended at that time.

HOOVER'S CRIME EXPERTS IGNORE CRY FOR REPORT

Expect to Work Year in Complete Silence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—Demands by dry Democrats in the senate for a report from President Hoover's law enforcement commission, dealing especially with its prohibition law findings, were reiterated today, but indications were that they will bring no immediate response.

Senator William J. Harris [Dem., Ga.], outstanding senate prohibitionist, who yesterday called for the ouster of Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick of Los Angeles, called at the White House today, presumably to discuss McCormick's recent statement denouncing "governmental lawlessness" and "third degree methods" in enforcing the dry law. Following the White House conference, Harris renewed his criticism.

Incensed at Delay.

"The two principal things I criticized," Senator Harris said, "were the secret hearings and the delay in sending a report to congress, so that the appropriations committee, of which I am a member, could have the information to help us in determining the amount needed for further appropriation.

"I think the commission should have reported before any member made a statement that looked as though he were opposed to the prohibition enforcement law. This was what I criticized in Judge McCormick."

Senator Harris added that he did not think there was any dispute between himself and Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], who previously had joined with him in demanding a report, but who yesterday said he did not concur in the demand for Judge McCormick's ouster.

IT IS WELL SAID — THE TEARS OF A PRETTY WOMAN ARE THE TEARS OF THE PURSE —
SIDNEY SMITH
CHING CHOW
Copyright, 1929, by The Chicago Tribune.

Strikes Regretful Note.

"I am sure Senator Glass did not mean his statement as a defense of those who opposed the enforcement law," Harris continued. "I am afraid it was accepted that way. Senator Glass' statement, while seemingly a defense of the views of Judge McCormick expressed in Los Angeles, really coincides with mine as to the need, for an impartial report. I did not think Judge McCormick's statement was impartial and that is why I criticized it. I thought his statement coincident with the views of those opposed to the prohibition enforcement law."

Borah Isn't Interested.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], another dry leader, expressed the opinion that a report from the crime commission would be of little value in obtaining better dry law enforcement conditions. What is needed, he said, is an improvement in the personnel of enforcement officers.

"If the commission report," Borah said, "they will not tell us anything we do not know, either as to the law or as to the facts. We still will be back to the proposition that with the present personnel nothing will be accomplished. I am very much more interested in the kind of officials which we are to have—district attorneys, marshals, sheriffs and enforcement officers generally."

The belief prevailing at the commission's office is that the demands for a report will be ignored, at least for the present. If a report is issued, it was said, it will be only a preliminary statement to the effect that the prohibition law is being studied.

Wants at Least a Year.

It has been understood that the crime commission expects to take a year or more to complete its studies and that it does not propose to make any recommendations for a long time to come. Attention was called to Mr. Wickersham's announcement of June 7, when he said:

"We are not working in a way in which the heads of departments are working from day to day, passing on administrative matters which can be made the subject of a statement. We have the problem of inquiring into the conditions of crime; the existence of crime; the existing conditions in the enforcement of crime laws; it is very much like the problem of a chemist who is called upon to analyze some subject. Until we can get reasonably reliable facts, the commission can serve no purpose by making statements."

Hires Lots of Experts.

In conforming with this policy, the commission has set about the task of fact assembling by securing the services of a large array of experts. Since June 7 at least a dozen experts in various phases of crime have been retained and set to work. Meanwhile the members of the commission have met about once a month but always behind closed doors.

In granting funds for the work of the commission, congress specified that the President "shall report the result of such investigation to the congress, together with his recommendations with respect thereto." It is admitted that if the drys choose to persist in their demands for a report they could exert pressure by blocking appropriations for the commission after next June. Congress appropriated $250,000 for the fiscal year 1929 and 1930.

XMAS IN ARCTIC SADDENED; FIVE FLYERS MISSING

Speed Hunt for Eielson, but Fear Worst.

BULLETIN.

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Fears for the safety of Pilot Bill Graham and his two passengers, W. B. Miller and R. B. Julian, who hopped off a week ago for Elephant point on Kotzebue sound, north of Nome, were set at rest today when Pilots Dorbandt and Cope reported them safe at their destination. Dorbandt and Cope took off from Teller yesterday to search for the party.

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Celebration of Christmas eve in this far north community was saddened by a feleing of deep concern for the safety of five men who have disappeared in the fog and snowstorm of Bering strait. The early nightfall of another day of watching and waiting found Nome residents hoping for good news on the morrow but fearing the worst.

No word had been received from the ice bound trading ship Nanuk, frozen in at North cape, Siberia, where Pilots Harold Gillam and Joe Crosson have established a temporary base in their search for their brother aviators, Carl Ben Eellson, hero of the airplane flight over the arctic "blind spot," and Earl Borland, his mechanician.

Three Others Missing.

Neither had any word been received at settlements on Kotzebue sound, where Pilot Bill Graham and his two passengers, R. B. Julian and W. B. Miller, disappeared a week ago on a flight to Elephant Point. Elephant Point is north of Nome, across the Seward peninsula. Julian and Miller were to join a reindeer drive at that point.

Eielson and Borland had been missing since Nov. 9, when they flew from Teller, north of Nome, out over fog choked Bering strait toward Siberia. The missing men had thirty days' food and were well equipped to take care of themselves if they came down safely, but would have perished of exposure if they were injured in a forced landing in an uninhabited region.

Three cabin planes, manned by six Canadian aviators, were due in Seward late tonight or tomorrow. From Seward the planes will be taken by train to Fairbanks, to be assembled for the 500 mile flight to Nome.

Meanwhile the best pilots in Alaska had been massed at Nome and Teller to help in the hunt.

Hope for Russian Help.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Word was awaited out of the frozen north tonight telling that trained men and dog teams had been ordered across the ice and snow off the Siberian coast to the rescue of Lieut. Eielson and his mechanic, Carl Borland.

Action by the soviet government, to which unofficial appeals by the American government and direct appeals by Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee, have been made for assistance, remained tonight the outstanding hope of the flyers for rescue.

Senator Borah's appeal was made directly to Acting Commissar of Foreign Affairs Litvinoff of the Moscow government. The senator has long been a foremost advocate for American recognition of the soviet.

Calls Efforts "Unnecessary."

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 24.—(AP)—R. S. Pollister, resident manager here of the Swenson Fur Trading company, said the efforts of Secretary Wilbur and Senator Borah to obtain aid from the soviet government in the search for Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland were unnecessary.

Pollister said Olaf Swenson, whose fur trading motorship Nanuk is frozen in the ice near North Cape, Siberia, already had enlisted the aid of the Russians.

FARMER KILLED AT CROSSING.

Avoca, Neb., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Joe Pearson, farmer, was killed instantly last evening by a railroad motor train which struck the car in which he and his wife were riding. His wife was not seriously injured.

BARTENDER REVEALS LIQUOR LICENSE PLAN AT CONSPIRACY TRIAL

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Dec. 24.—(AP)—A. Butley, a bartender, testified today in the Mullan, Idaho, liquor conspiracy trial that Frank Hahn, bar owner who employed him, was thrown into jail by Mullan police when he failed to pay a "license fee."

The government charges saloon keepers paid protection money into the Mullan city treasury in the form of license fees. The defense, although admitting Mullan has been "wide open," contends the city officials did not authorize liquor selling. Twenty-eight defendants are on trial, including members of the Mullan city council.

Mike Pikkeraingo, who worked for Hahn in a bar about one block from a church, testified Hahn was released after the bartender put up $25 with the police.

Pikkeraingo related that the police chief "bothered" Hahn until the latter ordered his bartender to pay a monthly "soda pop license" of $25, with $35 additional when gambling games were running.

Five other barmen told of paying licenses, and Mike Kennedy, owner of the Mullan popcorn stand, said he paid a fee too. Kennedy was accused of selling moonshine as well as popcorn.

Josh Speck described visits of police to his bar.

"When Florin [former chief of police] come in slow, I do nothing; if he come in fast, I dump pitcher," the witness said.

Once Deputy Sheriff Bloom "come in fast," the witness said, and he dumped the whisky needlessly, for Bloom did not search the place.

ASSASSIN SLAIN AS HE FIRES ON ARGENTINE CHIEF

attributed by most commentators to the extraordinary personal ascendancy wielded by him over the mass of the electorate. His former administration could not well be described as a successful one, inasmuch as something approaching financial chaos was inherited by his successor, Dr. Marcelo Alvear, but the magic word "Yrigoyen" appeared to hypnotize the voters, and the Radical party [whose creed consisted in "Yrigoyen" and whose platform was the same] swept the country in an unprecedented manner.

In this connection it is curious that Yrigoyen has never taken any pains to court popularity; on the contrary, he has avoided publicity and contact with the people; he never makes a speech and does not appear in public if he can avoid doing so.

Fails to Push Reforms.

A year and a month have elapsed since President Yrigoyen assumed the reins of power, a period which has been quite sterile politically. None of the many reforms which the Radical party were supposed to hold dear have been advanced in the slightest, and although this has been due in part to the tactics of the opposition in refusing to form a quorum in the senate, the government party has had to resort to the same expedient to avoid debates on distasteful subjects.

It has been a period of great activity in petty internal provincial politics and squabbles between the federal and provincial authorities.

Charge Belgian Plot a Hoax.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Dec. 24.—Almost the entire Belgian press tonight charges that the supposed plot to bomb the Belgian royal train at Milan in January was a shrewd move of life or death in the checker game between Italian Fascists and anti-Fascists. The supposed plot was revealed by the arrest of two Italians last night.

Several Belgian newspapers insist there is every reason to believe that the whole story was hatched in the Italian embassy as a big propaganda move to change Belgian sentiment, heretofore strongly anti-Fascist and opposed to the marriage of Princess Marie Jose to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy. One of the two supposed conspirators has already been released by the police.

It has been discovered that a reporter of the Daily Independence Belge, the paper which launched the sensation story, has frequented the Italian embassy and got most of his material there. It is charged in high quarters that the Italians are spending considerable sums in the Belgian press.

THE DAY OF GRACE.

In the celebration of Christmas we naturally have in mind the compassion which had its beginning at the Nativity. Its meaning to humanity is humanity. There is the symbol of the lowly birth with the veneration of the wise and the adoration of kings to reveal the acceptance by the powerful of a new conception of human life. A star was set in the heavens to mark the event in the manger. These omens did not presage immediate realities. The majesty of the story of Bethlehem would indicate a world struck with the knowledge of its good fortune, with an understanding of the miracle in its reformation and of the completeness of its opportunity to escape from the miseries which so often were the whole of living. The star of Bethlehem is the star of the average man, but he had a long road to go before the realities of it began to come into his existence.

The Nativity found a Roman world at the very beginning of its greatest competence. It was sufficient for the unity, security, and law of such areas as were considered worth bringing into a system of order. Outside of it was a negligible barbarism; within it a civilization. It could be regarded as permanent. If change affected it it could be expected that the change would not be disastrous. If people went into new forms of organization presumably these new forms would be stable. They might be superior to the Roman form. Progress was not to be denied as the probable if not the inevitable heritage of the people. Who could know at the time of the birth that the destiny of western civilization contained the equivalent of an ice age? It was to be so demoralizing as to threaten the extinction of all but the most savage of human beings, leaving in ruins most of what had been accomplished. It was the triumph of the barbarian, but Bethlehem had not only offered spiritual salvation to men but it had provided the means by which Europe was able to save itself from the forces which threatened to destroy it.

When the law of the Roman peace disappeared under the blows of uncontrollable barbarism the Christian religion was able to conquer the conquerors. The overrun lands had a spiritual potency which was superior to the physical force of the invaders, and it was the only defense available.

A degeneration of humankind was threatened. The Dark Ages were dark enough as it happened, but the deterioration of the breed was checked and it struggled back to its feet again. When it did the average man could begin to realize some of the portents which are revealed in the story of the Nativity. It is in that story that his aspirations are given the promise of reality.

Christian civilization must seem to fall short of its full creed, but that is not the measure of its success. The physical properties upon which it must work are obdurate by nature and perfectibility is not inherent in them. The doctrine of Bethlehem is the doctrine of the average man and he is the man who is celebrating Christmas with his conditions indelibly impressed by the force which made itself known in the event which inspires his sentiments and emotions today.

What the world knows of compassion and equality is contained in the symbols of the most affecting ceremonial to which mankind has ever turned.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT CHICAGO NEEDS.

The heavy snowfall of the last few days provided the traditional setting for Christmas, but also a vast amount of needless inconvenience to persons bound downtown. Considering the difficulties, the transportation companies did well, but they were called upon to perform a task that in the nature of things was an impossible one. As long as tracks are exposed to the elements there must be delays and interrupted service whenever Chicago experiences a heavy fall of snow. The best will in the world on the part of the managements of the companies and the most devoted service on the part of the employés cannot maintain schedules under such circumstances. Chicago is grateful to the men and women in its transportation services for the effort they made in the Christmas week, but these men and women, we are certain, would be the first to admit that they must be given better facilities if they are to make a better showing under similar circumstances in future.

Subways, as the doctors say, are indicated, particularly in the central zone. They are needed, as a matter of fact, in all weathers; the snow served only to emphasize the lack of them. The principal fault with Chicago's transportation is the lack of tracks in and near the present loop. Without more tracks there few more trains can be run in the outlying districts, for the capacity of the elevated and surface tracks in the loop is to a very large extent the measure of the carrying capacity of both elevated and surface lines. There is no room for more tracks on and above the streets. Any additional tracks must be laid underground.

The delays and inconveniences occasioned by the storm could have been avoided to a considerable extent if Chicago had had a few subways. Such storms as the recent ones are not frequent enough, perhaps, to warrant the expenditure required for underground equipment, but the storm did serve as a reminder that the time lost, day in and day out, because of inadequate and antiquated traction facilities costs the people of Chicago a sum large enough to justify any reasonable outlay in building and equipping subways.

THE GOOD FELLOW IDEA.

Thomas Wren, the Good Fellow editor, reports that the Good Fellows today will have saved 21,900 persons from the poignancy of an empty Christmas. More than 3,300 citizens contracted through THE TRIBUNE'S Good Fellow system to reach destitute homes with some of those extravagances without which Christmas may be the saddest day of the year.

The Good Fellow idea has been successful, we believe, because it is the projection into metropolitan life of one of the finest virtues of village life. Too frequently mistakes have been made in city management because of attempts to carry over small town practices. We have often failed to approach the problem of the city intelligently because our judgment has been prejudiced by the village pattern. But occasionally a Main street custom is beneficial in the city system and we would be better with more of it.

Personal contact is the principle of the Good Fellow arrangement, and it is a heritage of the small community. It might be argued by those philanthropists whose charity is measured in the laboratory that the Good Fellows are not scientific. The resources might better be apportioned to provide family necessities throughout the year, for instance. In answer we would say that we have no quarrel with scientific charity. The complexities of our society demand that charity should serve the constructive purpose of helping the beneficiary to gain or regain individual responsibility. Admitting that the proper dispensation of charity is a science, we still have room for a visit on Christmas day from the village grocer to the shack below town with a doll for the washerwoman's daughter. That was the conception of the originator of the Good Fellow idea in 1909.

Christmas is a day for excesses. The day after Christmas is the time for a basket of coal. That is one of the 364 days when we are satisfied if we are warm and fed. But Christmas is a day for horns and a doll that squeaks, the smile of a Good Fellow and the thankful heart of destitute men and women whose children are indulged as they should be. If the Good Fellows are short in science they are long in the humanity of Christmas.

TURNED OUT OF FAIRYLAND.

A group of educational experts has recently declared that fairy tales must be banned to the modern child. It seems life is now too rapid and exacting to justify what the experts consider a waste of time or worse. "A child's reading must be regulated in the same way as his diet and we must remove from the nursery and kindergarten those utterly ridiculous fairy tales in which animals and birds are endowed with human qualities and talk like human beings." If there are fairy tales, they are to be nutritious in practical lessons. Out go Reynard the Fox and the Santa Claus, Red Riding Hood and Briar Rose, or they are to reappear in proper economic and civic attire, to teach lessons of practical use in later life.

If this pronouncement is taken up by the serious minded and embalmed in another prohibitory amendment, we are going into literary bootlegging. We are so reactionary that we think the experts' theory is pseudo-science and reveals not only lack of a sense of humor and of the importance of imagination but is very far from practical. A people whose childhood has not lived in fairyland will be deficient in qualities which interpret life in its higher phases. It may build bridges, but not temples to the unseen. It may paint fences, but not masterpieces. It may write reports, but not immortal poems.

These educational experts are not expert, and their notions of mental diet for the mind ignore one of its most precious attributes, the sense of beauty and of dream. Sparta reared a very practical structure of society which is forgotten, and Athens dreamed great dreams which are an undying heritage of mankind. Fairy tales are play and without play Jack is a dull boy. Their nourishment of the imagination, priceless quality of the human mind, carries into adult life and brings forth the richest fruitage of civilized life. Fairy tales are nutrition not because they point a moral or can be used in getting a job, though indirectly they may do even that, but because it is essential to the expansion of our mental powers that they have liberty to adventure far beyond the frontier of the practical and material.

Children will get nothing from the bogus inventions of a fallacious utility, and stuffing them with mental pabulum prepared by humorless and unimaginative utilitarians is bad dietetics. No normal child could flourish on such fare any more than an adult mind could prosper on an exclusive diet of statistics. The nutritive value of fairy tales is drawn from the magic soil of the imagination and it is essential to healthy development.

As for the modern pace, it increases, not diminishes, the need for imaginative relaxation and relief from the exactions of material conditions.

CHICAGO'S MOVE.

[Baltimore Sun].

It is to be hoped that the alleged Chicago gunman, just flushed in another state, who is suspected of having committed murder in that city, will be found. If captured here, Chicago may be sure that, on presentation of evidence that justifies extradition, no obstacle will be put in the way.

On the other hand, one of Chicago's bandits, by name Nelmoth, paid a visit to this city and escaped with a pay roll of almost $50,000, in the seizing of which a comrade was shot and killed. But despite the fact of the man's arrest in Chicago, and despite the fact that the state of Maryland has gone to great expense in presenting much more proof than is ordinarily demanded by one state before turning over a suspect to another state, Chicago refuses to give up Nelmoth. He was freed on bail, which was forfeited and not collected. His case has been handled about from court to court until the prosecuting authorities here have all but abandoned hope of visiting justice on a serious crime.

Chicago's present eagerness to get its hands on a criminal who may be hiding outside Illinois should prompt it to reconsider its refusal to surrender Nelmoth to Maryland.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

WHISKY AGAIN THE VILLAIN.

DRINKING whisky and other alcoholic beverages is one of the principal causes of pellagra. Proof of this has been coming from many sources. Dr. R. H. Guthrie found additional confirmation in a study of pellagra made in the Boston Psychopathic hospital, through which institution about two pellagrins pass each year. In this study he found that about one-half the cases gave a history of having been heavy drinkers for years.

Guthrie thinks the disease an indirect effect of the whisky habit and not a direct or specific result. An old soak, having burned out his stomach, suffers from digestive disorders which, in turn, bring about a low state of nutrition and finally pellagra. What is more, Dr. Guthrie found that the old soaks who develop pellagra are very apt to shuffle off. They have no powers to come back. Putting them on a good yeast and lean meat diet does not save them as it can be expected to do in most cases of pellagra.

In order to establish that the relationship was indirect, Dr. Guthrie studied the state of nutrition of another group of old soaks who were not pellagrins. They, too, were in a low state of nutrition and suffered from digestive disorders. They had burned themselves out, but for some reason pellagra had not come as the later picture of the series. Of the fourteen cases of pellagra studied, three who had not been alcoholics were the victims of dietary caprices. Either through prejudice or food faddery, or something else, they had always eaten improperly and had, therefore, become improperly nourished. Perhaps some of them became finicky eaters in childhood. Of the remainder, three had lived through long periods of economic stress. With them, poverty had been the cause of pellagra.

Dr. Guthrie regards pellagra as a deficiency disease resulting from not getting enough food, not getting proper food, or not being able to digest or assimilate one's foods. The chronic alcoholic belonged in the third group.

LUMPS ON FINGER JOINTS.

H. B. writes: / Small lumps are appearing on the joints of my fingers. These are not in the least painful. They itch occasionally. They sometimes are inflamed in color, then the color recedes, but the lump remains. While inflamed is when they itch.

Is this likely to be arthritis? If not, could you tell me what it is? Do you know of anything that will keep them from growing larger? I am 44 years old and have never had rheumatism in any form, unless this is it. I never eat meat of any kind and my diet is sparing—no rich foods nor spices.

REPLY:

This is a joint trouble which frequently develops in women over 40 years of age. It is progressive, finally causing considerable snarling of the fingers. Men are less prone to it, rarely developing it before senility. So far as we know it is not caused by rheumatism or by eating meats, rich foods or spices.

USE OF OVARIAN EXTRACT.

Mrs. H. C. L. writes: I recently read the letter sent you by Mrs. F. B. She need not suffer with the menopause symptoms. I followed your advice three years ago, I think, and sent to our physician and had the ovarian extract injections. The results were marvelous. For one year I had none of the nervous perspiring. Recently I had a recurrence and sent for some more treatments and, as usual, was completely cured. The serum seems to act as a tonic as well. I sleep all night and fully enjoy life as well.

REPLY:

Many women passing through the menopause have found relief by using ovarian extract. For its purpose it compares favorably with morphine for the relief of pain and carbolic acid for relief of certain skin discomforts.

MARRIAGE OF COUSINS.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Are cousins permitted to marry in the state of Illinois? R. R.

"The general rule [as stated in 38 C. J. 1276] is that the validity of a marriage is determined by the law of the place where it is contracted; if valid there it will be held valid everywhere, and conversely if invalid by the lex loce contractus, it will be held invalid wherever the question may arise. An exception to the general rule, however, is ordinarily made in the case of marriage repugnant to the public policy of the domicile of the parties, in respect of polygamy, incest, or miscegenation, or otherwise contrary to its positive laws." Citing under the exceptions, Stevens vs. Stevens, Lincoln vs. Riley, 317 Ill a. 571.

Section 1 of the Illinois marriage act provides "marriages between cousins of the first degree are declared to be incestuous." Under these authorities we advise Illinois residents not to contract such a marriage and that where such relationships have been contracted the parties make such provision by will, etc., as they would make if the marriage were invalid.

REPAIRS IN SPRING.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—In the fall of 1928 the vehicle tax repair outfit chopped out holes in front of my home on north Monticello avenue to the corner of Altgeld street, which were never filled in. What can be done about this? J. M. K.

A copy of this letter is being given to our foreman of asphalt repairs and the repair division will work on North Monticello avenue between Altgeld street and Wrightwood avenue when they resume work in the spring and will repair six [6] or more large areas where repairs are needed.

WOULD BE REAL ESTATE APPRAISER.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me how one can become a certified real estate appraiser. Could you give me the address of the American Association of Certified Real Estate Appraisers, Inc.? M. M.

There is no statutory authority for such certification analogous to the certification of public accountants. If you are interested in some private certifications, you should write to the persons handling the matter. We do not know the address of the organization that you named.

MIRACLE.

We dare not brand a cross upon the brow
Of Christmas, sweet with holly, pine and fir,
Yet it lurked there, as poignant then as now,
Among His gifts of frankincense and myrrh.

Sleep, dear babe—no cross shall frighten you
While Mary holds you thus as mothers do.

We dare not, even faintly, try to trace
Those tragic steps—the mob, the sickening thorn,
Yet a dim prescience filled the humble place
Among the cattle when the child was born.

Sleep, sweet one, your forehead is so fair.
Her love must be the crown that you shall wear.

Perhaps His mother sang her lullaby
With aching heart. Perhaps the wise men came
And found her grieving that a christ must die—
Her little son with Jesus for His name.

Hush, for the shadows weave a holy light
Around you, safely in her arms this night.

When, afterwards, we strip the shining tree
Of all of its bright baubles and we toss
The broken thing aside, it's then we see
Its outstretched arms become a ragged cross!

GRACE STARBUCK.

HELLO, FOLKS! NOW, LISSEN! HERE COMES GEORGE.

King George is going to open the Disarmament Conference in London and his speech is going to be broadcast over the radio, or the wireless, as they call it over there. Well, we don't know much about English announcers, but if an American announcer introduces George it will be something like this: "Well, hello folks, here we all are at the Disarmament Conference waiting for the king. It's pretty near time now; everybody else is here. There's Charley Dawes over there smoking his upside down pipe and he's wearing a straight business suit; none of that short pants stuff for Charley. The French and Germans and Italians are coming in now from a side room and some of them are wiping their mouths. Bet there's something in that little room besides water, and, believe me, folks, when I get a chance I'm going to slip in there and hoist a few. Well, folks, here comes the king; he's got on a Prince Albert long tailed coat and gray striped trousers and a silk hat. He's stopping now to talk to Charley Dawes. We can't hear what he's saying way up here in our little station in the gallery, but I'll bet it is something like this: 'Hello, Charley, how's the boy?' Now, Charley is talking to the king. Can't hear him, either, but I think he's saying, 'Well, George, if I felt any better I'd fall off the roof. How are you and how's the wife?' 'Well, folks, the king is walking right down now to the front of the stage and taking his place in front of the mike. He's all ready and a rarin' to go, so all that I can say now is that you're about to listen to a speech by King George of England. So long, folks, see you later."

PAPERS t'other day had a story of the meanest man—he stole a Christmas tree. S'nothin'! The meanest man in the world is the one up in Canada that sent old Art Evans a beautiful Christmas box all tied with red ribbons and pasted over with holly wreaths and things and marked, "Do Not Open Until Christmas." And Art couldn't wait; it came from Canada and it was pint size, so he opened it, and, packed carefully in cotton batting, was a price list of likkers and wine on sale in Quebec. Meanest man? Gosh!

WE'LL NEVER LEARN THAT WAY.

Good old Art Brisbane. He says that foreign nations will have to learn the English language from the squawkies and that they can soon do it. "They will learn English gradually," says Art, "as our aristocratic wearers of diamond necklaces have learned Italian and French at the opera." Well, sir, Art, maybe it's because we don't wear a diamond necklace, but we have the darndest time learning foreign languages at the opera. We tried one night last week and it sounded like this:

TENOR: "Oh tadada yah cozookoo."
SOPRANO: "Floo hoo hoo
Boolooloo loo goohoohoo
Zahs yah kahoo zosh cozooajoo."
CHORUS: "Mooshoo zakookoo
Mashoo zakookoo
Oshkosh, gosh gosh kazoo."
TENOR: Zash koo, cshook book koosh kooah."

Now, Arthur, old dear, we are just as anxious to learn Italian and French as the aristocratic wearers of diamond necklaces, but we ask you, Arthur, as man to man, was what we heard Italian? If it was, then we've learned a little Italian. But we don't know. Maybe we were taking a French lesson. Was what we heard French? To tell you the truth, it sounded a good deal like Spanish mixed with Greek, Russian, German, and Latin. And there was some Choctaw in it; we recognized several words we have heard spoken by the Choctaw Indians and a few by the Sioux, and a little Apache. No, Arthur, our experience convinces us that even the idle rich do not get a fluent command of the Italian or French language by listening to the singers at grand opera.

MIRACLE AND OLD MEN.

Jesus, baby, we grow old,—
We grow old in fears and sins,—
We are sheep beyond the fold—
The world is but a top that spins.

Baby, baby, we would see
A sweet star of the long ago:—
Wise men cross the world to thee
In summer heat or winter snow.

Dear illusions now are lost,—
Faith itself may have to go;—
Comes the winter and the frost
And winds of unbelief shall blow.

Little one, if we could touch
Your manger bed of golden straw—
Oh, we have failed and sinned in much
And need to see what shepherds saw.

Jesus, Jesus, you now hear
Old men cry at candle time;—
For them the prose of life and fear
Blot out the faith and mystic rhyme.

Lord Christ of manger and of cross,
Hear old men mumble from afar;
Touch our sores; remove the dross
And hang for us again the star.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 25, 1864.

NEW YORK.—The World thinks that Admiral Porter's attack on Wilmington took place on Dec. 23. It gives the names of the heavy vessels that were to be outside and shell Fort Fisher, in all amounting to 201 guns of long range. It is thought that a few hours of bombarding would reduce the forts so that light vessels might pass. The naval battle is expected after the forts are passed. The pirates Chickamauga and Tallahassee are reported inside.

NEW YORK.—Gen. Davidson and his Union cavalry have arrived at Pascagoula, La., after their raiding expedition through southern Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. They destroyed large quantities of rebel army supplies, occupied a number of towns and tore up a large amount of railroad track.

WASHINGTON. — As Christmas comes on Sunday, the several departments of the government will be closed on Monday in order to permit employés to enjoy the Christmas holiday.

CHICAGO. — Our dispatches are meager this morning and contain little of interest, save as indications of coming events.

CHICAGO.—A. E. Adams and Miss Jennie C. Edwards were married at the home of the bride's father on Dec. 21 by the Rev. E. M. Boring. Seth W. Hardin Jr. of Chicago and Miss Hannah S. Osborne of Muscatine, Ia., were married at Trinity church in the latter city on Dec. 23 by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Vail of Kansas. George H. Bliss of Chicago and Miss Mary M. Gilbert of Worcester, Mass., were married in Worcester on Dec. 19 by the Rev. Dr. Seth Sweetser.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 25, 1899.

CHICAGO.—The holiday trade has broken all records in Chicago. The climax of the busiest six days the trade world of Chicago has ever known came on Saturday night, when merchants were busy until after midnight. More than $4,000,000 was spent in the State street stores during the week, according to estimates of conservative business men.

NORFOLK, Va.—The British steamship Ariosto, Capt. Baines, bound from Galveston to Hamburg, was wrecked this morning six miles south of Hatteras, N. C., in a terrific gale and twenty-one of the crew were drowned. Capt. Baines and eight of the crew were saved by heroic work of the Ocracoke life saving crew under Capt. James Howard.

ROME.—At noon today all of Rome's great church bells rang out, announcing that the pope had opened the doorway inaugurating the Holy Year. The immense St. Peter's cathedral square was crowded with 50,000 people, who were held in order by 5,000 Italian troops.

CHICAGO.—Warm eulogy of the life and work of Dwight L. Moody was spoken yesterday in the pulpits of Chicago. A dispatch from East Northfield, Mass., where the great evangelist died, said that the funeral will be held this afternoon.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 25, 1919.

NEW YORK.—John D. Rockefeller has just given away $100,000,000—the largest recorded single philanthropy in the history of the world. Half of that sum goes to the general education board, itself a Rockefeller foundation, to be disbursed, both principal and interest, in coöperation with institutions of higher learning in increasing the salaries of their teaching staffs. The other $50,000,000 goes to the Rockefeller foundation, chartered "to promote the well being of mankind throughout the world."

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. — The body of J. Stanley Brown of Mount Clemens, son of the late John H. Brown, millionaire Detroit cigar manufacturer, was found in his automobile in a secluded spot on the Romeo Plank road, near Dead Man's curve, about four miles from this city.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson issued a proclamation providing for the relinquishment of governmental control and operation of the railroads of the country on March 1.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 18.—Dear Santa: Please bring me a new, up to date subway that runs by 'lectricity and everything. I'd get a big kick out of seeing the cars full of happy people, every one of them having a nice seat, and none of those old strap-hanging cars that I have now. And, do you know, Santa, I have a sneaking suspicion that my bad circulation wants something of that kind to quicken it up. My friends in the east—old Father Knickerbocker, Philly, and the Hub—tell me that subways are great stuff for troubles such as mine. They've used 'em for years, and they can't say too much for them as being just the remedy for congestion, impaired circulation, and general debility.

And, Santa, I'd be more than delighted if you could spare me a good civic awakening and crime exterminator. They go together, so they all say who have used them. So bring me both, if you can do so conveniently.

And here's another thing, Santa, that I wish to call your attention to. Some time when you're not too busy please keep an eye out for a bright, girdle-like ornament I used to wear. It has the words "I Will" on it. I used to accomplish big things with that on me. But I lost it years ago and feel the need of it right now.

There are several things besides these I have mentioned that I would like—such as a new bond issue for about a quarter billion dollars to cover some mistakes that I have made; a gift from Uncle Sam allowing me to have more water from Lake Michigan.

A. J. RICHARDSON.

THE CARDINAL

Highland Park, Ill., Dec. 21.—Our ravine has lost its peaceful attitude and gone on a wild rampage. Century old trees shake their heads in madness, and shriek and groan apace with the fury of the howling gale. Drifting clouds of snow in a mad whirl chase each other in wild play. All seems to tune up to a great finale. Out of this wildness flashes the brilliant red of a cardinal—like a summer day. The fire is crackling on the hearth. It is snug and comfortable here to watch the storm, but there is more real life outside with the cardinal.

JENS JENSEN.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IN CHINA.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21.—This is probably the first time in your experience that you have been appealed to for help by a fellow publisher in China and I hope the unusualness of the request will arouse your interest and secure your help.

The Shanghai Evening Post, the only American newspaper in Shanghai, has been barred from the mails by the Chinese authorities. The ban was announced two weeks ago, without notice or investigation. We are without an explanation of why the ban was put into effect.

The ban is to continue until further notice and I do not believe it will be lifted until the Chinese government as shown by newspaper comment how strongly such an autocratic action is condemned in foreign countries. I sincerely hope that you can see your way to make some comment on this and that you will send me a clipping which I can reprint here as a part of my campaign to get the mail privileges restored.

CARL CROW,
Editor and publisher Shanghai Evening Post.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT IN MOLINE.

Moline, Ill., Dec. 19.—I notice by a Moline paper that there is a shortage of booze and home brew in Chicago; also that prices have advanced. Please inform your readers that if they will come to Moline or East Moline they can secure all they wish, especially at Moline, and at bargain prices without any difficulty. There is a big supply here. Let none of your readers go dry for Christmas or New Year's.

"THE VALUE OF THE CLASSICS."

New York, Dec. 18.—The service bureau for classical teachers maintained by the American Classical league at Teachers' college publishes eight times a year a leaflet known as Latin notes. This is designed to contain material which is useful and inspirational for the teacher of Greek and Latin in secondary schools. Some friend has sent to me an editorial from THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 18 entitled "The Value of the Classics." I should like to reprint it in the January Latin notes if you have no objection.

FRANCES E. SABIN,
Director Service Bureau for Classical Teachers.

RESTORING JUSTICE.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Ralph Waldo Emerson might have written the lines:

Age tear that tattered sentry down.
'Long has it waved on high . . .

but he didn't. I don't suppose it matters a great deal now, but Mr. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme court might feel a little resentment at Mr. Sherman in the Voice of the People giving credit for his distinguished forbear's poem, "Old Ironsides," to another who is famous enough without it.

DAWES ROSCOE JONES.

THE COLD THAT KILLS.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 21.—Twenty people died in Chicago and Chicagoland owing to cold and exposure, according to your paper.

It has been from 25 to 35 below zero at different points in North Dakota, but not yet has a death report come in from cold or exposure.

The difference is that here the cold goes by you while down there it goes through you. I know, because I used to live down there.

FRANK EDWARDS.

VINDICATION FOR THE MINORITY.

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 22.—During the present reign of chaos and depression in our municipal government in Chicago, what with deserving teachers without earned pay and many worthy causes suffering, there is a little satisfaction in reflecting on the fact that THE TRIBUNE—as well as a large majority of Chicagoans—exerted their best efforts to head the civic government with a more capable and sagacious mayor and associates. Indeed a banquet for THE TRIBUNE.

TAXPAYERS LOSE MILLION A MONTH BECAUSE OF DEBT

Burden Is Still Growing, Declares Strawn.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The financial troubles of the local governments are not over. "They are getting deeper in the mire than they have been in the mud," commented Silas H. Strawn of the Citizens' committee yesterday. "The burden gets heavier as the loans are increased and the interest mounts."

Mr. Strawn exhibited two letters in confirmation of his view. One was from George K. Schmidt, city controller. It says that if the city corporate fund paid its debts, it would have $24,901,383 on which to operate through 1930. In the face of that predicament, the council finance committee is considering a budget totaling about $55,000,000. Mr. Schmidt recommends appropriations totaling only $40,500,000.

County Debt Cited.

The other letter was from George F. Harding, county treasurer. It says that if the county paid its debts, its tax income for 1930 would be approximately $1,650,000. The school board is also in an embarrassing position.

In the opinion of certain members of the Citizens' committee the public is now being denied about $1,300,000 a month in municipal service. This sum is being spent to pay interest on so-called short time loans and in other penalties for $270,000,000 in floating indebtedness.

"That is cheating the public," said a member of the committee. "The people pay their taxes and hope to get service in return. Six per cent on $270,000,000 is $16,200,000. This shows the extent to which the public is cheated. The people get no service or benefit from that $16,200,000. It is a pure waste.

Interest Would Provide Police.

"As soon as the annual appropriations are passed, more millions are to be borrowed. If present conditions go on, the waste at the end of next year will be at the rate of $22,200,000 annually. That would pay the entire cost of the police department and increase its strength in addition about 25 per cent."

"Why do you figure it will be $22,200,000?" was asked.

"The floating indebtedness is now $270,000,000. The city, county, school board and sanitary district will want to borrow as much next year as they have this. Their tax anticipation warrants this year total $114,655,000 and in addition the city has borrowed $10,900,000 from itself without legal security, the county has more than $7,000,000 of current debts unrepresented by tax warrants and the board of education is borrowing $3,100,000 in 'interim certificates.'

Cites Mounting Debts.

"If they duplicate those floating debts next year, without remedying the situation, the floating debt of the community will be $407,755,000, instead of an estimated $270,000,000 as at present.

"Six per cent interest on that amount means $24,465,000 a year waste, instead of $22,200,000 I estimated off hand. The public does not appear to appreciate the situation, and possibly a complete breakdown of one or more of the local governments will be necessary to awaken the people."

In his letter City Controller Schmidt estimates the city's corporate revenue for 1930 at $53,001,826.27. The city is finishing this year with a deficit of $13,526,568.27. When this has been paid, Mr. Schmidt says, only $39,475,258 remains available for corporate expenditures next year.

Estimate City's Loan Charges.

Of that amount the public is to be cheated—in the opinion of a member of the citizen's committee—out of $7,208,220. That is Mr. Schmidt's estimate of the cost of borrowing money on tax anticipation warrants. His estimate is on the assumption that the 1928 taxes will be paid before July 1 and the 1929 taxes before Dec. 1 of next year.

On top of this $7,208,220 Controller Schmidt tells the Strawn committee that the public benefits to be paid next year will probably be $1,282,679. Then follow the judgments against the city of $6,082,972. Those items total $14,573,872 to be subtracted from the $39,473,256 of available corporate revenue.

The remaining $24,901,383, Mr. Schmidt said was insufficient for corporate needs.

"To show how ridiculously desperate is the situation," reads the Schmidt letter, "it is only necessary to recite that the police department estimates its needs at $18,000,000 and the fire commissioner is demanding upward of $10,000,000."

MILLION DESERTING NEW YORK CITY FOR CHRISTMAS FESTIVITY

New York, Dec. 24.—[Special.]—One million New Yorkers—the railroads made the count—were rolling back to their home towns by train, boat, bus, motor car and any other available conveyance today, or will be tomorrow, true to the tradition that on every "home" holiday New York City is just one vast echo.

Of course, there are extra trains and even these are swamped with belated candidates for sleeper reservations. Ships shoving off for the tropics have been carrying capacity loads for a week and even the long distance buses expect to fight their way through snowdrifts with capacity loads.

For the stay at homes New York will celebrate in characteristic manner despite several inches of slush.

The poor, hungry again after the Thanksgiving handout, will have another turkey dinner. A score of centers are providing these.

Thomas W. Lamont, Santa Claus to a lot of hungry newsboys, will buy dinners for the youngsters at the Children's Aid society's home and there will be celebrations at dozens of health centers, orphans' homes, hospitals and similar institutions.

SO. CALIFORNIA WANTS A RAIN FOR CHRISTMAS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 24.—(AP)—If there is a Santa Claus, southern California's millions would appreciate it if he could hand out a few buckets of water.

Since last spring but one rain has occurred. On Sept. 18, .22 of an inch fell and that is the total rainfall to date. Last year the total was 4.66, while the normal fall up to Christmas is 4.04.

Lawns and golf courses are parched and pastures burned by the sun. The weather bureau said a danger stage was approaching and city officials are warning residents to conserve water.

Berlin Appoints 2 Members to German-U. S. Committee

BERLIN, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The foreign office announced today that Germany had appointed Secretary Ernst Von Simson of the state department and Pablo Soler, former Spanish Ambassador at Berlin, as members of the standing German-American Arbitration committee, in accordance with the German-American treaty of May 5, 1928. Former Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton is the American member.

POPE DENOUNCES CLAIM CHURCH IS PLAYING POLITICS

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Pope Pius told 40 cardinals assembled to present Christmas greetings to him today that the Fascist government was unjustly accusing the "Catholic action" organization of mixing in politics. He also declared the government was unduly hard on the Catholic press which was endeavoring to expound his conception of the fulfillment of the Lateran treaties.

Departing from the benign tone used in his last two encyclicals, the pontiff launched into the old controversy with Premier Mussolini's government without mincing words.

Evidently referring to a proposal to erect a monument to Anita Garibaldi, wife of the Italian liberator, upon Janiculum hill, the pontiff said that such an act seems contrary to the spirit of the Lateran pacts.

The Lateran treaties, the pope insisted, "affirmed and recognized that this Rome remains always our Rome, our diocese, ours in all that which is most intimate and dear in our sentiments."

He deplored recent Fascist publications "which have shown no reverence or regard for us—publications which we might say were issued and intended to confuse intelligence and consciences."

Sees Hopes of Peace.

Notwithstanding all this the pope said that he thanked Providence for the conclusion of the Lateran accords "which in their opportune dispositions will bear precious fruits of pacification and sanctification and new impulses to well being for the country and society at large."

The pontiff said that he was "really consoled" by the visit of the Italian sovereigns and children recently, "particularly because we were able to divine in their person the best and most deferent dispositions for an ever more faithful carrying out of the Lateran treaties."

BUDGET PARING BALKED BY CIVIL SERVICE RULES

Plan to Pension Veterans Believed Doomed.

Civil service rules threatened yesterday to break down one of the planks upon which the council finance committee hoped to pare down the 1930 budget to approximately $55,000,000. The aldermen hoped that the drastic reductions in the personnel of city departments could be softened by pensioning the employés over 62 years of age and retaining the younger employés to carry a heavier load.

But it was learned the civil service law holds that employés can be severed from their jobs only by death, resignation or on conviction of charges before the civil service commission in cases appropriations are made for their jobs in the budget. The committee has appropriated money for the jobs and now has run into difficulties with the law. These may be aired on the council floor next Monday.

Would Hit Police Force.

Perhaps the greatest effect of failure to pension veterans would be felt in the police department, according to members of that force. The committee, in the last session, which ended early yesterday morning, reconciled itself to a slash in policemen by providing that 350 men 62 years of age or over should be retired and pensioned.

The procedure to be followed to force the elderly men to retire on a pension would be to file charges of inefficiency against them with the police trial board. Unless these charges could be proved, and it was predicted that this would be difficult in many cases, the veterans would retain their positions or would be protected by the courts if the trial board acted arbitrarily.

Thus, it was said, the newest policemen added to the force would be the ones to lose out. As the committee figured on the elimination of 400 vacancies in the force, which is 140 more than police records show may occur, the aldermen are faced with the possibility that approximately 500 of the newest men on the force will lose their jobs if the budget is approved.

May Upset Budget Plan.

A similar situation may confront each department head, it was asserted. This would upset the plan to have the younger employées share the duties borne now by older employées.

Until the council meets on Monday the finance committee experts will be engaged in preparing the details of the new budget for the aldermen. In efforts to stay any drastic reduction in the police and fire forces the experts have orders to eliminate from the budget a $500,000 item for a new automobile and to appropriate a 3 per cent salvage.

Nearly every year the departments use only 97 per cent of their appropriations, leaving a three per cent salvage. It is considered unwise to plan for the use of this salvage for additional activities in preparing a budget, but Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, said the former procedure should be disregarded in view of the city's financial situation.

Oppose Budget Cuts.

Opposition to the budget in the council meeting is expected to be led by the three members of the finance committee who refused to concur in the recommendation of the other members. Those who stood out against the reductions, especially in the major service departments of police, fire, health and electricity, were Ald. Louis B. Anderson [3d], B. A. Adamowski [4th], and Oscar Nelson [39th]. Other councilmen are expected to join them.

Early estimates placed the reduction in the police and fire appropriations at approximately 7 per cent, which would eliminate 750 policemen and 40 firemen. Commissioner of Police Russell and Fire Commissioner Goodrich maintained that they need at least the force they have had in 1929.

VETERAN POLICE ON LIST PERILED BY ECONOMY PLAN

Capt. Evans, 80, Member of Force Since 1881.

If the city council should find a way to retire 350 policemen because they have passed the age of 62, some of Chicago's famous guardians of this and of another day will pass into permanent discard.

First of those to be shoved aside, if age alone is considered, would be Capt. Michael Evans, now 80 years old, who joined the department in 1881. Three years later he established the bureau of identification and has been continually in command of this important unit ever since. Capt. Evans is at work every day.

Other Old Timers.

At least ten other captains would go. Capt. Thomas Duffy is stationed at Sheffield avenue and is 62 years old but he still merits, in the opinion of his command, the nickname of "Rolling Mill Tom," because of his surprising physical condition. He joined the force when he was 20 years old.

Capt. Patrick Harding of Rogers Park station is three years older than Capt. Duffy and has been awarded seven honorable citations in his thirty-eight years as a policeman.

Capt. Matthew Zimmer of Maxwell street, like Capt. Duffy, is just 62 and has spent thirty-seven of these years as a policeman. Capt. John E. Ptacek of Lawndale station is 68 years old and joined the department in 1884.

Capt. Joseph Palzynski of the first deputy commissioner's rôle is also 68 years old. Capt. Palzynski joined the force in 1885. He has been given creditable mention four times. Capt. Thomas J. Pilkington, now commanding Marquette station, is 62 and has served since 1893.

Max Danner Past 62.

Of retirement age also is Capt. Max Danner of Austin station, who joined the force in 1890 and has twice been honored by mention for bravery. Capt. Joseph M. Johnson of Gresham station is 64 and became a policeman in 1897.

Another veteran, often in the public eye, is Capt. Martin J. O'Malley of Summerdale, who was born in 1864, and has been given creditable mention four times in his forty-one years in the department.

Two lieutenants, long in the department, are scheduled for shelving if the finance committee recommendation is passed and the order put through. They are John W. Norton of the detective bureau and William Blaul of the state's attorney's office.

Born in 1862, Norton entered the service in 1891 and has been mentioned creditably fourteen times. Blaul is five years his junior and became a policeman one year after Norton, being mentioned three times in his career. In 1903 Lieut. Blaul proved his heroism when he captured Gustave Marks, one of the notorious "car barn" bandits after Marks had killed Blaul's partner, John Quinn. Marks was hanged with two other bandits.

Patrolman Still Active.

Other old timers who are still putting in their full time each day and who would be cast aside by the recommendation are: Lieut. Patrick McSweeney of Fillmore street, 65 years old and thirty-five years on the force, and the following patrolmen from the First district: Thomas F. Cole, 64; Jeremiah L. Sullivan, 70; Dennis F. Herely, 64; John J. Tracy, 69, and William Duggan, 63. Thomas P. Magran of the secretary's office is 72. Fred Miller, lockup keeper at Sheffield, is 68.

These veterans remember when there was no civil service and they had to fight their way up through promotion. There was no such thing as creditable mention thirty-five or forty years ago and the outstanding acts of bravery of those days have been handed down through the department by word of mouth.

CURTIS GIVES SENATE PAGES ADVICE; LAUDS WEARERS OF TOGA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Vice President Curtis today told senate pages, who had presented him with a tomahawk, "to help enforce order" in the body over which he presides, that "every man in the senate has earned his way and is not in the senate by chance."

"A man cannot obtain the high position of United States senator without having accomplished much in his own state," he said. "I suggest that you study each and every senator. You are sure to find traits in every one that you will find helpful to you in the future.

"Just a suggestion, and that is whatever duties you undertake, perform them to the best of your ability, do your work well and promptly and by doing this you will better prepare yourselves for what is to follow. If you do what you undertake well you will find there is always an opening for you when you are through the work at hand."

TRIES BAD CHECK TWICE IN SAME STORE; JAILED

Bitlen Bernard, 54 years old, Indianapolis, Ind., switchman, changed his mind yesterday about Chicago merchants being "suckers" when he received a sentence of one year in the bridewell and a fine of $500 from Judge Max Luster in the Town Hall court.

"I thought Chicago storekeepers were suckers and would cash small checks and never complain," said Bernard in court yesterday. "I did not think they would go to the trouble to have me arrested for passing small checks."

Adolph E. Echard, 4617 Lincoln avenue, owner of a shoe store, caused Bernhard's arrest when the latter attempted to pass a check in payment for shoes. Echard had been fleeced by Bernard last year and instantly recognized his customer.

CERMAK RELATES WHY COUNTY IS IN FISCAL STRAITS

Failure of Revenue Cited in Annual Report.

Failure to provide additional revenue for the county to meet forced increases in expenditures, particularly for the reassessment, brought the county to the brink of bankruptcy. This is the keynote of the annual message of President Anton J. Cermak to the county board, released yesterday. In the accounting of his stewardship President Cermak points out that the burdens saddled on the county by the legislature completely overshadow retrenchmen in all departments of $1,450,000 in 1929.

If the state tax commission had not voided the 1927 assessment and forced the reassessment the 1930 budget would be balanced and the ten months' pay plan recently adopted would not be necessary, the message states. The cost of the reassessment is estimated at $3,500,000, including additional interest payments made necessary because the 1929 tax anticipation warrants were issued earlier, and also loss of the usual interest on tax money in banks because taxes have not been collected.

Lists Additional Expenses.

The message also points out that if the voters had approved the six cent increase in the county tax rate for 1930 to meet the reassessment cost the county could have made a balanced budget and forestalled the present critical financial condition. The proposition was defeated at the last election.

In the last eight years the legislature and officials have imposed obligations of $4,473,468 on the county without providing additional revenue, the message says. Among the items listed are an increase of $845,621 in the hospital nursing fund, $616,022 in the mothers' pension fund, $343,982 in the home placing fund, $828,439 in the election fund, and $432,614 in the jurors' fund. In the same period salaries in fee offices have increased $1,113,605.

"I have steadfastly refrained from requesting a permanent change in the corporate tax fund, notwithstanding the fact that I have watched the steady growth of new obligations imposed on the county by laws passed, without providing additional payment," the message reads. "The activities of judges and constitutional officers have helped to bring us to the position where it is impossible to meet the demands.

Replies to "Natural" Question.

"Naturally, one would ask to know how the county has been able to cope with the situation before the tax commission issued the order which broke the camel's back. The answer is through initiation and support of reorganization, elimination of the unnecessary, and strict retrenchment. This sort of program saved $1,500,000 annually."

The message outlines public improvements completed in the county, including the new criminal courts and jail building and work at the Children's hospital as well as the extension of various county services.

ALFONSO GREETS NEW U. S. ENVOY AT GALA COURT

Laughlin Also Presented to Queen of Spain.

MADRID, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Irwin B. Laughlin, newly appointed American ambassador to Spain, presented his credentials to King Alfonso today and exchanged felicitations with the Spanish monarch.

After the formalities of the royal reception Ambassador Laughlin made a formal call upon Premier Primo Rivera, who shortly after returned the visit.

The ambassador plans a quiet family Christmas at the embassy home and will then begin a series of calls on government officials and the heads of other embassies and legations.

Brings Good Wishes of U. S.

In presenting his credentials to the king Ambassador Laughlin said:

"The President has charged me to convey to your majesty an expression of his fervent good wishes for the well being of your majesty and the royal family and the assurance of his deep feeling not only for the continuance of happy relations the two countries enjoy but for the further growth both of the sentimental and material interests they have in common."

The king, after expressing pleasure at receiving Ambassador Laughlin, said he appreciated and cordially reciprocated the ambassador's sentiments.

Yankee in Somber Dress.

The king received the American ambassador in the uniform of a captain general, with red trousers, a blue coat of many decorations. He made a striking martial figure. The simple riding dress of Ambassador Laughlin and his staff was in contrast with the gorgeous uniforms of the Spanish court.

After the audience King Alfonso and Ambassador Laughlin proceeded to an adjoining audience chamber where the ambassador was presented to the queen.

She was a coed at James Millikin university at the time, and told of being in Hill's company on the day the state claimed he killed his mother. Hill is working in a Streator garage.

2D CLERK SHOT BY ROBBERS IN QUEST OF SHOES

A young man in brand new shoes and another wearing a rundown pair walked into the Vincents shoe store, 5846 Fullerton avenue, last night. The youth with the old shoes was fitted with new ones and both were walking out when the clerk, Edwin Russell, 19 years old, who lives above the store, stopped them and demanded payment.

The youth he had fitted whipped out a pistol, firing a shot which struck the clerk in the side. In the crowd outside the armed youth escaped while his companion, subsequently identified as Joseph Rock, 19 years old, 1748 Wabansia avenue, was cornered and held until Sergt. John McMahon of the Cragin district arrested him.

The occurrence paralleled one on the previous night in the W. L. Douglas shoe store, 3019 Lincoln avenue, when William C. Miller, 50 years old, the store manager, was shot. The prisoner, Rock, identified by the wounded clerk at the Belmont hospital, will be taken today to Miller's bedside in the Alexian Brothers hospital. The police are convinced that Rock or his companion shot Miller.

Hattstaedt Is Re-elected Police Pension Board Head

William O. J. Hattstaedt, vice president of the Lake View State bank, was reelected president of the police pension board following his reappointment as a trustee by Mayor Thompson, it was announced yesterday. Other officers reelected are Bernard Horwich, vice president, and Patrick C. Dwyer, secretary.

CARBARY FILES GAMING CHARGE; NOT AGAINST AID

State's Attorney George Carbary of Kane county, whose chief investigator, Antone Mauritsen, was arrested in an Aurora gambling hall Sunday, took action in the matter yesterday—but not against Mauritsen. He filed an information in the county court at Geneva against Sam Wagner, 11 North River street, Aurora, charging him with operating a gambling house. Carbary reiterated his statement of Monday to the effect that Mauritsen was merely gathering evidence when police broke in and found him "sitting in" on the game in Wagner's place.

POSED AS FILM STAR'S SON, CLAIM.

CHARGES FRAUD IN STOCK DEAL; IS $40,000 OUT

New York, Dec. 24.—[Special.]—On a complaint by Rob. Roy S. Converse, an architect, that he had been defrauded out of $40,000, Anderson T. Herd of New Hope, Pa., was arrested today at the Hotel Commodore by state troopers attached to the state attorney general's office.

Deputy State Attorney General Matthew A. Tiffany said Mr. Converse had testified under oath to an unusual story of how Herd had first become "interested" in him when he said he might have something to do with the erection of a new Hippodrome theater building and had later sold him "Lorraine Silver Syndicate, Ltd.," up to $40,000 on promises which did not mature.

Started in Florida Visit.

Mr. Converse, said Mr. Tiffany, is a Yale graduate and is associated with the firm of Thompson, Holmes & Converse. During the Florida boom he went to Jacksonville for his firm and there met John Darragh, who graduated from Yale more than twenty-five years ago.

During this meeting, according to Mr. Tiffany's report of Mr. Converse's testimony, Mr. Converse mentioned to Mr. Darragh that he might become interested in a building upon the site of the Hippodrome. Darragh seemed interested and asked Mr. Converse to "meet an old friend, Anderson T. Herd."

"Just the Man" to Consult.

Darragh told Mr. Converse, according to Mr. Tiffany, that Herd would be "just the man" for him to know in connection with the possible Hippodrome venture.

The outcome, according to Mr. Tiffany, was that Mr. Converse went into the stock for $40,000; that Herd's promises failed to materialize, and that he demanded the return of his money. Failing to get it he made the the complaint which resulted in Herd's arrest.

RUSSELL SAYS CITY'S DRIVING IS IMPROVING

Credits Police Work Against Speeders.

Commissioner of Police Russell yesterday declared that the campaign against traffic violations has improved drivers and driving conditions in the city. The traffic enforcement and educational campaign opened on Oct. 7. The prime purpose of the campaign was to curb the practice of running through stop lights and stop streets. Later the program included arrest for driving with improper lights, without lights, disregarding safety zones, and speeding.

In the ten week period 22,437 motorists have been arrested for failing to stop at a through street and 23,699 for disregarding stop lights. A total of 20,042 motorists have been arrested for driving with faulty lights. In the six weeks' campaign against drivers without licenses 5,331 arrests have been made; in four weeks 7,901 drivers have been arrested for neglecting to avoid safety zones, and 786 speeders have been arrested in the last two weeks.

Two deaths yesterday raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll at 1,904. The victims:

Mrs. Lillian Novak, 26 years old, of North Chicago, was fatally injured last night when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific train near Glenview on the Waukegan road. She was rushed to St. Francis hospital at Evanston, but died en route. Her husband, Frank, who was driving the car, received slight injuries.

Unidentified man, killed last night when struck by a truck at 51st avenue and Roosevelt road, Cicero. Joseph Kowalski, 35 years old, 1920 Huron street, the driver, was held.

Philip Buerle, 238 North Artesian avenue, was acquitted by a jury in the Circuit court of Porter county at Valparaiso, Ind., of a charge of manslaughter for the death of Elmer Pesink, 11 years old. The boy was killed last July in an auto crash.

Germans Make Telescopic Snapshots of New Comet

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Photographs were made today at the Bergendorf observatory here of the new comet discovered recently by astronomers at the University of Cracow. The comet and its tail were visible through a small telescope just westward of the star Gamma in the Lyre constellation.

ROB FRUIT STORE OWNER.

Two youthful bandits yesterday held up Isaac Warner in his fruit store at 228 South Halsted street, and fled with $70 after locking him in a back room.

Pair Charged with $86,000 Bank Robbery in Peru, Ind.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—Miami county officials believed tonight they were closing on the gang of bandits who held up the First National bank at Peru last October and escaped with $86,000. Two youths held by police in Mishawaka were turned over to Peru police tonight on warrants charming them with the bank robbery after the pair had been questioned and viewed by bank employés. They are John Nolan and Harry Cook, both 19 years old.

KELLOGG TREATY NOT TO BE PUT IN NAVAL CUT PACT

Italy and Japan Demand Separate Agreement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Kellogg anti-war treaty will not be incorporated as the corner stone of any naval reduction treaty which results from the London five power conference to be held in January.

It is no secret that both President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald are eager to have the pact written into the projected naval treaty, but the lack of ardor with which Italy and Japan, especially Japan, have greeted such suggestions is responsible for the belief that the pact will be laid to one side while the actual naval reduction terms are written. In their personal consultation in Washington and at the Hoover camp on the Rapidan President Hoover and Premier MacDonald discussed naval disarmament as a complement of the pact renouncing war.

Informal Agreement.

The relationship of the Kellogg pact to a disarmament treaty was stressed in the identic notes of the British government inviting the United States, France, Italy and Japan to the London conference.

In that note Arthur Henderson, British minister for foreign affairss, said that "provisional and informal agreement" had been reached between the British and American governments on certain principles, the first of which was stated as follows:

"1. The conversations have been one of the results of the treaty for the renunciation of war signed at Paris in 1928, which brought about a realignment of our national attitudes on the subject of security in consequence of the provision that war should not be used as an instrument of national policy in the relations of nations one to another. Therefore, the peace pact has been regarded as the starting point of agreement."

2 Reasons Put Forward.

Two reasons are brought forward as explanations of why the Kellogg pact will not be incorporated as a major part of the projected naval treaty. One is said to be the coldness with which Japan looks upon any suggestion that the pact be written into the practical treaty provisions providing for naval reduction.

The other explanation, according to information current in Washington, is found in the inability of treaty drafting experts to draft a formula consistently dovetailing the Kellogg pact with the proposed naval treaty.

BIGAMY CHARGE CONTINUED WHEN WOMAN GETS $300

Dr. Charles H. Eye, 4357 North Western avenue, played Santa Claus to his first wife to the tune of $300 yesterday, and as a result a bigamy charge pending against him was continued to Feb. 20 by Judge Francis Borrelli in the felony court. The original Mrs. Eye and her small son were in court.

Dr. Eye was arrested a month ago after, it was charged, he had married Miss Doris Anderson of Geneva, Wis., without having obtained a divorce. The Eyes had been separated for nearly a year and Eye said he thought a divorce had been obtained.

The first Mrs. Eye has a divorce bill pending, and it was indicated that if the divorce is granted the bigamy charge will be dropped and the physician allowed to remarry according to law.

HOOVER TO DINE RUBIO, MEXICAN PRESIDENT ELECT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—Elaborate ceremony will mark the visit to Washington the latter part of this week of Ortis Rubio, president elect of Mexico. Accompanied by Señora Rubio, the president elect will come by special train from Baltimore Thursday morning. He will depart for Mexico Sunday afternoon.

Return Formal Calls.

President Elect Rubio will be accorded all the honors due the head of a state during his three day stay in Washington. As a special mark of favor, significant of importance with which the Hoover administration regards the maintenance of friendly relations with Mexico, President and Mrs. Hoover will depart from long established precedent and return the formal calls to be made at the White House by the Rubio party.

Never since George Washington took the oath of office as the first President has a chief executive of this country returned the call of one of less official station than the head of a state. No reasons, except the desire of the administration to honor the next president of Mexico, has been given by the administration in explaining its departure from precedent.

Will Visit White House.

A special train has been placed at the disposal of President Elect Rubio and a special military guard of honor will escort the Rubio party to the Mexican embassy. The president elect will be received at the White House at 3 p. m. Thursday and immediately after that the President and Mrs. Hoover will call on their distinguished visitors at the Mexican embassy.

A round of official calls and ceremonies will be culminated Friday, when the president elect and Mrs. Rubio are entertained at a state dinner at the White House.

Truckman Catches Baby Tossed Out During Fire

New York, Dec. 24.—[Special.]—Although badly burned when a gallon jug of gasoline exploded and sprayed her with flaming liquid, Mrs. Jennie Beck, 25, ran to the front of her home in Perth Amboy today and tossed her daughter, Jennie, 2 years old, to safety. Paul Sorenson, a truckman, who was walking past the house heard Mrs. Beck scream, glanced up as she tossed the baby from the window, eight or ten feet over his head, and caught the child.

SNOWDEN PLANS TO SLASH TORY TARIFF BARRIERS

Answers Tart Note from British Industry.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Christmas eve brought anything but pleasant remembrances to Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden. He received a Christmas card this morning from the National Union of Manufacturers in which he was severely censured for not making a definite statement of the government's attitude on the McKenna duties—protective tariffs on certain manufactured commodities originating under a previous Conservative régime—also leaving the manufacturers in uncertainty. They claimed it made it difficult for them to plan next year's programs.

Mr. Snowden answered the tart note in part in the house of commons by stating that the government intended to repeal the McKenna duties on silk and sugar at the earliest practicable opportunity, and would renew those of the purely safeguarding duties when they expire—an answer that is hardly likely to soothe the manufacturers. He said no further action would be decided upon until the April budget comes up for consideration.

Churchill Attacks Snowden.

Most of the member of the house of commons, on the day before Christmas, sat absorbed listening to the interchange of criticisms between former Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill and Chancellor Snowden. In speeches, bristling somewhat with biting humor, the two flayed each other for the amusement of their colleagues without saying anything vital until the debate was concluded by Mr. Snowden wishing everybody a merry Christmas.

The projected attack on the policy of the government in halting the work on the Singapore naval base fizzled into a weak objection from the opposition. The Laborites answered by saying that such a large capital expenditure had to be halted owing to the change of circumstances that might arise out of the naval cut conference of the powers in January. Then parliament adjourned until Jan. 21.

Oppose Tariff Truce.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—William Graham, president of the board of trade, informed the house of commons today that India, Australia and South Africa have refused to participate in the negotiations for a general tariff truce conducted under the auspices of the league of nations.

SUED FOR $250,000

MRS. DODGE DILLMAN.
[Pacific and Atlantic Photo.]

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 24.—(AP)—A suit for $250,000 against Mrs. Anna Thompson Dodge Dillman, the former Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, has been filed in Circuit court by George B. Murphy, an attorney, who alleged that he was deprived of that sum by repudiation of an agreement.

SISTERS FOUND DEAD IN HOME; POLICE PUZZLED

Grand Island, Neb., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Miss Gertrude Lippelt, 50, a teacher at Grand Island college, and her sister, Mrs. Marie Kirby, 55, were found dead when officers forcibly entered the little cottage near the college campus.

Neighbors had not seen the sisters for several days and suggested the investigation. Indications pointed either to asphyxiation from a coal burner or a suicide pact. They died sometime Thursday night or Friday morning, it is believed. Both bodies, fully dressed, lay on the floor of the room near the stove.

Mrs. Kirby's husband, who died several years ago in Montana, was said to have held an official position for the German government in Brazil.

SCHIRESON CALLS FORMER AIDS TO DEFEND PRACTICE

Declare Sadye Holland Urged Operation.

Further testimony in defense of Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon charged with fraud and gross malpractice, was introduced yesterday before the medical committee of the department of education and registration, headed by Dr. M. L. Harris, president of the American Medical association.

The principal testimony given yesterday was by present or former employes and associates of Schireson, who were questioned by his lawyer, Barrill J. Cramer.

First an affidavit was read by Attorney Cramer, said to have been executed by Miss Isobel O. Heath of New York City, former secretary for Schireson. In the affidavit Miss Heath discussed visits to Schireson's office of Miss Sadye Holland, who lost both legs following an operation to straighten them.

Says Woman Urged Operation.

Five times Miss Holland came back to Schireson, insisting that he operate on her legs, the Heath affidavit stated, Schireson refused again and again, until finally, according to the affidavit, "Miss Holland stated that if Dr. Schireson would not operate on her bow legs, she was going to jump in the lake."

Dr. Schireson told her, according to Miss Heath, that it was more important to remove the scar on her arm than to correct the bow legs, but Miss Holland, the affidavit stated, declared that "men look more at women's legs than at their arms." Finally Dr. Schireson told Miss Holland that Dr. S. D. Zaph would operate on her legs, and she was satisfied, the affidavit stated.

Miss Cecilie Loran, another former secretary for Schireson, who also has moved to New York, identified photographs of Miss Holland's legs and the scar on her arm, taken before the operations.

Arthur C. Christensen of Wilmette, an optometrist who said he performed various services for Schireson in return for being given office space in the State-Lake building offices of Schireson, was the next witness.

Describes Tracing of Legs.

Christensen testified Dr. Schireson had made a fluoroscopic examination of Miss Holland's legs, which was "unsatisfactory," he said, and then the physician borrowed a piece of wrapping paper from a furrier in the building, laid Miss Holland down on it, and traced the outline of her legs with a pencil.

Later this paper was shown to Dr. Zaph just before the operation, and Zaph, according to Christensen, said he knew just what he intended to do and brushed the paper away. The witness said that Dr. Schireson took no part whatever in the operation on Miss Holland's legs, except to hold the retractors for a minute and a half while an interne left the room.

This is in contradiction to all state witnesses, and disputes the testimony of even some defense witnesses who declared Schireson had sponged blood from the wound, and took care of bleeders. Dr. Zaph charged Schireson with bungling during the operation, and with being responsible for the infection which forced the amputations.

OHIO SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO GRANT SNOOK A NEW TRIAL

Columbus, O., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—The fate of Dr. James Howard Snook, former Ohio State university veterinary professor virtually was sealed here today when the Supreme court refused all motions of the confessed slayer for a new trial. The decision was unanimous. Snook, convicted of first degree murder for the killing of Theora K. Hix, his co-ed paramour, is scheduled to be electrocuted in the Ohio penitentiary Jan. 31.

The court, which had granted a second stay of execution from Dec. 20 to Jan. 31, threw out Snook's double appeal, the first asking for a new trial and the second a review of the case. The court granted the first stay Nov. 25.

Preston E. Thomas, penitentiary warden, refused to tell the prisoner of the high court's decision until Thursday, so that the hammer-knife slayer could enjoy Christmas as much as possible under present conditions.

Advised of the court's actions, counsel for the defense said they had two more moves to save the life of the former professor, the first an appeal to the United States Supreme court and a plea to Gov. Myers Y. Cooper to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Snook is a mere shell of his former self. He reclines on his bunk in the death row cell most of the day and night and refuses to converse with any one but his counsel and the prison chaplain.

WASHINGTON DRY ACE DEMOTED TO HUMBLE DEUCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—John J. Quinn, for two years assistant prohibition director in charge of dry law enforcement in Washington, has been demoted to the rank of agent and transferred to another territory, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran announced today.

The Doran announcement apparently brought to a close carefully hushed up scandals in connection with Quinn's work in Washington which threatened to break out several weeks ago when he was suspended under charges. What the charges were has not been made public, although it is known that Quinn had been in a number of altercations during raids.

Commissioner Doran's only comment was that Quinn "did not have the necessary executive ability."

Quinn participated in the famous Ambassador Oyster house raid, where, it was alleged, furniture was destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Roberts made charges in 1927 that during a raid Quinn and two other agents beat Mr. Roberts, while the wife alleged one of the agents said: "If you hug and kiss John Quinn he might let you go."

School Board Ordered to Pay $525,000 for Property

A judgment of $525,000 was entered against the school board yesterday by Circuit Judge Craig A. Hood in the condemnation suit for property on which to build the new Lane Technical High school on Western avenue between Roscoe and Addison streets. The Illinois Brick company will receive $300,000, the Sinclair Oil company $15,000, and the Mid-City Golf club $210,000.

WHILE the Christmas spirit reigns supreme and countless happy smiling faces fill the shops and stores—what does it mean to you? Are you taking your place among this happy throng—care free—vigorous and strong—or has ill health turned one of life's most joyous occasions into a mockery? Good health is the greatest thing in life. Disease is life's greatest handicap. . . . Thanks to your doctor and medical science most disease is largely preventable—especially social disease. Although classed by medical authorities as one of the foremost killing diseases, early diagnosis and continued treatment prevent disability and premature death. Complete medical examinations including Wassermann and Kahn blood and other laboratory tests are necessary to detect infection, for it can be acquired and exist without the knowledge of the individual. Puzzling ailments are often due to a social disease. With the Public Health Institute's war on social disease a new type of medical service has been brought within the reach of all the people. Every patient who comes to the Institute receives a complete medical examination including Wassermann and Kahn blood and other laboratory tests as a routine matter. They cover more than just the complaints of the patient for in this way only can beginning and serious involvement of the various organs of the body be detected. These examinations constitute a thorough and searching general health examination and will largely protect the patient against heart disease, kidney trouble, brain lesions and other serious results of social disease. This medical service is available to everyone and is within the reach of the lowest incomes. . . . The continued and increasing support of the public over a period of nine years is the best evidence of its success. More new patients are referred by old patients than come from any other source. The Institute is operated in the interests of community health—first to give immediate relief to those already infected within their ability to pay and as a safeguard against the infection of others. . . . State registered physicians supported by modern scientific facilities insure reliable attention. . . . Operated not for profit, treatments are within the reach of all. In fact they are available even to those without immediate funds.

HAITIANS ADMIT THEY CANNOT YET GOVERN SELVES

Fear What Would Happen if U. S. Withdrew.

BY WILLIAM LAWSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 24.—Intelligent Haitians will tell President Hoover's investigation commission that, in spite of the marvelous progress made by the peasantry under the American occupation, Haiti is not ready to govern itself.

The government, from the president to the courts of justice, is functioning, but it would not last six months if the United States marines and the treaty officers who are training the natives to take over the helm themselves eventually were withdrawn, according to these conservatives. The job, they say, cannot be accomplished in less than fifty years, although the treaty under which it is being done expires in 1934.

Brought Peace and Order.

As a matter of fact, the conservatives say, the great mass of more than 2,500,000 illiterate blacks who compose the peasantry know that the khaki clad marines, the treaty officers and the marine trained garde de Haiti have brought peace and order to the country. The country folk know they need fear no press gangs seeking recruits for some native chief rebelling against the government; they know their little fields and huts are safe from pillaging bands who swept the countryside before the Americans came in 1915.

Haitian supporters of the American occupation recall amazing stories of graft on every hand in the government before the American intervention and how the right to plunder the public treasury and country was recognized as the inalienable privilege of whatever faction happened to capture the political offices.

Recall Bank Graft.

They tell how two of the most prominent members of the elite, both of whom are still living in Port au Prince and both former cabinet members before the American intervention, called upon the manager of the French owned National Bank of Haiti to allow the interest on government funds deposited in the institution.

After considerable negotiation the bank agreed to pay the interest and the two cabinet members were notified that a sum of $60,000 was credited to the government. Within a few hours the bank manager was notified to pay $30,000 to each of the two ministers as fees for legal services connected with the controversy. The money was paid and pocketed by the cabinet members.

Story of Naval Purchase.

Then there is a story of the purchase of an obsolete Italian naval vessel for the Haitian navy. A commission of the elite voted itself $160,000 to pay its expenses in connection with the purchase of the ship. The commission went to Italy and engaged a German crew to take the ship to Port au Prince.

Once aboard the German crew refused to turn a hand until they had been paid $30,000, and on arriving at Port au Prince they demanded and received another $20,000 before the useless hulk was turned over to the Haitian government. Within a few months the ship was abandoned after thousands of dollars which had been appropriated to recondition it had been spent by politicians in gay parties aboard the boat.

Reliable evidence has been gathered showing conclusively that the agitators have the active coöperation of radicals in the United States and communist leaders in Russia and Mexico.

Loyal Portuguese Put Down New Mutiny in Macao

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 24.—Mutiny of the artillery division of Portuguese troops stationed at Macao, a Portuguese possession on the southern coast of China, assumed serious proportions this morning. Loyal Portuguese troops, using artillery, machine guns and airplanes, assisted by the police force, bombarded the mutineers, who had seized Monet fort, for an houtr and finally forced them to surrender.

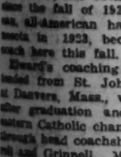
BLACKHAWKS BEAT OTTAWA; REGAIN 2D PLACE

PURDUE NAMES NOBLE KIZER AS GRIDIRON COACH

Assisted Phelan for Five Years.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 24.—[Special.] Noble Kizer, line coach and first assistant football coach at Purdue university for the last five years, will be the new head coach of the Boilermakers to succeed Jimmy Phelan, who has resigned to become head coach at the University of Washington.



NOBLE KIZER.

Announcement of the decision to retain Kizer was made today following President Edward C. Elliott's approval of the recommendation made by Director of Athletics N. A. Kellogg. Although President Elliott's approval will be laid before the board of trustees for confirmation on Jan. 8, that action is a foregone conclusion. It was announced at the same time that Mal Elward and Earl Martineau, who with Kizer formed the trio that built the component parts of the Purdue's 1929 championship eleven, would be retained as assistants. Signing of Kizer as head coach and Elward and Martineau as assistants gives the Boilermakers a trio who are thoroughly familiar with the system that carried Purdue to the championship this fall.

Native of Indiana.

Kizer, Purdue's new head coach, is a native of Plymouth, Ind., where he was a star in football, track and baseball while in high school. Just before starting his senior year in high school he enlisted in the U. S. marines and served until 1919 when he returned to Plymouth and completed school.

He entered Notre Dame in 1922 and in his sophomore year broke into the athletic limelight as a guard in football and floor guard in basketball. Although he weighed only 165 pounds during his Notre Dame days, Kizer earned a reputation as a guard on the national championship Four Horsemen eleven that brought him a berth on the all-Western eleven.

In addition to playing regular on Rockne's eleven for three years, Kizer was a star on the basketball court and was captain of the basketball five in senior year. He was an all-Western choice at guard.

Martineau Has Good Record.

Elward and Martineau, who are retained as assistant coaches, both had outstanding playing and coaching records before taking up their work here at Purdue. Elward, a former Notre Dame star, has been end coach here since the fall of 1926, while Martineau, all-American half back at Minnesota in 1923, became back field coach here this fall.

Elward's coaching career has extended from St. John's Prep school at Danvers, Mass., where he started after graduation and developed an eastern Catholic championship eleven, through head coachships at John Carroll and Grinnell. Martineau became head coach at Western State Normal, Kalamazoo, Mich., and in five years of coaching there lost only eight out of forty games.

FINE CHRISTMAS GIFT

Elkhart, Ind., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—It was only a telegram, but Noble Kizer termed it "one of the finest Christmas presents" he ever has received when the message came to him here late today from N. A. Kellogg, director of athletics at Purdue, informing him of President Elliott's approval of the recommendation of Kizer as the new head football coach at Purdue university.

Mr. Kizer, with his wife and 3 months' old son, Richard, arrived from Lafayette today to spend Christmas with Mrs. Kizer's parents.

To Attend Coaches' Meeting.

"With the retention of Earl Martineau and Mal Edward as assistants in track field and line coaching, I hope to continue with the general system that Jimmy Phelan introduced and developed at Purdue to produce a Big Nine championship team," Kizer said. "The loss of Sleight, Welch, Harmeson, Carraway, Woerner and Mackle, a good football team in themselves, means only a fair outlook in material, and I intend to devote six or eight weeks to spring practice."

Kizer will be in Elkhart with his wife's family until Friday, when he leaves for New York City to attend the national coaches' meeting there. He courted the former Elkhart girl, then Phyllis Templin, when he was at Notre Dame. Edgar [Rip] Miller, who played on the famous four horsemen Notre Dame team of 1924 with Kizer, married a younger sister of Mrs. Kizer.

Weil refused to disclose the identity of the players at this time.

GIANTS BRING $250,000 SUIT AGAINST M'QUADE

Say Ex-Official Sought to Destroy Club's Assets.

New York, Dec. 24.—[Special.]—The internal strife which resulted in the shakeup of the business personnel of the New York Giants' baseball club some time ago was recalled today when the National Exhibition company, managing company of the Giants, filed suit in the Supreme court against Magistrate Francis X. McQuade former treasurer of the club, for $250,000 damages.

FRANCIS X. McQUADE.

The suit charges that McQuade attempted to destroy the assets and the property of the company, gave away company secrets, and alleges he assaulted officers and directors of the company.

Charge Conduct Cancelled Contracts.

McQuade is further charged with having sought to injure the plaintiff's standing and reputation in the community. His conduct, it is further charged in the complaint, caused colleges to cancel contracts for use of the Polo grounds. He frequently stood at the entrance gates of the Polo grounds and admitted "vast numbers of people" to view spactacles within without tickets or other permission to enter other than the word of Magistrate McQuade, it is charged.

While treasurer of the plaintiff company, McQuade, it is alleged, "attempted to induce and influence officials and directors to pay him and other officers increased and unconscionable salaries" and formulated plans to divide the income of the corporation for the sole benefit of himself and other officers. McQuade tried to wreck the company when his demands were refused, the complaint alleges. His method of dealing with college committees, it is charged, prevented the renting of the Polo grounds for college exhibitions.

Charge "False Imprisonment."

The complaint goes on to say that McQuade "falsely imprisoned" spectators at the Polo grounds, which action resulted in legal actions against the company. Without invitation he is said to have accompanied the team to training camps and elsewhere and acted so improperly that discipline was destroyed to such an extent that the members of the team and officers of the company were invited to get out of the quarters in which they were stationed.

McQuade is also charged with having published in advance information concerning the Giants' plans to secure new players, with the result that those players were finally obtained at greater cost.

Where and How Is One-Eyed Connelly This Yule Morn?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—The Christmas cards are just about all in by now and I notice there is none from Mr. One-Eyed Connelly, the wandering gate crasher, which leads me to wonder whether Mr. Connelly can have had the misfortune to become enjailed somewhere at this Yuletide season, as his Christmas cards always used to call it. Of course, Mr. Connelly may merely have been pruning his list and thus may have eliminated me. All of us are socially ambitious and cross names off the bottom of the Christmas list as new names are added at the top.

I used to receive a Christmas card from Mr. Gene Tunney, but there has been none from him since he entered the fashionable Connecticut Hunt and Archery set, although Uncle Will Gibson, his manager, who has been a member of the fast Country club set himself for several years, still writes off all the cussedness and grouches of the year at Christmas time with a tolerant "Merry Christmas, Uncle Will."

Uncle's a Forgiving Soul.

Mr. Gibson is somewhat above early middle age and of a broad and forgiving mind and I have often heard him remark that squabbles between people are only cigaret smoke anyway, so what the hell!

One endearing trait of Mr. Connelly's always was that he sent out only one grade of Christmas card to all his friends, regardless of their social or financial or professional degree. Mr. Connelly seldom has had any money beyond his working capital which cannot safely be permitted to fall below a minimum of $50. He wanders about the map of the U. S. A. and Canada, migrating with the sunshine like the birds and the amateur tennis players. Thus one finds him in Louisville, Ky., at Derby time in mid-May, in Indianapolis for the motor race on Memorial day, and in New York or elsewhere for the big heavyweight fight of the northern outdoor season along toward the Fourth of July, after which he disappears and is heard from per picture postal card from Windsor, Ont., and somewhere in the mountains along in the hottest part of the season.

Pops Up for Series.

He pops up again at world series time and once in a while if he is belated on his schedule one may encounter him with the visor of his cap yanked over his right ear and the frosted pane of his spectacles staring dully over his vanished orb among the elegant ladies and gentlemen of the football crowd at Harvard or Yale.

One season he went to Shelby, Mont., for the Dempsey-Gibbons entertainment and for once found the fight managers with their easy money and the sport writers, with their expense accounts on common ground with himself, sleeping in bunkhouses, plank-sided hotels and in those glum and smelly tourist sleepers with the coal stoves in the rear vestibule on which the immigrants bound for the western land rushes used to cook their bacon and coffee in the long drag across the plains.

Again, one year, he went to Europe to see Mickey Walker tip over some English fellow but was detained on board by the English immigration people at Liverpool and not allowed to land to see the fight because Jack Kearns, the manager of Mr. Walker, would not post a bond of $300 for him. I always thought Mr. Kearns might have risked the $300 if only for the sake of the publicity old One-Eye would have engendered for the prize fight in London, to say nothing of auld lang syne.

$50 Wasn't Enough.

Mr. Connelly had his $50, of course, but that was not enough in England. Almost anywhere in the U. S. A. the fifty is enough for bail on the sort of charges which any one so innocent and harmless, although, at times, pestiferous as One-Eyed Connelly is likely to find alleged against him.

At Christmas time, Mr. Connelly's card usually comes from Los Angeles or St. Petersburg, Fla., or some such sunny place and I suppose he must spend $15 or $20 for stamps to send them out to all the fighters, promoters, lunchroom proprietors, small-town mayors, desk sergeants, reporters and other people whom he knows by name and address, some with an acquaintance of 15 or 20 years. But as I intimated he has but one grade of Christmas card for one and all and does not send a special, engraved greeting, in a stiff rough-edged envelope to the column conductors, sport editors and other Big Shots and another, cheaper kind, to the minor sort of people.

Mr. Babe Ruth is doing that this year, I understand, although for my part, no card has been received, what-

NEW YORK SAYS "NO" TO FIELDS, THOMPSON FIGHT

Suggests McLarnin Be Given Chance.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, and Young Jack Thompson, colored contender from San Francisco may fight some place some time in January, but so far they haven't found a place to light. They have gone to bat for a site twice in the last two weeks and at present are hitting .000.

The meeting, you know, was scheduled for the Coliseum on Jan. 17 under the auspices of Jack Dempsey but several days ago it was announced from New York that Dempsey had given up the idea because he had encountered difficulty with the Illinois commission on the proposition of staging a fight between a white and a Negro.

On this basis, according to New York dispatches, Dempsey released the boys and Tom McArdle of Madison Square Garden signed the pair for a championship appearance in New York on Jan. 3.

But up comes the New York commish. The New York commissioners, having just been deeply chagrined by the outcome of the Morgan-Bass championship encounter, yesterday turned thumbs down on the match, saying that inasmuch as Fields had twice trimmed Mr. Thompson they couldn't see another fracas as a legit "championship" and refused to license the attraction.

Clinnin Tells Views.

Almost simultaneous with the New York turndown, Chairman Clinnin of the Illinois boxing commission arose to quote freely from the fourteenth amendment and intimated that in so far as he is concerned mixed bouts are permissible under the United States constitution. This apropos of the New York understanding that Dempsey had felt himself blocked as a result of official hangovers from the fatal riot which attended the last meeting here between Fields and Thompson.

Gen. Clinnin's reference to the constitution and the equality of man in general led to the fear that the Fields-Thompson show was about to flop back to the Chicago locale, but no announcements were forthcoming from Mr. Dempsey, who 24 hours earlier had released to the world the news that on the proposed Chicago Fields-Thompson fight date Leo Lomski would, instead, engage James J. Braddock in the Coliseum ring.

Boxing fans yesterday were hopeful that the fight would not be staged, leaving out racial matters entirely. The theory expressed was that if the match isn't good enough fistically for New York it certainly isn't up to Chicago to go for any Gotham discards.

Kid Chocolate May Fight?

While hopes were being entertained that Gen. Clinnin's outburst had no significance in the Fields-Thompson matter so far as bringing the fight back to Chicago is concerned, clarification of the commission's stand on mixed fights was deemed refreshing because of the fact that Kid Chocolate, a great favorite, has been tentatively signed for Chicago appearances against white fighters. Under Gen. Clinnin's interpretation of the federal constitution, promoters now can proceed with definite plans for the Chicago appearance of the fast and willing little colored boy.

In turning down the Fields-Thompson fight, the New York commission indicated the belief that it would be a good idea for somebody to match Fields and Jimmy McLarnin.

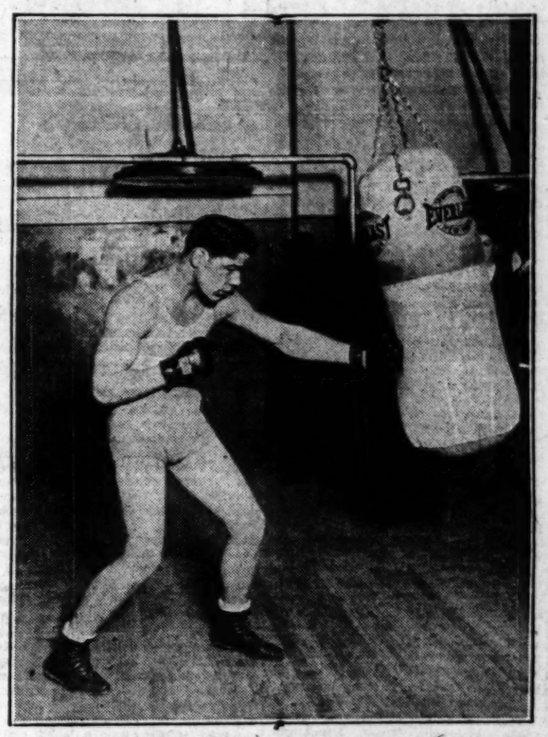
Tuning Up His K. O. Punch



Tuffy Griffith works out in a New York gymnasium for his ten round bout Friday night with Johnny Risko at Madison Square Garden. If Tuffy can land his knockout punch or score a decisive victory he will be in line for a fight with Jack Sharkey. (Story on following page.)

In the Wake of the News

CHRISTMAS.

A tree of tinsel,
Lights and gold
Remind us of the story old
Of years ago.
This very morn
The Christ was born, and we are told
They brought him gifts
Of incense rare,
And that is why we on this day
Rejoice in him
In giving things
To spread good will in our small way.
G. A. R.

Well, it's a "white Christmas" and a pretty good old world after all. Most of us will gather round the family board for that most intimate of family reunions. And the Good Fellows will carry cheer to many whose Christmas otherwise would be bleak. And we'll think of many things we do not ordinarily think of—and Christmas day is a day different and apart from all other holidays, and likewise from all other days is this hustling, busy, routine world of ours.

Then, from Christmas until the advent of 1930, on New Year's day, we'll just sort of tarry along, not accomplishing very much, gauged by the usual measure of accomplishment, but rather waiting for our new start into another year. It's more like a period of rest and introspection to those of mature years—a period of extra parties and entertainment to the younger set. Then the New Year—and whatever it may bring.

The Wake Wishes
You One and All
A Merry Christmas!
Harvey T. Woodruff.

Tom and Jerry.

Dear Harve: You take 2½ pounds sugar, 6 fresh eggs, ½ small glass Jamaica rum, 1 teaspoonful ground cinnamon, ¼ teaspoonful ground cloves, ¼ teaspoonful allspice.

Separate the whites of the eggs from the yolks and beat separately, then mix them together, add your powdered sugar and spices, mix until it becomes similar to a light cake batter.

Take cup or mug and put a tablespoonful of batter into the cup, pour a jigger of what-have-you, and then pour very hot water into the cup and keep stirring, and a sprinkle of nutmeg over the top, and Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

But, Harve, whereinell will we get the powdered sugar? J. K. Bacher.

Holly Wreath.

In the poor window of my heart
Have I hung a Wreath-of-Holly.

So many homeless, starving
Go wistful through my lane . . .
If only my small sign of cheer
May comfort them
Who search the world in vain.

Forever there
I keep a lighted dream
For those who walk alone
And through the dark grope sadly by . . .
How should their sorrow
Be denied to such as I?

They may be said . . .
Long have they been exiled,
I pray their gods—or mine—
Provide abundant wine and bread.

This is the Festival
We make around the Tree!
Keeping it bright,
To live in memory . . .
Lord of the world!
Should any of your children
Lost or absent be?

In all the windows of my heart
Bright Holly Wreaths are glad . . .
But, O, the threadbare souls
Who pass along my dingy lane . . .
Pray they were not so sad!

Arrow-Head.

In the Ozarks.

Dear Wake: Down in the Ozarks of Missouri, men, women and children have a language of their own. An urchin entered the crossroads grocery and inquired of the proprietor, who sat by the stove, whittling, "Is ye got any 'lasses for Christmas cakes?" "Ain't said I ain't," he replied. Whereupon the boy retorted, "Ain't asked ye is ye ain't; asked ye is, is ye?" R. E. B.

Oklahoma's Grid Captain Weds Boyhood Sweetheart

His bride was Miss Katheryn Jarrell, a "home town" girl, who has been attending Southeastern State Teachers' college here. She will enter the university with her husband for the second semester.

MILLER, MARCH AND DUTKOWSKI LEAD SCORING

Chicago Six Heads Rangers by Point.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The close knit combination of the Chicago Blackhawks enabled them to regain second place in the American group of the National Hockey league tonight by defeating the Ottawa Senators, 3 to 1. The Christmas eve triumph put them one point ahead of the idle New York Rangers.

Chicago scored two goals in the opening period and one in the third, all of them on smart team plays. Dutkowski, Miller, and March were the scorers, with their assists coming from Cook, Ingram, and Arbour. Ottawa did not score until the third period.

Chuck Gardiner shook Ottawa's faith in Santa Claus. He had no gifts for the Senators. Their only goal came when Joe Lamb feinted him out of position and left him without a chance to save. Lineups:

CHICAGO.		OTTAWA.
Gardiner	Goal	Connell
Taylor	R. D.	Smith
Wentworth	L. D.	Clancy
Ripley	C	Lamb
March	R. W.	Finnigan
Arbour	L. W.	H. Kilrea

Chicago spares—Afzel, Dutkowski, Somers, Couture, Miller, Cook, Gottselig, Ingram.
Ottawa spares—Nighbor, Touhey, Shields, Connor, Grosvenor, W. Kilrea, Gagne.
Officials—Cleghorn and Batstone.

SCORING.

First period—1, Chicago, Dutkowski [Cook] 16:55. 2, Chicago, Miller [Ingram], 2:20. Penalties—H. Kilrea, Miller, March [2], Ripley.
Second period—no score. Penalties—Smith, Nighbor, Somers, Taylor.
Third period scoring—3, Chicago, March [Arbour], 2:00; 4, Ottawa, Lamb [Clancy], 10:45.
Penalties—March, Smith.

AMERICAN, 5; COUGARS, 3.

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The New York Americans turned in their third victory of the National Hockey league season, defeating the Detroit Cougars 5 to 3 in a comedy of errors, at Madison Square Garden tonight. An awarded goal, at least one accidental score and a couple of lucky ones were recorded.

The opening counter was given to Detroit when Goalie Benny Grant broke up a Cooper to Lewis passing attack by throwing his stick. The Americans got this back with the counter that tied the score at 2-2 in the second period when Carson Cooper drove the puck past his own goalie.

Most of the American counters came when Detroit players were in the penalty box and several came in odd ways. Besides Cooper's accidental goal, Sheppard made another that seemed to glance off Connors' stick in a rush on the net and McVeigh scored by skating behind the net when Goalie Beveridge was watching the other side. McVeigh and Sheppard combined on the last of three final period goals that decided the struggle.

3 STAR BACKS TO PLAY IN ALL SOUTH CHARITY GAME

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Three all-southern backfield choices will play in the Shrine all-star southern conference charity football battle here New Year's day.

The completed personnel of the two teams, representing the northern and southern divisions of the conference, as announced here today, includes Bobby Dodd, quarterback, and Gene McEver, halfback, both of Tennessee, and Billy Banker of Tulane. Tony Holm, Alabama's all-southern fullback, was unable to play, having accepted an invitation to participate in the east-west game at San Francisco New Year's day.

A dozen or more well known Dixie backs will play. Stumpy Thomason and Warner Mizell of Georgia Tech; Crabtree of Florida; McMillar of Clemson; Armstrong of Tulane, and Bethea of Florida are among those listed to participate.

Charles Bachman, Florida coach, will direct the southern team and Coach Bob Neyland of Tennessee will have charge of the northern outfit.

Louisville Turfman Dies of Wound; Assailant Is Held

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Arthur W. Kaleher, 42, real estate dealer and race horse trainer, died here early today of a bullet wound in the lung received last night. William Wepler, 59, construction contractor, was ordered held on charges of murder and possessing liquor, the latter charge being placed against him when 100 quarts of beer were found in the basement of his home. Police say that the shooting followed a remark by Wepler's sister-in-law that Kaleher "insulted" Wepler's daughter last summer."

TROJANS GUARD AGAINST DANGER OF WILD PASSES

Jones Bolsters Defense for Intercepted Tosses.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 24.—Forward passing will feature the three intersectional football struggles to be played in California during the Yuletide season judging from preparations of coaches in the various camps.

Southern California, which will meet Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena New Year's day, drilled this morning on the passing game. Coach Howard Jones not only gave his players plenty of practice on offense but also coached them on the various methods to break up aerials.

Passer Not Only Safety Man.

Jones apparently is not going to depend upon his passer to be the safety man in the event Trojan tosses are intercepted. On certain plays Jones has delegated ineligible receivers to run for the side lines the moment the ball is thrown. In this manner they are in position to tackle any opponent who intercepts the pass.

Jones has some effective forward pass plays. The ball is thrown far down the field after delays by double and triple reverses. Then there are the short passes to criss-crossing ends back of the defensive line of scrimmage. Some of the passes are tossed into the flat zone. Jones also has intricate formations in which a forward pass follows a lateral toss.

Coaches who are here with teams and those who are coaching other squads believe more protection should be given the forward passer. Many contend that a passer should be given the same protection as a kicker. A passer may be tackled and momentarily held so he is completely out of the play. In such instances he cannot recover in time to tackle an opponent who has intercepted his pass.

Rules Protect Kicker.

The kicker is protected by the rules and penalties of five and fifteen yards are inflicted. If the kicker is flagrantly roughed, the offending player is suspended from the game.

Two penalties may be inflicted for roughing a forward passer, but they seldom are called. A fifteen yard penalty may be inflicted for roughing the passer. As the pass generally is thrown from ten to fifteen yards back of the scrimmage line, the offended eleven seldom gains more than a first down as the penaly inflicted from the spot of the foul seldom brings the ball back to the place where it was in play.

The other rule calls for a five yard penalty for defensive holding. Again the offended eleven should receive a first down, but after the five yards have been stepped off the ball would be back of the spot where it originally was in play.

U.S. Net Chiefs Bar 2 Negroes from Tourney

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Declaring two young Negro tennis stars have been barred from the national junior indoor tennis championship tournament because of their color, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed emphatic protest today.

In a letter to Edward B. Moss, executive secretary of the United States Lawn Tennis association, Robert W. Bagnall of the colored people's organization charged "class and caste snobbery" in the refusal to accept the entries of Reginald Weir of the City College of New York tennis team and Gerald L. Norman Jr., captain of the Flushing High school team.

NOTE TO SANTA: LEAVE BUCKEYES A TALL CENTER

This is the sixth of a series dealing with basketball prospects at Big Nine schools.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Like Wisconsin, Ohio State's basketball hopes depend to a great extent on finding a center. But the Badgers found theirs when Bud Foster was declared eligible by Prof. T. E. French, chairman of the Western conference eligibility board, while Coach Harold G. Olsen of the Buckeyes still is hunting. A covetous gleam appears in his eyes every time he sees a tall man on the campus.

Aside from that highly important spot, the Buckeyes' prospects are for an excellent season, as they have four good basketball players of last year's team on the floor. While that team didn't burn up the conference, it finished in a tie for fifth place with a percentage of .500 and ranked next to Purdue in scoring.

Forward, Guard Regulars Back.

Both regular forwards and regular guards of last year are back and ready to carry on with a center or without, but a good one would help. Ohio now, however, is no worse off than last year so far as the tipoff is concerned. George van Heyde, the six foot three inch pivot man of last year, was graduated, and while he was an extremely useful basketball player, ranking fourth in the conference in individual scoring and playing a fine floor game, he didn't have the spring a conference center really needs.

The "double E" forwards of last year, Jack Evans and Harold Ervin, virtually are sure of those same places on this year's team. A pair of fast breaking boys, they scored 150 points between them. They should be better defensively this year.

The guards will be those two football men, Wesley Fesler, all-American end, who didn't come far from ranking as an all-conference guard in basketball last year, and his pal, Bob Larkins. Both were inexperienced last year, but with an added year should keep their opponents from getting too many setup shots.

Wrigley Stationed at Center.

The best of the reserves are Stull, Irwin, Morrison, Tittel, Hinchman, Kowal, and Morrison. The latter is a good floor man and a fair shot, but not tall enough to play center, to which he aspires. With any sort of a center they'd be a ball club worth fearing, and they still can score.

Wrigley appears to have the inside track to the center position. He teamed with last year's four regulars in the Buckeyes' opening game against Ohio university.

Ohio State won that game, 26 to 24, with Erwin scoring three baskets, Evans four, Wrigley two, and Larkin two. The Buckeyes open their conference season against Illinois at Champaign Jan. 6, and also play Wisconsin, Minnesota, Purdue, Indiana, and Michigan. Ohio was one of the schools left with only a ten game schedule through Iowa's ouster, but despite the fact Michigan is champion Coach Olsen scheduled a home and home series with the Wolverines to fill out the schedule.

The Buckeyes will resume practice Thursday and begin pointing for a Dec. 31 game at Pittsburgh and a Jan. 1 date at Pennsylvania.

GREENLEAF AND TABERSKI DIVIDE BILLIARD TILTS

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, world's pocket billiard champion, and Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N. Y., former title holder, split even in two blocks of their twelve block, 5,000 point match here today. Taberski, however, leads in total points, 490 to 371, and in blocks, three to one.

Taberski won the afternoon block, 125 to 118, in fourteen innings. The New York state star's best run was 85; Greenleaf's was 85.

Greenleaf took the evening block, 125 to 115, in sixteen innings. The champion's high run was 28; Taberski's, 29.

HOPPE DEFEATS COCHRANE.

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe easily conquered Welker Cochran in a 200 point, three cushion billiards match concluded here tonight, 200 to 149.

Hoppe took both of today's blocks, winning 50 to 44 in fifty-three innings this afternoon, and 50 to 30 in thirty-five innings tonight. Hoppe's high runs were 7 in the afternoon and 5 at night. Cochran's best clusters were 5 and 6.

The two players will meet in a 400 point match starting Thursday.

Dartmouth Track Coach to Organize Cuban Team

HAVANA, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Harry Hillman, Dartmouth college track coach, will arrive in Havana Jan. 6, to take charge of selecting Cuba's team for the second Central American olympic games which open here March 15.

The Moodys Set Sail for 'Somewhere'

San Pedro, Cal., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Frederick S. Moody Jr., and his bride, Helen Wills Moody, arrived at Los Angeles harbor late today, where the forty foot yawl Galatea has awaited them since Saturday for their honeymoon cruise. The couple, who were married at Berkeley, Cal., yesterday motored here from Santa Barbara.

Arrivals of the newlyweds at the port apparently settled the hitherto secret honeymoon plans of the couple, indicating the truth of reports that they would cruise at sea afar from the curious. They disappeared shortly after their brief wedding ceremony until located this afternoon at a Santa Barbara hotel. The Galatea, owned by Cyril Tobin, close friend of the couple, put into port Saturday and was provisioned yesterday.

The couple said they would board the Galatea tonight and sail tomorrow for "somewhere"—they didn't know where. That they will sail down the coast to Mexico, however, Helen denied. Both she and her husband allowed an impression to be gathered that they would cruise about Santa Catalina island and the channel tomorrow.

Asked if she was a good sailor, Helen said, "Well, I think so." She appeared a trifle doubtful. "Anyway," she added, "I've been on a yacht before. My husband, though, is very familiar with the sea," she emphasized the "very." I smiled at him, receiving a smile in return.

Helen, who did most of the talking, explained that her husband once was a member of the merchant marine and has been around the Horn.

Don't Forget the Birds; It's Also Their Christmas

BY BOB BECKER.

After you have said "Merry Christmas" all around this morning and you've opened your presents, why not take about five minutes to spread a little Christmas cheer for those feathered citizens in your neighborhood who have no Santa Claus?

Unless we play the part of old Saint Nick for the winter birds, they do not get a break on any Christmas which sees a lot of snow on the ground. No yule present is as acceptable to a Bob White or junco as a square meal. When 14 or 15 inches of snow covers the landscape and takes away nearly all their sources of food, Christmas day and every other winter day means hard going for our bird friends.

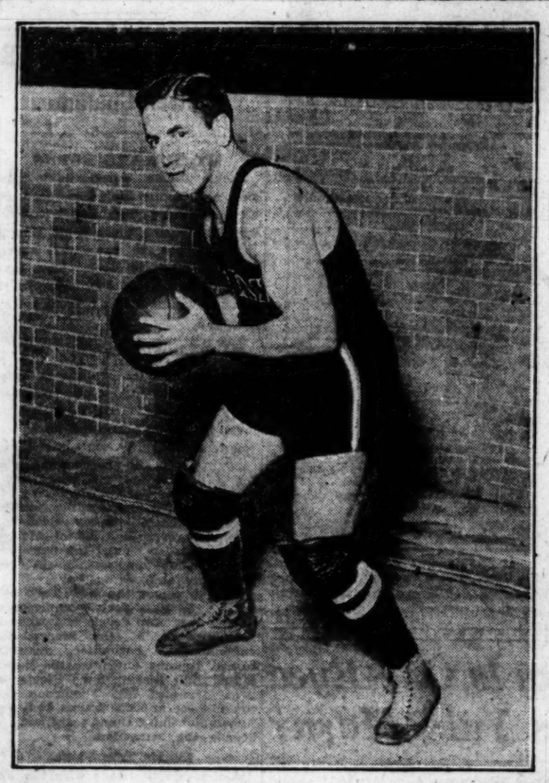
Farmers, estate owners and other rural dwellers can dispense Christmas cheer to the birds this morning by walking over their acreage and distributing a small sack of wheat, cracked corn, oatmeal or other breakfast food, stale bread or ordinary chicken feed.

If you have a covey of quail around, be sure to place some grain in or near the thicket in which they are roosting. Better yet, take along an armful of corn shocks and make a little wigwam food shelter for the Bob Whites, and keep a stocked the rest of the winter. They soon will learn to visit this feeding station every day.

If you put out ears of field corn, you'll find that the pheasants, rabbits and squirrels will make short work of it. This fall we saw several fields in which the squirrels, rabbits and raccoons had made raids on the ear corn, and then the quail came in to pick up the tidbits.

Around the house, the chicadees, jays, nuthatches, downy woodpeckers, juncos, occasional cardinals and other bird friends will appreciate a Christmas meal. Clear the snow from a patch of ground to serve as a feeding station or place your foods on a regular food shelf. The menu can be made up from the following: Chunks of suet, bird seed, peanut butter, whole peanuts, bread crumbs, meat bones.

FORT WAYNE'S SHARPSHOOTER



Davey Banks is one of the smallest forwards in the professional basketball league, but he has a dead eye for the basket. Davey plays here tonight with the Fort Wayne five against the Chicago Bruins at the Stadium.

Ft. Wayne Pro Five to Meet Bruins Tonight

Lineup

CHICAGO.		FT. WAYNE.
Hickey	R. F.	Saunders
Kennedy	L. F.	Banks
Kellett	C	Chadwick
Russell	R. G.	Shimek
Ely	L. G.	Miller

Fort Wayne's Hoosiers, with Davey Banks in the lineup, will endeavor tonight to even up the series with the Bruins at Chicago Stadium. Chicago captured the first game of the series last Sunday night and now are in third place.

One of the feature attractions on the cage bill will be a second meeting of the South Bend Stephensons and the Midwest A. C. The South Benders have in their lineup a number of Notre Dame stars who, during the last two seasons, have carried Notre Dame to western championships in basketball. Among them are Colrick, Jachym and Murphy. Tim Moynihan, all western center in football, will direct the team.

The B. B. R. Lights and the Hull House five will open the program at 7:30.

The Hoosiers are conceded a scoring edge with its strong combinations of Banks, Chadwick, Saunders, Shimek and Miller, so it will be up to the Bruins to call on their defensive strength. Last Sunday night Ely and Russell bottled up both Saunders and Banks, the visitors' scoring aces, and if they can do the same tonight Chicago will have an excellent chance for a win.

Chicago has a chance to reach the top this season if it can maintain its present pace.

3 Intersectional Games on 1930 Maroon Grid Card

Three intersectional games will be on the home schedule of the Maroon football team for 1930. Scheduling of a game with Mississippi by Director Stagg just before he left for the Pacific coast completed the Chicago list. Princeton and Florida will be the other intersectional foes.

Appearing on the schedule next season will be four of the leading conference elevens: Purdue, the champions; Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. The first two are on Stagg field. The Badger game will be played at Madison and the Wolverines will be met at Ann Arbor in the final game. The usual double header will open the season, with Hillsdale college and Ripon as the opposition.

The schedule follows:

Oct. 4—Hillsdale and Ripon at Chicago.
Oct. 11—Wisconsin at Madison.
Oct. 18—Florida at Chicago.
Oct. 25—Mississippi at Chicago.
Nov. 1—Princeton at Chicago.
Nov. 8—Purdue at Chicago.
Nov. 15—Illinois at Chicago.
Nov. 22—Chicago at Michigan.

NIGHT FOOTBALL'S GATEATTRACTION AT MARQUETTE

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—Attendance at Marquette university's 1929 football games, although there was one less game than usual, exceeded by 15,000 the attendance for any other season, according to an unofficial estimate made by Stanley Lowe, director of ticket sales at Marquette. His estimate is 55,500.

The estimated attendance for each game is: Lawrence, 7,000; Grinnell, 6,000; Iowa State, 19,000; Holy Cross, 7,500; University of Detroit, 15,000; Creighton, 15,000; Boston college, 8,000; and Kansas Aggies, 8,000.

Two night games at home attracted a total of 34,000.

Hey, Sheriff! Is Connelly Visiting You?

ever, indicating that so far as he is concerned I just do not exist. His discrimination has caused talk, though, in one newspaper office that I know of, and presumably has been noticed in some of the other shops.

The Babe's No. 1 card is a very beautiful engraving of the cathedral at Rheims before the Germans knocked it galley west, with a sentimental phrase or two and the Babe's name, all embossed on heavy, expensive paper. These are for the sport editors and column conductors, as I say, and then, in the same mail, addressed to the common baseball writers in the same shops come small, printed cards, with a conventional holly wreath, a cluster of jingle bells, greeting and the name of Babe Ruth in job press print.

It seems a very pointed discrimination or rating of friends, but at that maybe the Babe should receive credit for the courage of his own and everybody's convictions in these matters. He is merely recognizing the well known distinction between those friends who rate $10 presents, those who rate $5 presents, and the $2 friends, always a difficult problem of classification at Christmas time, like that of the tennis association in ranking the first ten players.

And Many Others.

I have received cards, according to custom, from Mr. Fat Meade, late manager of Mr. Diving Dan O'Dowd, the old heavyweight, who recently scolded me for comparing Fainting Phil Scott, the Flying Fish of the Dry Tanks, to his old master diver; from Broadway Johnny Cox, who is still on tour, now in his fifth year with Farmer Joe Cooper, the tin can tourist of the roped arena who cuts his own hair; from Mr. Matt Hinkel, the Cleveland referee and physical culturist, who used to sit up in bed with the window wide open to the extent of half an inch or so on winter mornings and take deep breathing exercises for thirty seconds, to keep himself fit, and from a lot of young fighters who will likely join the exclusive Connecticut hunt and archery set if they ever become champions of the world and never send me any more cards after that.

But Mr. Connelly's card is missing, and I hope and trust that it is because he is enjailed somewhere or other and not due to his having gone on up the ladder of social rank. I would rather see One-Eyed Connelly in jail than riding to the hounds in a wine colored jacket or shooting arrows at a straw target on a rolling lawn up around New Canaan, than which stranger things have happened.

Sports Writers Name Simmons Most Valuable

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Al Simmons, left fielder of the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, was unofficially chosen the "most valuable player to his club in the American league" for 1929 in a poll conducted by The Sporting News, St. Louis baseball newspaper, of sports writers who formerly comprised the league's erstwhile contest committee.

Results of the poll, announced tonight, gave the slugging Athletics star the honor with 40 points, with Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees a close second with 32 points. Heinie Manush of the St. Louis Browns and Lew Fonseca of the Cleveland Indians were next with 31 points each. Charley Gehringer of the Detroit Tigers got fifth place with 19 points.

The American league has abandoned the annual most valuable player selection.

GRIFFITH SEES CHANCE

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The late Tex Rickard once characterized Johnny Risko of Cleveland as a "spoiler" and the well known Ohio rubber man will try his best to live up to his reputation when he takes on Tuffy Griffith in a ten round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Rickard tacked his nickname on Risko because of the Clevelander's penchant for "spoiling" battles the famous promoter was trying to build up. Sharkey, Berlenbach, Delaney, Paulino Uzcudun and Tom Heeney all were sent against the rubber man for build up purposes, but what glory there was in those matches went largely to Risko.

Tuffy Is 7 to 5 Choice.

The Cleveland veteran meets another comer in Griffith and he may flash enough of his old time form to conquer the slugger from Chicago. Risko always has fought his best in New York rings, aside from the bout of several months ago when he was stopped by Max Schmeling.

Griffith, who has won ten of his thirteen heavyweight bouts by knockouts, will enter the ring a favorite at odds of about 7 to 5. The Chicago fighter has much to gain and just as much to lose. Provided he can win in sensational fashion from Risko he will be given serious consideration as a possible opponent for Jack Sharkey at Miami in February. A loss, of course, will relegate him to the sidelines until he can fight his way back to the top.

Justina Beats Favorite in N.O. Feature

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—George Collins' speedy two year old Justina won the Woodrow Wilson purse, feature attraction at Jefferson Park, New Orleans, today.

Justina, well ridden by R. Cramer, broke fast, led all the way, and won without difficulty by a length and a half from the odds-on favorite, That's It. Stupendous was third. Justina ran the six furlongs in 1:14 and paid $19.60 for $2 in the mutuels.

The companion feature, the St. Tammany purse, for three year olds and up, over a mile and 70 yards, went to Broadaxe, with Marlboro second and Klingstone third. Broadaxe paid $11.40 in the betting.

Andreadto, the Cuban bred sprinter owned by Dr. Inclan, captured the Havana feature, the Laplay purse for all ages at six furlongs. Andreadto took the lead early and held on to it through a hard stretch drive, winning by a scant length from H. W. Miller's Stampdale, with O. L. Foster's The Oak third.

BARGAINS ARE IN STORE FOR MAIL BUYERS

Catalogues List Ten Pct. Price Cuts.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The bargain days are at hand and as expected to stimulate trade during the usual quiet winter months. Two of the biggest merchandising houses in the world—Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co.—yesterday issued their midwinter sales catalogues showing reductions averaging around 10 per cent in prices of a wide range of commodities.

The price reductions not only will apply to mail orders but will go into effect in the thousand retail stores operated by both companies throughout the country. The new schedule of prices will be in effect until Feb. 8. Both companies will continue to pay postage on mail orders that can be sent conveniently by parcel post and freight also will be prepaid on most articles.

"Every year we send out our 'mid-winter flyer,' which is a bargain catalogue filling the same function that January sales do for ordinary retail establishments," Gen. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., explained. "On about 2,000 to 3,000 lines we will show our usual seasonal reduction, varying from item to item but running in general about 10 per cent. The other 38,000 items in our catalogue will remain unchanged in price."

Includes Many Lines.

"Every item listed is new goods," the announcement of Montgomery Ward & Co. says. "Over 2,000 of the best bargains from our general catalogue are greatly cut to make this the biggest sale in our history. The 3,000 items listed include auto accessories, clothing, millinery, farm implements, shoes, furniture, furs, hardware, notions, radio sets, rubber goods, stoves and ranges, table linen, wall paper, washing machines, jewelry, dairy supplies, and most of the things used on the farm and in the home."

No reductions are made in automobile tires, which were reduced last autumn, but mileage guarantees are made more favorable."

Although the steel industry is experiencing the dullest year-end since the depression of 1921, the outlook is promising for an early revival, according to the midweek reviews.

"Further increases in specifications from the automobile industry, large awards of fabricated steel, additional strength in scrap, and drastic reduction of consumers' stocks are encouraging features of the steel market," the Iron Age says. "Mill operations have been sharply curtailed, with many units idle for the entire week. But steel output will not be cut down proportionately, but the average, counting suspensions, may not be more than 40 per cent of capacity. The rate for December promises to be lower than that for any month save in the summer of 1924 since the depression of 1921.

Promises Recovery.

"The very severity of the fourth quarter decline in production is regarded as the best promise of an early recovery. December's recession in ingot output from November may approximate November's 19 per cent drop from the October rate. The greatest decline in any single previous month was 34 per cent, in December, 1907.

"The thoroughness with which both manufacturing consumers and warehouses have defeated their steel inventories definitely calls for an improvement in tonnage release next month. It is noted that the automobile industry, which has largely passed its inventory period, is continuing to increase its drafts on the mills.

"Steel interests with a diversified trade and not primarily dependent on business from motor car makers look for a substantial gain in operations, a number of them estimating that their ingot output for the first quarter will average close to 75 per cent.

"The confidence of the industry rests partly on the downward revision of production estimates for 1929. It is now clear that total steel ingot output for the year will exceed the previous record, made in 1928, by not much more than 3 per cent. Pig iron production, which felt the stimulus of steel needs more than last year, will exceed the previous high mark, reached in 1923, by 6 per cent."

Average Daily Crude Oil Output Up 11,550 Barrels

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 11,500 barrels for the week ended Dec. 21, totaling 2,653,900 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 1,923,200 barrels, a decrease of 5,950 barrels. Refineries representing 96.3 per cent of the estimated daily potential refining capacity, operating at 73.6 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average run of crude oil to stills as 2,582,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week was 2,578,400 barrels for refineries representing 96.2 per cent of potential capacity operating at 73.6 per cent of their capacity.

New Construction for Week Totals $62,233,200

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—New construction contracted for in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains last week reached a total of $62,233,200, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation, compared with $67,074,700 in the preceding week. Contracts awarded during the year up to Dec. 21 were valued at $5,675,839,800, as against $6,457,135,000 for the corresponding period last year.

Toy Trade Now Big Item in American Industry

BY SCRUTATOR.

One of those cool, dispassionate statements from the department of commerce says that toys valued at more than a hundred million dollars at manufacturers' prices were sold in the United States in 1929.

It may not be fair to evaluate the Christmas spirit in dollars, but there is room for some valiant figuring on the basis of our toy bill. Add the retailers' costs and profits on the handling and those of the other agencies through whose hands the little toy dog and the tin automobile pass, and it seems safe to estimate that $20 out of every thousand of American income goes to amuse the youngsters with the things they like best.

Possibly one in 400 of our gainfully employed spends his time in the manufacture of such things. That's a part of the picture of a whole economic structure. We tend year by year into a diversification of occupations. The child who played in the log cabin of the pioneer with a doll crudely whittled from a bit of pine and swathed in calico has been supplanted by the one whose life-like puppet is clothed on the pattern of the growing child of fashion.

Holds Toys Educational.

The department of commerce, through Eric T. King, its specialist in such matters, asserts that the girl child of today is no longer satisfied with one doll, but must have a family of them and a real house in which to put them. There are some mechanical toys for boys that are so much like the things they represent that they really differ only in size.

So large a cut of the national income going to the purchase of toys may appear a waste. In fact, it is nothing of the sort. The toy is the first of a series of important educational facilities. The modern toy is making the modern child wiser in his day than his parents were. The danger is that he is becoming too much of a realist; that the verisimilitude of his playthings may tend to prevent the full play of his imagination, which was stimulated by the crudities of earlier days.

Christmas has always furnished the reason for the purchase of a large proportion of the toys sold. But the manufacturers have in recent years made a drive to sell in other seasons. They have succeeded in marketing large lines that require outdoor space for use, notably the airplane models that actually fly. Mr. King is of opinion that the makers of these are doing a valuable service in teaching children the principles of flying; also that grownups are getting the same sort of education by playing with the gifts they give the youngsters.

Is Good Investment.

American toys predominate in the trade. In 1927, the last year on which definite figures are available, more than ninety-one million dollars' worth were made in the United States and something like ten million dollars' worth were imported. Exports exceeded four million dollars. The department of commerce report indicates that there has been a good growth in the sales in the past two years, and on this bases the estimate that the total business is considerably above a hundred millions.

From the social standpoint, the rearing of children is the most important business in the country today It is one of the most speculative; it requires a quarter of a century, more or less, to determine whether the product is good. The expenditure for toys may be considered partly a cost, in view of the educational advantages, and partly a gift to the children.

Any way we view it, on Christmas morning it is a wise investment.

INTER. SUPERPOWER PAYS DIVIDEND OF CASH PLUS STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—Dividend announcements were scarce today but a few corporations got under the wire with action on Christmas payments.

International Superpower corporation announced a dividend of 25 cents a share plus one-fortieth of a share in stock. In April of this year the company paid a dividend of 50 cents; in July a dividend of 25 cents and 2½ per cent in stock and in October 25 cents a share. Cardiff corporation declared an initial dividend of $1 a share.

Directors of the Associated Gas and Electric company at their year end meeting declared an extra dividend of 40 cents a share on the class "A" stock payable in cash or in 2-125ths of a share of class "A" stock. The dividend is payable Feb. 1, to stock of record Dec. 31.

A dividend of $2 was declared on the capital stock of the Cuyamel Fruit company, payable Jan. 7, to stock of record Jan. 3. The dividend was passed in November, 1926, prior to which time quarterly dividends of $2 were paid.

Directors of the United States Leather company took no action today toward declaring the quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the class "A" stock on which dividends have been paid for the last four quarters.

The semi-annual dividend of 60 cents, due at this time on the common stock of the United Profit Sharing corporation, has been omitted.

Van Sweringen Roads Plan $100,000,000 For Equipment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—The Chesapeake and Ohio railway lines, together with the Erie and Nickel Plate, will spend about $100,000,000 on equipment in 1930.

Detailed announcement of the requirements of the Chesapeake and Ohio lines was made yesterday by J. J. Bernet, president. These will total $42,500,000, a substantial increase from expenditures in 1929, and a record for the Van Sweringen companies. The purchases, part of a program of rehabilitation on lines that Mr. Bernet followed with the Nickel Plate and the Erie, are in keeping with the request of President Hoover that the railroads adhere to full budgets for the coming year.

Details Requirements.

The Chesapeake and Ohio will spend $20,700,000 on 25 freight engines, 50 switch engines, and 40 large tenders, 2,000 fifty ton box cars, 1,500 57½ ton gondola cars, 1,500 75 ton hopper cars, twenty passenger-baggage cars, forty-one passenger cars, and six express-mail cars. The Hocking Valley will spend $7,800,000 on twenty-five freight engines, fifteen switch engines, 1,500 57½ ton gondolas, and four passenger cars.

The Pere Marquette will spend $14,000,000 on fifteen switch engines, fifteen large tenders, 1,500 50 ton box cars, 2,000 40 ton automobile cars, 250 forty ton automobile-furniture cars, 750 57½ ton high side gondolas, 250 70 ton low side gondolas, 100 fifty ton flat cars, twenty-five cabooses, eight passenger cars, and twelve passenger-express cars.

In all, the purchases of the C. & O. lines will total 130 locomotives, 11,250 freight cars and coal cars, and 301 other cars. The large tenders were purchased in order to make it possible for locomotives to pull longer trains with fewer stops.

Penney Signal System.

Announcement was made today by Vice President H. E. Newcomet, Chicago, that the directors of the Pennsylvania railroad have just authorized the expenditure of approximately $2,000,000 for the installation of the company's continuous cab signal system on the Pittsburgh division.

The Baldwin Locomotive works has received an order for thirty-nine locomotives from the Southern Pacific railway. The order is valued at about $4,150,000. Denver and Rio Grande Western is inquiring for ten Mallet type locomotives, according to Railway Age. East Jersey Railroad and Terminal company has ordered one switching locomotive from the Baldwin Locomotive works.

Makes Inquiries.

M., K. & T. is inquiring for 500 gondola cars; Peoples Gas By-Products corporation for ten to twenty-five tank cars; North American Car corporation for 50 to 100 express refrigerator cars, and the Shell Oil company for ten flat cars.

Western Pacific has ordered 15,000 tons of rails from the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, according to Railway Age. Kansas City Southern has placed 8,000 tons of rails, 3,000 with Illinois Steel company, 3,000 with the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and 2,000 with the Inland Steel company.

BY FRED HARVEY.

(New York stock list page 35.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—Wall street had more pleasant things than an uncertain stock market to think of today and the result was about the dullest share trading affair seen on the floor of the exchange in a year. The turnover in fact was the lowest since Aug. 18, 1928, amounting to only 1,989,400 shares.

Around the middle of the afternoon operations were virtually suspended while bulls and bears fraternized in an atmosphere of holiday camaraderie. Traders were few at any stage of the session and as the day drew toward a close the cluster thinned out fast as brokers disappeared to set about their Christmas festivities.

Bears Take Holiday.

Price movements while sluggish and extremely narrow were generally toward higher levels. Apparently with the season what it is, the bears, for all their reputation for ruthlessness, were unwilling to spoil the party, and what offerings there were came in dribbles and without any suggestion at any time of a concerted move to batter down prices.

On the other hand, there was no urgent demand from the bull camp, and price advances were gentle and in no case far reaching. United States Steel, American Can, General Electric, American and Foreign Power and a number of other favorites spread cheer

FOSHAY MAKES STATEMENT ON RECEIVERSHIP

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 24.—(AP)—A detailed statement explaining phases of the affairs of the three companies he organized which went into receivership Nov. 1 was made today by W. B. Foshay of Minneapolis in order, he said, "to clear up misunderstandings and rumors which have grown up since."

In particular he referred to statements which he asserted have thrown him in the light of having been personally extravagant in conducting the business of the W. B. Foshay company, the Central Holding company, the Public Utilities Consolidated company, Utilities Operating concern, and the Foshay Tower corporation, owner of a recently completed building, the tallest in Minneapolis.

Mr. Foshay asserted that the records of his firms are complete and in good order and that they show clearly that except for inability to dispose of securities in order and reduced capacity for obtaining credit resulting from market conditions, the firm would have continued solvent. This, he declared, meets inferences he had privately gained from the company without sharing with the stockholders. He said that his personal fortune is tied up with the company.

Mr. Foshay denied securities sales of the companies had dropped off in June to $100,000 and remained at that figure until the receivership was started. These sales, he said, averaged over $800,000 a month for the first nine months of this year and September sales extended $1,000,000. In October, he said, they dropped to close to $300,000.

MONON IS NOT SATISFIED WITH RY. ALIGNMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 24.—That the interstate commerce commission's new railroad alignment will not be satisfactory to the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville [the Monon] railroad company owners was indicated in a message received here today from Harry Kurrie of Chicago, Monon president, to Henley and Evans, legal representatives of the road in this city. Mr. Kurrie's telegram said:

"Plan for railroad consolidation just given out by the interstate commerce commission provides for the Baltimore and Ohio acquiring one-half interest in the Monon, the other half interest remaining with the present owners. Under this plan, if carried out the B. and O. would acquire one-half of stock of this company.

"Continuance of the company as an independent corporation would be assured and the Monon activity as an industry of Indiana would continue as at present. Ability of the Monon to participate in maintenance of rate structures into and out of the south as against the east would be weakened, and for this reason I am sure any effort to carry out the plan will be vigorously opposed by the present owners."

Life Insurance Sales in Ill. for Nov. Are $69,280,000

Life insurance sales in Illinois for November amounted to $69,280,000, an increase of $3,626,000 over the October sales, according to the research department of the Illinois chamber of commerce. Sales of higher than average coverage were reported to be the result of efforts to increase estates that were somewhat depleted by losses in the stock market. Sixty per cent of the companies reporting for November signified worth while gains.

Sees Large Increase in Building During 1930

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—The year 1930 will show an increase of from 5 to 10 per cent over the eight billion dollar building construction total of 1929, according to the "consensus of opinion" among leaders in the building industry, said W. A. Starrett, president of Starrett corporation. He discounted the statements of economists that the country is largely over-built.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Throws Light on Activity.

Publication of the interstate commerce commission's final consolidation plan throws additional light on the activity in Chicago Great Western issues during the last year. Both the common and preferred stocks were reported under accumulation by strong railroad interests earlier in 1929. Under the consolidation plan C. G. W. is given one-half to the Burlington and one-half to the U. P. This grouping of the C. G. W. provided one of the few surprises of the plan and tends to emphasize the strong merger position of this merger road.

Under Accumulation.

In spite of the retarding influence of the Fox difficulties, Loew's, Inc., seems to have been under quiet accumulation for several weeks, especially when the stock has been available in the lower forties. When cash position, net earnings and general outlook for next year are considered, the stock appears to be one of the most attractive of the amusement group, it is said. The dividend was recently increased to $3 annually and an extra of 75 cents a share was paid. Net income per share for the last fiscal year was about $8. Officials expect net of better than $10 for next year.

Allis-Chalmers Yield.

Around present levels the yield on Allis-Chalmers is about 6 per cent. About $4 a share will be earned on the stock this year, which is now selling for about 12 times these indicated earnings. This company should benefit with General Electric and Westinghouse from the large construction program pledged to President Hoover for 1930 by leaders in the public utility industry.

Attracts Investors.

Pennsylvania has probably been attracting as much, if not more, investment buying than any other rails in the dividend paying class. Market action of the stock has been somewhat unsatisfactory of late, largely because of the "rights" to buy new stock which do not expire until Jan. 15. The company is paying a cash dividend of $4 a share. Indicated earnings point to this dividend being covered more than twice over.

Responds to New Buying.

U. S. Steel responded more readily to new buying yesterday after its severe reaction. Only 1,000 shares were required to lift the stock two points on its initial sale, which reflected a scarcity of stock for sale "above" the market around present levels. Sentiment undoubtedly has been helped by the optimistic remarks of President Farrell regarding the outlook for the corporation next year. Minimum earnings of $18 a share are assured for 1929 and even if 1930 were a poor year for business it is believed that the company would be able to show at least $15 in its stock.

Illinois Electric Company Becomes Westinghouse Unit

The Illinois Electric company, one of Chicago's leading electrical supply houses for more than thirty years, will officially become known as the Westinghouse Electric Supply company beginning Jan. 1. The Chicago unit of this organization is one of nineteen located around the United States. A. W. Robertson, who is chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, is also chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric Supply company. Officers of the Chicago division include J. E. Sweeney, division manager; F. J. Schmidt, sales manager; L. K. Cushing, treasurer. The Chicago salesroom and warehouse are located at 125 North May street.

South Chicago Bank Declares 2 Pct. Extra

An extra dividend of 2 per cent was declared yesterday by the directors of the South Chicago Savings bank in addition to the regular payment of the same amount.

CONVERTIBLES SHOW ACTIVITY IN BOND MART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—Trading was extremely light in the listed bond market today with transactions totaling less than $7,000,000.

Fluctuations were generally within a very narrow range and the averages showed but slight changes in both the foreign and domestic groups. United States government bonds showed some irregularity, but the net changes for the day were without significance.

Convertible bonds were fairly active as a group. American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s moved up ¾ of a point and International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s a point. Texas Corporation convertible 4½s sold off ⅞ of a point. Public Service Corporation of New Jersey convertible 4½s, which have not been traded in in several days, showed a loss of 19¾ points from the previous sale.

Railroad bonds were active in spots. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé issues were strong, led by the adjustment 4s, which were up 5⅜ points to a new high for the year at 91. Public utility issues were inclined to be dull.

In the industrial group sugar, rubber and steel issues were irregular. Pathe Exchange 7s, which were under rather severe pressure recently, recovered 6 points. Shubert Theater 6s dropped 3 points to a new low for the year.

Report Refusal to Accept Recent Gold Shipment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—According to reports received here today the Bank of France recently refused to accept part of a shipment of gold from this country on the ground that the metal was of inferior fineness. The identity of the unfortunate shipper who was thus left with a parcel of gold bars on his hands has not been learned. Presumably the metal will be forwarded to some other European market where the restrictions of the bank of issue are less severe. The incident arose, apparently from the ignorance of the shipper that the Bank of France accepts only gold bars of .995 fineness, that is, bars which are 99½ per cent pure gold. It is the practice of the Federal Reserve bank here to accept gold bars of any fineness, although of course payment is made only for the actual gold content of the bars.

Detroit Brokerage Firm Petitions for Dissolution

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 24.—(AP)—A voluntary petition for the dissolution of Backus Fordon & Co., Detroit stock brokers, and the appointment of a receiver was filed in Circuit court here today. The petition states that because of the recent drop of the stock market many of the company's customers are unable to pay their accounts at this time, "as the result of which it is found difficult and almost impossible to meet obligations, thereby endangering the security and interest of the creditors and stockholders of the corporation." The petition says the property of the corporation consists mainly of stocks, bonds, securities and customers' accounts and that it has valuable good will and intangible assets which "if preserved may be of very substantial value."

J. R. THOMPSON CO. COMPLETES YEAR OF RECORD SALES

John R. Thompson company, operating 121 restaurants in 42 cities, has completed a year of record sales, John R. Thompson, president of the firm, stated yesterday.

The company will launch an important expansion program during 1930, Mr. Thompson said. He expressed the opinion that many important developments will occur in the restaurant business during the next year and said that the changes will ultimately work to the benefit of the consumer.

Several Railroads Show Decline in Earnings

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—A general falling off in the net operating incomes of railroads for November, compared with November, 1928, is shown in the reports of several carriers made public today. The Lehigh Valley reported that its net operating income amounted to $491,450, as against $1,367,943 for the same month a year ago. Other railroads reporting net for November included the following:

	1929.	1928.
Union Pacific	$3,947,425	$4,539,087
Wabash	697,046	977,753
Wheeling & Lake Erie	193,178	448,254

Our 69th Anniversary Gift Offer

ANOTHER year has been added to this company's long record of "never a loss to any investor."

Since 1881 thousands of investors in every state in the Union have purchased millions of dollars worth of Cochran & McCluer first mortgage real estate bonds, unsolicited by salesmen (because we employ none).

We appreciate this confidence and this recognition of our direct plan of serving investors—a plan which enables us to offer the highest rate of interest consistent with safety, now 6½%.

As a mark of appreciation to our regular customers—and as a symbol of welcome to new investors—we are presenting this genuine Wahl-Eversharp Writing Set to each purchaser of our bonds, either for cash or payment plan, while this offer is in effect.

The set consists of pen, pencil, and attractive gift box. Pen and pencil are of beautiful rosewood rubber, and have all the famous Wahl-Eversharp features. Obtain this set for yourself or for a gift to another (pen and pencil may, of course, serve as two separate gifts).

Cochran & McCluer bonds—bonds on which no investor has ever lost a single dollar in principal or interest—may be purchased in denominations of $100, $500 and $1000. As little as $10 starts you on our Retire in 15 Years Plan and entitles you to the special gift offer. This offer can be made for limited time only. Phone, call or mail coupon for full particulars.

Retire in 15 years

on your present living budget

Follow the simple, definite plan in the book, "How to Retire in 15 Years," and your independence is won. Plan works just as surely whether you are earning $1000 or $100,000 a year. Phone, call or mail coupon for free copy.

Investment Counselors for over a Quarter Century

that states the right policy for investors to follow

So much conflicting opinion as to proper investment procedure under present conditions has recently been held out by more or less qualified sources, that we have prepared a special report to cover this extremely important subject.

The more than 25 years experience of this organization—oldest and largest of its character—is reflected in it. What policy is wise now is stated clearly.

A number of important points are brought up and analyzed, with the result that any one reading this report will know what he should do and why.

The supply is not large, but we will send a copy without obligation to those mailing the coupon promptly.

Cattle—Bulk of sales yesterday, $14.25; average, $13.65.
Estimated receipts at Chicago Thursday, 1,000 cattle, 35,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep.

Additional sharp price gains were scored on short supplies in the live stock market yesterday. New high levels for the season were established in some branches toward the close of the day. The $10.00 hog appeared on a $10@35c bulge.

Top lambs soared to $14.35, highest of the season and $1.10 above the middle of last week. Weighty steers sold at the highest prices since early in November.

Combined receipts of all kinds of live stock at 35,000 yesterday showed a decrease of 36,700, compared with the previous Tuesday. The decrease in two days amounts to 81,500 head at Chicago alone. The two day total at the 20 leading centers shows a shortage of more than 300,000 cattle, hogs, and sheep.

Hundreds of hogs averaging in loads from 153 lbs to 321 lbs reached the $10.00 line, within 5c of the highest Chicago top since Oct. 14. The $11.00 hog put in an appearance at one of the far eastern points.

The shortage was felt by eastern packers who flooded big middle west markets with orders to buy at $9.75@10.00, and some order buyers were still "short" at the close. Only 3,000 pen holders remained unsold. The general average price moved up 25c more at $9.80, showing a gain of 55c since last Saturday.

Cattle prices showed the least strength on yesterday's higher markets, but medium and weighty beeves that have been at comparatively low levels, sold to the best advantage. Prime 1511 lb averages reached $15.00, highest for the weight since Nov. 5, steers averaging 1632 lbs, sold at $14.75. Light weights, however, are still topping the market, some 1106@1111 lb. long yearlings going at $16.00. Cows and heifers were slow and barely steady, owing partly to the absence of choice quality stock. Calves shot upwards mostly $1.00. There was some inquiry for stockers and feeders at firm prices.

The few loads of lambs available were out of first hands directly after the opening, on a 25@50c higher market. Bulk of 75@95 lb natives and fed westerns sold at $13.75@14.25, with 95 lb natives at $14.35, which compares with a top of $13.25 last Wednesday. Prime 100 lb averages at $13.75 were comparable to kinds at $11.75 at the low point of last week, when some 100@105 lb averages were bought as low as $11.35@11.50.

Most interests were on the market for numbers, owing to the shortage in the total supply. Aged sheep held firm, while yearlings ruled strong to 50c higher.

Owing to the holiday, stock arriving today will be counted in with Thursday's receipts, which are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 35,000 hogs and 10,000 sheep, against 4,191 cattle, 28,922 hogs and 5,953 sheep, the previous Thursday.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Arthur E. Bendelari, president of the Eagle Picher Lead company, announced yesterday that stockholders in his company would vote Jan. 23 on a proposal to form a new auxiliary company by using the mines and smelting properties of the present company. He said reports that his company would merge with the Consolidated Lead company were premature.

Joseph H. Nuelle has been elected president of the New York, Ontario and Western railroad, succeeding John B. Kerr, who retires Jan. 1. Mr. Nuelle was formerly chief engineer and general superintendent.

Companies in which the banking firm of Aldred & Co. are interested have had an unusually satisfactory year and "are actively engaged in the execution of plans for expansion in 1930," J. E. Aldred said yesterday. He mentioned the Shawinigan Water and Power company of Quebec, the Quebec Power company, Aldred & Co., Ltd. of Montreal, French and Italian utility companies, and the Pennsylvania Water and Power company as the firms which sought to expand.

Walter Douglas, president of the Phelps-Dodge corporation, says that 18 cents a pound for copper is a fair and reasonable price, consistent with production costs and enabling producers to make a moderate profit.

The creditors of International Combustion Engineering corporation and its subsidiaries have formed a committee for protection of its interests. The committee includes George L. Bourne, president of the Superheater company, chairman; H. J. Hirschman, treasurer of the National Tube company.

Fergus county, Montana, is calling for $145,000 of its bonds of a future maturity, but optional as to payment Jan. 1. Of this amount $118,000 is called for payment and $27,000 for investment of the high school sinking fund. During the last five years the reduction in bonded indebtedness has amounted to $650,000, and this in face of the fact that taxes are being gradually reduced. Recovery of funds from closed banks and collection of delinquent taxes account for this showing.

Announcement has been made that DeForrest Hulburd, president of the Elgin National Watch company, has joined the brokerage firm of Hulburd, Warren & Chandler. He succeeds R. G. Chandler, senior partner, who is retiring. W. J. Fitzsimmons will acquire the New York exchange membership of Mr. Chandler, who has been with the firm for twenty years.

EUROPE BUYS REYNOLDS STOCK.

R. S. Reynolds of the banking firm of Reynolds & Co. and president of Selected Industries, Inc., associated with Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen of London, has announced that a large block of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company class "B" common stock had been sold abroad.

BANKER PLANS BUILDING NEAR 22D AND INDIANA

Influenced by Coming World's Faiar.

BY AL CHASE.

Louis Bomash, president of the Independence State bank, is having plans drawn by Newhouse & Bernham for a five story kitchenette apartment building at 2128-30 Indiana avenue. Work is scheduled to start next spring This is the second sign of building activity in this neighborhood within the last week, both based on expected World's Fair influence on real estate. The other is the hotel announced for the southeast corner of Wabash avenue and 18th street.

The building to be erected by Mr. Bomash will be of fireproof construction and will contain 100 suites of one and two rooms, all of the kitchenette type. The total reported investment in land and building will be in the neighborhood of $250,000. The site is 100 feet north of East 22d street on the west side of Indiana avenue.

Owns Property Adjoining.

Mr. Bomash owns the property adjoining on the south, which is at the northwest corner of Indiana and 22d with a frontage of 100 feet on Indiana and 161 feet on 22d. This corner is improved with an old building containing ten stores and forty flats.

The H. B. Sackett Screen and Chute company has purchased the property at the southeast corner of Elston and Wabansia avenues, where it has been located for the last twenty years, from Clara E. Jones for an undisclosed consideration. The land, 150x140 feet, is improved with a two story office building and a one story manufacturing structure.

East End Avenue Deal.

The eighteen flats at 7305-07 East End avenue have been transferred by Gideon W. Turnquist to udolph Turnquist, subject to $75,000. The lot is 60x140 feet.

The eighteen flats and one store at the southeast corner of Webster avenue and Fremont street, lot 40x125 feet, have been sold by Alvin M. Johnson to Paul Stunkel for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $75,000. George W. Torpe was broker.

LISMAN SEES CONFLICT OVER RAIL GROUPING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—Comparing the interstate commerce commission's new plan for railroad consolidation with the proposal of August, 1921, which, he said, "has become obsolete," F. J. Lisman, reorganization expert, today declared that railroads will violently disagree among themselves concerning many features of the Porter program.

"The present plan," he said, "may be looked upon very much like the tentative consolidation plan of August, 1921, which has since been disregarded in many respects and has in effect become obsolete. The upshot of it is that no plan will be effectuated as a whole and that consolidation will proceed more or less along the lines of voluntary action, the same as heretofore."

Royal S. Copeland, senator from New York, in a prepared statement declared it was silly to worry over a complicated proposal like that of the commission, unless the public interest was to be promoted.

"Will it give the people improved railway service at a lower cost?" Senator Copeland asked. "It has taken nine years of study to formulate this particular proposal. Conditions in transportation are entirely different than they were when the law was passed. War conditions are gone. During these nine years improvement in service and lower rates leave us cold to the unknown and doubtful effect of something so revolutionary as this."

CLOSE BANK IN PHILADELPHIA; LOANS IMPROPER

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—The United States Bank and Trust company, with total deposits estimated at $2,000,000 in its main and branch offices, was closed today by the state banking department as "the opening of a campaign to break up the practice in Philadelphia banks and building and loan associations of collecting commissions on loans."

Overextension of loans upon dubious real estate security also was blamed by Peter G. Cameron, secretary of the banking department, for the failure which attracted to the bank offices groups of men and women depositors, some of whom had made belated trips to withdraw Christmas funds.

Mr. Cameron acted after receiving a report from William R. Smith, special deputy in charge of the Philadelphia district. Directors of the closed institution expressed surprise at the action, Roy M. Boyd, a member of the board, praising the officers of the bank as faithful workers under handicaps.

The state banking department hopes to salvage a considerable portion of the deposits, it was announced. The bank is capitalized at $597,100 and has a surplus of $200,000, according to the last available statement.

Inventor Sues A. T. & T. for Alleged Infringement

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—William G. H. Finch of the Bronx has brought suit in federal court against the American Telephone and Telegraph company, Herman Affel of Ridgewood, N. J., and Baxter R. Hamilton of Cradell, N. J., alleging infringement of his rights as inventor of a transmission system for printed telegrams transmitted by wire. The suit asks "costs and such further relief as to the court may seem just and proper." Finch claims to be the inventor of a system for transmitting telegrams in type by radio and alleges that the A. T. & T. is in that line, although they have not obtained patent rights. The defendants have sought to monopolize radio transmission, the suit alleges, by means of interference proceedings instituted before the commissioner of patents.

COTTON MARKET STRONGER

Cotton markets were stronger yesterday and closed with small net gains. Prices advanced to the highest on the present upturn and there was a large business in transferring December and January contracts into later months. Big spot houses are not disposed to lose any of their stock, it is said, and they were taking in their hedges and putting them into distant months.

Sentiment on the whole is a little more bullish. Cooperatives have had a good business so far this season and are handling a larger quantity than usual. Prices in Chicago closed at noon 4 points net lower to 6 points higher. Liverpool was 2 to 3 points net higher, with spot sales 2,000 bales.

The Indian cotton crop is estimated at 6,430,000 bales of 400 lbs each, against 6,980,000 bales last year. Home consumption is 750,000 bales.

Spots in New Orleans were 16.97c, sales 1,202 bales; Houston 17.20c, sales 1,602 bales; Galveston 17.30c, sales 1,077 bales; New York 17.30c. Prices follow:

LITTLE INTEREST IN STOCKS ON CHRISTMAS EVE

Price Trend Is Upward in Dull Trading.

among the constructive forces by gains of from one to three points but the gains in the rank and file were much more modest as a rule. In a word, both sides seemed content to let the market shift for itself for the day.

Tight money exercised a mildly restraining influence, the call rate renewing at 5½ per cent as compared with yesterday's renewal of 5 per cent. It was generally recognized, however, that this condition was a temporary one due to withdrawals for holiday requirements, year end window dressing by the banks and preparations by corporations and banks to provide for heavy month end and year end dividend and interest payments and bankers were unanimous in predicting easier conditions after the turn of the year.

Steel Makes Gain.

Aside from the strength of United States Steel, which once more assumed leadership following the optimistic statement of President James A. Farrell, price movements were without special feature. The closing sale on this stock was recorded at 161½, representing a net gain of 1¾ points on the day.

Anaconda Copper and a scattering of other less notable issues which have been bearing the brunt of bear attacks for several days rebounded in good fashion, the metal shares recovering more than a point of their loss. Fox Film and International Combustion Engineering both rebounded moderately.

At the same time there was a steady trickle of selling in such stocks as Willys Overland, U. S. Rubber, and other lesser shares, which carried them against the general trend of prices. Wright Aero suffered one of the severest losses of the day, dropping ten points on a small turnover.

Merchandise Issues.

Merchandise stocks were none too hot, although most of the group showed improvement at the end of the day. Macy advanced more than three points. Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck, however, couldn't stand the pace, and the finish found them in the ruck, the last named stock for a loss of more than three points.

The motors continued to do nothing. Ordinarily the approach of the annual motor show here can be counted upon for something of a demonstration in the automobile shares, but this time there has been hardly a ripple so far, although the show is hardly a fortnight away.

The situation in this quarter of the field stands in marked contrast with that of a year ago, when motor shares were enjoying something of a boom. A year ago General Motors was selling at the equivalent of 78 for the present stock, against today's closing price of 39¾, while Chrysler was 130, against 34; Nash 108, against 53; Hupp 75, against 20½, and Hudson 88, against 52.

Analyzes Selling.

The feeling still prevails in local speculative circles that the short selling which has come into the market in the last week or so has been for the most part of poor character.

This contention is based on reports filtering in from the middle west that quite a few houses in that part of the country have been advising customers to get out of long stock and take a position on the short side of the market. This brand of selling, according to Wall street's theorists, almost invariably paves the way for a substantial rally, if for no other reason than that traders not used to foraging on the bear side are likely to run at the first sign of a turn.

Milton S. Florsheim, chairman of the Florsheim Shoe company, stated yesterday that the common stock of the company, after all charges and taxes, and after allowing for preferred dividend requirements would earn $5.92 per share for the fiscal year as compared with $5.25 for the like period in 1928.

The Biggest Christmas Dinner in History

Some fifteen to twenty million of you men and women who do the actual work of the world are going to sit down to Christmas dinner now in a few hours.

It will be the biggest Christmas dinner you have ever eaten in the entire history of the world. That is, there will be more dinner for more people, here in America, than the world has ever known before.

There have been many famous dinners recorded in history. But they have been the dinners of kings and princes, of diplomats who were millionaires, and of millionaires who very often were not diplomats.

But this great dinner that we are talking about today is the dinner of you who sink caissons, of you who build the walls or ride the girders of the skyscrapers, of you who direct the machines in ten thousand factories, of you who raise the crops that feed us—you, the makers and helpers and builders and growers of all the man-directed things—the all-around workers of the world.

This will be your dinner today, above all others. And, My! what a dinner it is going to be!

Now let us see how well you have deserved it.

It is rather an interesting thing that you should be eating such a dinner. For untold centuries, you know, you waited in the yard with empty bellies until the scraps from the feast were thrown out to you.

Yet through all those untold centuries you were doing the work of the world as you are today. So let us see what you have been doing with your time to deserve this dinner.

If we go back far enough, your work has pretty much disappeared, for then you did not have very much to work with. You were building your cities out of mud, and as each new civilization swept over them, they were crumbled back into dirt and you built a new city on top of the last one. In some places we find as high as seven of your cities built on top of one another.

But one thing you did pretty well, even then. You baked a pretty good clay tablet upon which could be written a record of your work. And truck loads of these clay records of your work have come down to us.

A little bit later you learned to build in stone. And now we begin to see the enduring beauty of your handiwork. We are beginning to dig up whole avenues, with fountains and flagging and walls of exquisitely colored terra cotta, which are still beautiful after these six or seven thousand years. Of course, by this time you had also learned to fashion your tools out of metal, which made a big difference.

About five thousand years ago you even reached a Golden Age on the little island of Crete. You built a dream city there. You built your walls of mosaics to catch the sun. You laid out your avenues as for a world parade. You even built sewers out of bronze piping, and made wonderful statues that have come down to this day. One little figurine is so graceful and so beautiful that she might have been made in this twentieth century.

And you were also making quite a lot of beautiful things for comfort and convenience, several thousand years ago. If you remember, they recently dug up a lot of your furniture from King Tut's tomb. And the artists and connoisseurs have been raving about it ever since.

But let's see what else you did. Oh, yes, there were the Pyramids, and the Acropolis, and the Pantheon, and St. Peter's and St. Paul's, which some hundreds of thousands of tourists trot around to look at every year, just as a thousand years from now they will be trotting around to look at the stuff you are doing today.

Rather interesting, when you get a slant at it from this direction, isn't it?

You know, what civilization has really meant has merely been the making of comforts and conveniences for the ease of man's body, and of beautiful things for the pleasure of his mind, and of building operations for his protection from the elements.

And practically all of these things from the beginning of civilization have been done in the long, long stream of life by you workers of the world.

Therefore, from a cold and careful analysis of the work you have done throughout all history, one would be rather inclined to conclude, regarding your dinner today, that you had it coming to you.

Here in True Story Magazine, during the past few years we have seen from your tens of thousands of personal manuscripts that you were very rapidly coming into your own after all these many centuries. As we have read these stories of your experiences and emotions, and of how gloriously you were responding to this big American experiment toward equality, we could have told the world, as you have been telling us, that this was to be your biggest Christmas dinner throughout all history.

CUSTOM BUILT

By SIDNEY HERSCHEL SMALL

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that by resigning his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Ames, who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arriving in San Francisco, John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin and with John Andrew at the wheel have a slight smashup. To save Pete from losing his job John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,980. When he gets back to the hotel after this rash act he finds an old man with an invention waiting to see him. He finally gives him all but a hundred dollars of his expense money and takes a half interest in his machine without asking what it is all about. He starts south.

INSTALLMENT XV.

A DRAMATIC MOMENT.

The noises of the Consolidated studios faded into silence as the doors swung shut on the insulated sound stage. The set, a living room done in mauves, grays and silver, leaped into splendid light under the blazing banks of incandescent lamps; in it voices trailed off strangely, without the faintest resonance or echo. A little to one side of the scene two cameras, equipped with a half dozen varying lenses, were ready to photograph the action through plate glass windows of soundproof booths; suspended over the heads of the players were several microphones which would carry the voices and sounds to the recording apparatus on a hidden balcony above, place of exploded wood and rafters, since Consolidated was hurrying to produce spoken motion pictures and had not the time properly to house the intricate machines.

The director gave his last instructions in a low voice, as if himself already impressed by the coming necessity for silence: "Miss Ames, the trick is to slightly avert your face when Mr. Chester kisses you. Close your eyes slowly, and just at the moment you feel his mustache touch you turn a trifle to the left, toward the camera. Don't move your lips. Don't breathe. Keep your eyes closed. Don't do anything until you feel Mr. Chester press you tightly. That's the signal; he'll know when the kiss has been long enough. Strain away slowly, just as we've rehearsed, and then say, 'O, please don't.'"

Anne Ames nodded, and the director waited until she took her position in a chair on the set before saying to Chester: "Watch your 's' sounds. Don't make 'em sizzle. This's the first kiss we've tried, John; don't make a squish out of it. Not a sound! It's got to be silent . . . now, quiet, every one."

Over a telephone came the impersonal, uninterested voice of the recording engineer: "Interlock." The magic word indicated that cameras and recording apparatus were in synchrony and ready to start operation at exactly the same rate of speed.

The soundproof set behind the scene of the coming action was filled with technical men and their helpers. Here and there men from other departments watched with curiosity the manufacture of Consolidated's newest, greatest, talking motion picture, featuring (as the publicity department had already dubbed the Girl with the Golden Voice, imported from New York and under contract to Consolidated to give the public what the public wanted, although none in the organization knew, so far as the talkie was concerned.

The Girl with the Golden Voice herself was half dazed with instructions; Anne had been hurried into the production of a picture without knowing just what was happening, or why some of the most important scenes were being taken first. The technical men (for once in control of the lot—a collection of youngsters as young as aviators) could have told her: only in scenes of different types could it be determined if her voice was a "bloop" which would "blast" the microphone with riotous sound, or if she was "mike-dumb," or whether her lower register gave her a rheostat voice which must be intensified; her tones might be "tubby" or "mushy," or, that rare thing, for which even the cheerful young men had found no argot as yet—lisophonic or apalophonic—clear in diction, soft and sweet.

Watching Anne Ames, in addition to the men of the organization, were several women stars. ("My dear, this thing is just a fad, and the producers have gone crazy over it; believe me, it won't last!") who were spending an unhappy time in an attempt to learn voice modulation, since it, it was becoming very apparent, would no longer be entirely sufficient to increase box office receipts and fan mail. The audiences, according to the psychologist of Consolidated, would now watch lips as well as hips.

Just before a red light flashed, which would show that the cameras were turning and the microphones recording, two more men joined the crowd behind the booth; one was from the publicity office; the second, very tall and very serious, was John Andrew. The jade green Mercury, puffing opulence, and stopped by Kellogg directly in front (no parking) of the columned portals of Consolidated, had properly impressed the boy at the information desk; John Andrew had immediately fallen in with the half uttered suggestion that "if you want to interview Miss Ames f'r public'ty, how'd you like t' see her workin' right on the set?" and the Mercury, plus John Andrew's austere calmness, had taken him past gates where only executives and feature writers dared tread. John Andrew had discovered at the address Anne had given him that she was already working; the boy at the studio had discovered that custom built roadsters were never to be ignored; the publicity department had found in John Andrew's brusque answer to their question, "Where're you from?" something to bow to (naturally supposing that he had presented full credentials in the outer office); New York—which was all Kellogg told them, might mean anything, including a spy from the main offices sent to see how properly Hollywood cared for the gentlemen of the press . . . and John Andrew was sent inside. Thus he did better than tourists, congressmen, and judges.

There was absolute silence now (John Andrew concealed behind the booth); the red light flashed; a green light flashed in a different part of the room. The director, final signal, raised his forefinger. In dead silence—no violins throbbing Avalon, no portable organ wheezing throatily, Anne picked up a book and opened it, while inside the booth the cameras turned, motor driven, and the live microphones picked up the soft sounds as the girl moved a bit in her chair. The scene swung into action, without a word or sign from the director; a doorbell rang, and Anne stood up, going to a door on the side of the set; she opened it, and Chester entered the room.

"Lo, honey."

Anne, smiling: "Hello. You're late. You're cold."

As Anne helped him off with his coat: "Come 'round in front of me, sweetest, where I can see you."

The sounds were recorded through microphones; the ringing of the bell, the turning of the lock in the door, the conversation, however, were not directly registered, but went up to the "mixing room," not yet dignified with a scientific name, where an engineer maintained an even, steady sound in the loud speakers, a hundred feet distant, by alternately raising or lowering the amplification. When the doorbell rang he turned a dial swiftly, lest a noise like the gong of a fire engine be recorded; when Anne's first words were low, he amplified them; suddenly lights flashed in the set and the engineer looked back a plate glass window in his room and thrust his head into the set itself.

"What're you guys makin,' the battle of the Marne?" he demanded. "All I hear's machine guns goin'. Who's wearin' a watch on the set near the mikes?"

Anne shook her head; the director held up bare wrists; Chester, flushing, said, "I've got to look at my watch in this scene. I——"

The cameras had ceased turning; every one in the room relaxed.

"Get a dead one," the youthful technician said. "That clock comes through the mike like the advance of the marines. And"—impersonally, to Anne—"I haven't heard you walk rapidly yet, but if you've got on silk pants take 'em off. It sounds like a rainstorm when silk moves."

Chester's ticking watch was replaced by one which was not running. John Andrew, since Anne was listening to the director (and avoiding the eyes of the other girl stars) himself listened to the flow of explanatory words from his guide.

Again the warning horn, the red lights, the snapped "Interlock!"

Anne's face was tan under its coating of liquid rouge and powder, her eyebrows brown with paint; to John Andrew, only her eyes were her own. The doorbell rang again; again the greeting; slowly the two players walked toward a broad divan, over which another microphone was suspended; as they talked John Andrew decided suddenly that he didn't especially care for action pictures. It was becoming obvious, from the words of the dialogue, from Chester's arms about Anne, that he was going to witness a high point, a dramatic moment, one of those scenes used for poster advertising.

The critical actresses listened to Anne's words, the recording apparatus took them down. Man and woman worked to the climax of the scene without music, without word of direction. John Andrew tried to take his eyes away, tried to tell himself that this was only acting, but when Anne's arms crept slowly around Chester's neck and she lifted her face to his, straining forward, he made a little noise in his throat, covering it swiftly by reaching for a cigaret and flicking flame from his lighter; he held his head down as he lit the paper tube, and then, pleased that he must have missed the remainder of the action, looked up. Anne was still held tightly, her lips pressed against Chester's, her eyes closed, her face ecstatic. John Andrew puffed furiously.

He had always been against censorship, but saw now that it had its good points.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

(I can guarantee you a merry time if a visit to "The Taming of the Shrew" is included in your program for the day.)

Out of dignified Pickfair has emerged the delightfully unexpected. Doug and Mary in their first—and, they assert, their last—co-starring venture have thrown dignity to the winds. In the guise of Shakespeare's broncho-tempered Katherine and the hilariously determined Petruchio who would not be "Kate-ed" they are a riotous Max-Sennetian pair whose picture version of the merry classic clings quite close enough to the original to satisfy the average beholder. The famous couple come down to earth with a good, sound, healthy bounce. Their appeal is to the stomach laugh, and they get it. Miss Pickford, as Kate, foiled in her missile hurling career, takes falls and whacks on the head indomitably. She gets all dirtied up and doesn't care. Mr. Fairbanks is squeamish at nothing.

The film gives Katherine a little the better of it than did Mr. Shakespeare. It permits her to overhear some communications confided in the ear of a sage looking hound that light her way and enable her to outwit Petruchio without his realizing even unto the end of the chapter that his little wife has put one over on him. It's not Shakespeare, of course, but it IS funny.

The wedding of Katherine and Petruchio is another rib tickling sequence. The meeting of the two is quite highly humorous, reminding you of racing pictures where the favorite named Dynamite is discovered kicking her stall to pieces.

Taken as a whole the piece is one of the most amusing comedy al-talkers that has been screened. It is beautifully staged, has an able and cheerful supporting cast and—here's good news for your ears—is short and snappy. The director, Mr. Sam Taylor, is a smart fellow!

See you tomorrow.

Columbia University Gets Library on Medieval Laws

New York, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The Columbia university school of law today announced the purchase of 4,250 volumes comprising the library of Von Richthofen, a German scholar who died in 1888, as a part of the school's efforts to rescue evidence of old European law.

The Richthofen library, the announcement said, is considered one of the most valuable records of the law as it existed in various cities and towns in Germany during medieval times.

Included in the collection are a history of the laws of the Frisians, a Teutonic people who were settled in the region about the north sea adjoining the Saxons who conquered England; rare items dealing with the customary laws of towns and cities in The Netherlands and northern Germany; old grammars, dictionaries, and glossaries; scientific treatises on European local law, and important genealogies.

The law library started six years ago to purchase materials relating to local laws in France as the beginning of its plans of obtaining a comprehensive body of works bearing upon the custom law of Europe.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Ella F. Noltemair, 4727 Malden street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

If you were Santa Claus, what would you give to Chicago?

The Answers.

Casemir Szerlong, 1834 North Luna avenue, optician—I would give Chicago a couple of subways, so we could get to and from work. Chicago is snowed under, and millions have to be out and on the go. I'd give Chicago a clean city, physically and politically. If the city administration would coöperate with the Surface lines, that would help.

Mrs. M. Block, 120 North La Salle street, real estate dealer — Chicago needs more improvements—subways and more and better schools. If Chicago did what it should do, it would establish more playgrounds; there is nothing more important than plenty of playgrounds.

George W. Carlsten, 3140 Seminary avenue, student—I would give Chicago a subway. I believe the evidence is conclusive that we need an underground railway system. Such a system would keep us out of the rain, snow and excessive cold and heat, giving speed and comfort going to and from work.

Miss Katherine Porzel, 6340 South Keeler avenue, typist—Chicago needs a subway, especially in such weather as we have been having recently. If Santa Claus had to wait on one of our street car corners to take him downtown he wouldn't leave the city without giving us a complete subway system.

Morrie Spillman, 3121 West 15th street, clerk—A network of rapid transit subways and there would be no stalling around about it. There should be more playgrounds for children, and no delay about that, either. Some new school buildings would go up on present vacant blocks, and legal bickerings wouldn't hinder that work.

World Grows Better, Church Holiday Word

Hopeful Home, Foreign Events Are Cited.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Opening with the declaration that good will is the most significant of all Christmas gifts, the Christmas message of the Chicago Church federation, representing 17 denominations and 800 congregations, pleaded for the continued growth of a new spirit of understanding between all groups, religious, economic, racial and international.

The message was read yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the federation by the Rev. Gilbert S. Cox, chairman of the federation's commission on world friendship.

"Good will cannot remove the frictions and stubborn differences among us," the message stated, "but it can furnish the spirit in which they can be adjusted. The world waits upon that spirit. Science and commerce have made us neighbors, good will can make us brothers."

A note of optimism and evidences of progress in the direction of increased good will were pointed out in the message. The determination of business men to maintain wages at their present level in spite of the possibility of economic depression, and the study of the unemployment problem by a special presidential commission were indicated as movements in the right direction.

"With the exception of the textile industry, the last year has been one of peace and coöperation between employer and employé," the message pointed out. "In the difficult field of race relationships, there has been a growing spirit of understanding. Lynching is almost gone. There has been no single outbreak of interracial ill will in the nation. The new leadership growing up in the south, especially among the students, is a most hopeful sign."

The message was particularly eloquent in its reference to the development of international peace during the last year. In that respect, the year was declared to be "epoch making." The long steps toward peace between the various religious sects have offered the example to the nations which, according to the statement, was recently dramatized by Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain in his visit to President Hoover.

THEATER

"JUNE MOON":

Play, in three acts, by Ring Lardner and George S. Kaufman, based by them on the former's tale called "Some Like Them Cold": text and tunes of incidental songs by Mr. Lardner: made known in Chicago (by Sam H. Harris) December 23, 1929, in the Selwyn Theater, with this cast:

Fred Stevens.....Edward Woods
Edna Baker.....Edith Arnold
Paul Sears.....James Spottswood
Lucille.....Edith Van Cleve
Eileen.....Ruth Holden
Maxie.....Murray Smith
Goldie.....Cyrena Smith
A window-cleaner.....John Daly Murphy
A man named Brainard.....Harold Grau
Benny Fox.....Ross Hertz
Mr. Hart.....Fred Irving Lewis
Miss Rixey.....Beatrice Powers

BUT you don't have to read "Some Like Them Cold" to obtain a foundation for "June Moon," which is explicit, self-contained, and of itself all right. And it is all fun—real fun, quick and topical and of that sort which implies alertness on your part. You will, probably, be no more able than I am to tell what is Lardner and what is Kaufman; and you will, probably, care less than I care: one of my troubles is that I like to believe that I know these things. Of course, it doesn't matter: Ashton Stevens long ago quoted somebody,—a chorus-girl, I seem to remember,—as having said to him that plays don't care who writes them.

However, I'm risking a guess that Mr. Lardner wrote the prologue, wherein Fred and Edna meet in a chair-car on their way to New-York: he from Schenectady, where he has given up his job with the General Electric because he is made to believe that Broadway is calling for him to write its songs, and she from some other place. They're young boobs; and their talk has the authenticity which Mr. Lardner puts into the talk of boobs of any age. Well, Fred writes a lyric, "June Moon," which is pretty bad; and Paul, who once wrote a hit called "Paprika," writes a tune, which is pretty bad; and the money rolls their way. Fred spends his on Eileen, who, like his song, is pretty bad, and all but marries her after she has been tossed aside by Mr. Hart, who makes his money by publishing the bad songs.

But Maxie, who plays most of the bad songs of Broadway on any old piano, cuts in as a deus-ex-machina, and brings Fred and Edna together in time to use the steamer-tickets Fred had bought for his contemplated honeymoon with Eileen. However, Maxie isn't smart enough to make of Fred any less of a boob: Fred is incurable in that respect. And there is nothing Maxie is able to do for Paul, whose wife, Lucille, is grown tired of her drab, cheeseparing life with a one-finger composer, and is accepting clothes and such from an old beau. That is the tale of "June Moon."

But telling the tale doesn't quite tell all that "June Moon" is in its worth as skillful, rich, intelligent fun. It is a witty, pitiless, lovable account of life, love, lust, and license among the fauna of what in other days was called Tin-Pan Alley. Tin-Pan Alley, as a definite highway, is gone; but its spirit remains part of the ailment called Broadway. I have met (or I believe I have met) every character, including Benny, who is eager to have somebody pass on his new song, "Give My Child a Name," which, he says, is all about a young couple who have a child in two-four time without benefit to a clergyman, and you can dance to it. And I remembered fifty fellows like Maxie the moment he told Paul that it was a sad day for him when Edison invented the piano.

The cast listed above gives a perfect account of what Mr. Lardner and Mr. Kaufman have contrived. A special cheer belongs to Mr. Smith for his realism as the sapient, cynical, ready Maxie, and another to Miss Van Cleve for the skill with which she denotes the mordaunt humors of Lucille. It is worth the cost of a seat to hear her explain to Eileen, her sister, that they have telephones now even in Philadelphia.

Passion Play City Observes Christmas Eve

Trees Are Lighted on Some of Graves.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

OBERAMMERGAU, Bavaria, Dec. 24.—Christmas at Oberammergau! The spirit of Christmas, with the purest faith in Jesus the Nazarene and the Virgin Mary and gratitude to the God above shines nowhere with a more brilliant flame on this Christmas eve than in this small village of passion play fame.

It is passion play year for Oberammergau. For close to three centuries generation after generation of the villagers have religiously carried out the vow to their ancestors to stage a passion play every decade in gratitude for the ending of a plague in 1623.

The outward details accentuate it. There is an old Oberammergau tradition of placing Christmas trees on the graves. Some villagers even try to light candles on the graves on a bright Christmas night in memory of the dead to whom they feel so close.

Now on Christmas eve all the windows of the quaint little houses are decorated with Christmas light. The glow of the candles of the huge Christmas trees reflect through the windows on the shiny snow and out of all the houses stream tunes of Christmas songs, dear to the hearts of all Germans. The church bells are chiming timidly in the early evening and until midnight when they will ring out at full force and echo from mountain to mountain and the whole village and the nearby valley, including the sick who can be carried, plod through the snow to the church for high mass.

In this twentieth century you will find Alois Lang, who will impersonate Jesus Christ in the Passion play. Tonight Lang is in his home, his dark locks flowing over his shoulders, distributing small presents under the lighted Christmas tree to servants, carpenters, bricklayers, and their families. His wife, whose grandfather was a British missionary in India, is playing some of Beethoven's music.

The workers at the Lang celebration helped him add new rooms to his house which is the largest in the village. Its size will make it possible for Lang to house 34 of the guests Oberammergau expects from America and all parts of the world to witness the passion play which begins May 11.

In a tiny house Anni Rutz, who will portray the Virgin Mary, has the rôle in tonight's ceremonies. Anni plays the violin, her sister, Mia, the cello, and young Gretchen the piano. They have been with their mother to the cemetery. There they lighted candles on a Christmas tree they had placed at the father's grave Sunday.

It is a rare luxury for them to have an evening together without work for since the father's death a few years ago Anni has been toiling to earn a living for the mother and sisters.

TALK OVER WILL OF MILLIONAIRE STARTS INQUIRY

Relatives of Late Iowa State Senator Quarrel.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Contradictory wills and dissension among relatives over the million dollar estate of the late George Lafayette Finn, state senator of Iowa, today moved the case from Probate court to the district attorney's office, following reports that death might not have resulted naturally.

Deputy District Attorney Daniel Beecher said an investigation would be started at once on assertions of some relatives that Finn gave a nurse and a physician $100,000 to "put me to sleep forever." Another charge was that a physician had withheld the last will of Finn, made three days before his death here last January, "to force payment of a $100,000 note."

Beecher said that his investigators would check both stories as far as possible, but that cremation of Finn's body made it impossible to make a chemical analysis of the remains. He said the statements of the relatives were based on hearsay and not direct evidence.

It was Mrs. Gladys McAfee, grandniece of the millionaire, who told Beecher that a nurse had informed her Finn paid $100,000 to die; also that before his death Finn repeatedly told nurses he was being poisoned. He was 89 years old.

During court litigation over three wills left by Finn there was a scuffle over one document found in possession of Dr. Frank Murphy, former physician to Finn, and the paper was torn. Murphy said Finn had told him to keep the paper secret for six months after his death.

RECORD SNOW DRIFT DEFIES ROAD CREWS IN IROQUOIS COUNTY

Iroquois county citizens began digging their roads out from beneath three high snow drifts yesterday after country traffic had been held up for days. In surveying their white countryside, the citizens of Watseka found a mammoth drift which they point to as the world's largest.

One-half mile east of Watseka on the county road lay a rolling mass of snow 900 yards long, of an average depth of sixteen feet and about forty feet in width, completely covering the roadway. Crusted with ice on its surface, the drift resembled a small glacier and proved almost invulnerable to snow plows. Oldtimers in the flat prairie-like vicinity said it was the largest drift they had ever seen.

Another drift, just east of Piper City and near the county line was 300 feet long and about twelve feet deep. This too lay across a roadway and had not been cleared away when exhausted workers went home for Christmas eve. Still another drift, this one 450 yards long and spread along U. S. 24 west of Sheldon was four or five feet deep. After working all day bands of shovelers, aided by snow plows, had made a path through it admitting one way traffic. By nightfall the county was emerging from its white blanket.

SKULL FRACTURED BY WINDOW.

John Monroe, 45 year old carpenter of 6153 South Kolmar avenue, suffered a skull fracture yesterday when an ice covered storm window fell upon his head as he attempted to adjust it on a porch at 4245 South Kedzie avenue.

CHICAGO'S YARDS NOW MEDICINE CHEST OF WORLD

Europe Seeks Products to Cure Disease.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's stockyards have developed into one of the world's great sources of medicinal products. As a token of the changing age, the slaughter and packing houses which in early days gained the title "the cow and hog butcher for the world" have become recognized centers of science for the relief of suffering humanity.

From London THE TRIBUNE recently received word that Armour and company have become an established standby for the medical profession of England and Europe as suppliers of rare animal extracts. The science of glandular products is still in its infancy. Two packing houses, Armour's and Wilson & Co., have research laboratories operating in a commercial way. Now medical men the world over look to Chicago's yards as a leading producer of medicinal preparations that are the equivalent of therapeutically active fresh glands.

Important to World's Medicine.

It's one of the things about Chicago which do not often get into print, being less exciting than gunmen and gang wars. Besides, medical ethics frown upon much publicity. But to the doctors of the world, Chicago has become a producing center of important medicines of animal origin.

For thiry years, the Armour laboratory, which is located in one of the largest abbatoirs in the world, has been keeping pace with scientific discoveries. For the medical profession only, no less than 51 preparations are made, glands and membranes being used while fresh in the plant laboratories. Among the medicinal agents produced are liver extract, pepsin, pancreatin, extract of red bond marrow and pituitary liquid. For 24 years, Dr. Fred Fenger, who used to be city chemist of Chicago, has been head of the laboratory.

Down at the yards, the scientists speak of "the romance of liver." It indicates the difference between the meat industry of forty years ago and today, and the great transformation science has worked in the ultilization of the by-products of meat packing.

The liver used to be one of the waste products. It used to be given away. The surplus used to be dumped in trenches on the prairie. It was a food supply for sea gulls from the lake. One market was the state, which brought quantities for next to nothing for feeding fishes. Now that is all changed due to experimental work by the scientists. The liver has become a source of medicine for building up red blood corpuscles. The doctors of the world are calling for the extract faster than it can be distributed.

Effective in Blood Cases.

Some years ago, Dr. Whipple of Rochester university discovered that use of liver as a food was effective in blood regeneration in secondary anemia. Then in 1927 two noted scientists at Harvard university, Doctors Minot and Murphy, after years of diet work in clinics and hospitals, announced that of all foods, liver is one of the most effective in the relief and cure of pernicious anemia. They proclaimed liver as the most efficacious food in building red blood.

Later at the University of Chicago, the late Dr. K. K. Koessler and his co-workers, Drs. M. T. Hanke and S. Mauer, originated a process of making a liquid extract of beef liver that was found very potent in pernicious anemia. That is what Armour's is now making commercially and marketing to the medical profession. It is made from livers inspected by the government and put into process while the tissue still retains its animal heat. The despatch from London said some of the greatest English medical specialists have been using it with success in the last seven or eight months, and that the demand is such that the supply is scarce and the product difficult to get.

This extract, it is pointed out by way of warning, is nothing for the layman to prescribe. Properly used under direction of a physician, it is said to be working out as well in cases of pernicious anemia as the profession looked for, although the doctors point out it is wrong to expect it to work magic.

The liver extract is also being made in laboratories in other cities, and in recent months has come into much demand professionally. When the discovery was first announced a year or two ago, it started what was called a "liver fad" and liver was made part of the daily diet by many and prices went up almost as high as sirloin, and the sales indicate it is still growing in popularity as a meat.

The laboratory specialists declare the medicinal properties of liver have not been exhausted. They are still experimenting for qualities still to be discovered.

Become World's Medicine Chest.

The research men declare the medicinal use of glands is only in its incipiency. Experimental work goes on in the hospitals and universities and medical schools and clinics, and when a process is discovered, then to get a commercial supply the world has to come where the supply of raw materials is fresh, and the world's abbatoirs have developed into the world's medicine chest.

Besides the more recent preparations from the liver, many other medicinal agents are being made at the yards from the membranes and glands of hog, cow, and sheep. Pepsin is from the lining of the pig's stomach, and is used as an aid to digestion. Pancreatin comes from the hog's belly sweetbread, and is used to peptonize food for infants and invalids. Thyroid glands of sheep are made into powder and tablets, for use in diseases due to a deficiency of thyroid secretion, such as goiter.

Suprarenal preparations are made from the glands that are located just above the kidneys. Suprerenalin, which is a powerful astringent and heart stimulant, is worth more than $5,000 a pound, but to produce that pound 135,000 sheep are needed. It is used in bloodless operations on the eye and nose, and it has been on the market for nearly a quarter of a century—made in "the yards." In India it is used for cobra bites—the snake poison curdles the blood until the heart cannot normally pump it and the medicine stimulates the heart action.

'BASEBALL HERO' IS EXPOSED AS A VAGRANT FAKER

Danny Murphy, a West Madison street vagrant, who claimed to be Dan Murphy, baseball hero of twenty years ago, was exposed yesterday as an impostor. The real Dan Murphy of baseball fame is living in Jersey City and is a well to do business man. The West Madison street Murphy identified himself as a former member of a Lebanon, Pa., semi-professional baseball team.

Murphy's story had caused Judge Samuel Heller in the Des Plaines street court Monday to take up a collection. A dozen calls were received by the judge from old friends of the real Murphy offering to give him financial aid. The judge was about to take Murphy to a hotel dinner when a message came from Eddie Collins, coach of the Philadelphia Athletics, exposing the fraud.

Instead of being the honored guest at a feast, Murphy was in a cell last night with bread and sausage as his fare.

OFFICE BUILDING ROOF IS USED FOR ICE SKATING RINK

If Santa Claus wanted to get a good bird's eye view of the chimneys of Chicago last night, he should have halted his reindeer on the ice-covered roof of the 333 North Michigan building, where members of the Tavern club are skating during the holidays. Used as a roof garden in summer, the club has turned it into a private skating rink. The firm layer of ice on it was frozen during the last few days, after water was sprayed on a smooth surface. It is believed to be the highest skating rink in the world, being 270 feet from Michigan avenue, according to Karleton Hackett, president of the club.

SHOT TWICE FLEEING

Joseph Miller, 24 years old, who lived in Memphis, Tenn., was shot in the right leg and left arm last night by Frederick Hammangren, 6135 Parkside avenue, a private watchman, as Miller was in an alley after a parking space attendant caught him tampering with an automobile on West Monroe street.

Mrs. Bevans Sends a Christmas Message to All Her Readers

A booklet by Mrs. Bevans on "Books to Be Read to Children or by Them" will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

And I kept saying to myself, "What shall I write about on Christmas day? Christmas is no ordinary day. Christmas is about the most special day there is in all the year. It seems as though there's almost nothing beautiful or worth while that Christmas day doesn't stand for. What can I write about that will be worthy of Christmas day?"

And I thought and thought—and when I stopped for a minute I realized that all I had thought was, "I wish I could send a very specially personal Christmas greeting to every one who follows this department. But I can't." And then I realized that I can—of course I can, right here and now. So I do

Wish a most happy Christmas
To the young mothers of babies,
To the mothers of growing children,
To the mothers of already grown up children,
To grandmothers,
To fathers who, with the mothers, care about their children's welfare,
To those young fathers who have been bereft and who are trying to "carry on" for their babies alone,
To the young men and women who are looking ahead to the time when they will have children,
To those who are teachers or who are caring for children not their own,
To those who have become mothers by adoption.
To all of you I wish a very merry Christmas.

And to those many readers, both men and women, who have written me with such friendly warmth since my department began, who have gone out of their way to wish me success and happiness I want to express my deepest thanks for the inspiration and happiness in my work that their letters have meant to me.

A very, very Merry Christmas to you all!

(Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Paintings Reflect the Christmas Story in Renaissance Style

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There has been put on view for the Christmas season a very lovely Madonna and Child at the Anderson galleries. It is a rare painting. The virgin is seated and holds the baby standing on her lap, its cheek pressed confidingly on hers. The painting is a Flemish primitive and a recent acquisition of the gallery.

This Madonna and Child was painted by Abrosius Benson about 1500. The robe of the virgin is a beautiful scarlet and the background is a rich green. The color of the madonna's dress is a point of interest for scarlet is of very rare occurrence in the history of painting. The Flemish primitive painters, as did this one, employed it infrequently, the Italians never. Whenever the virgin's dress was painted the color was always a beautiful blue.

At the Art institute there are several interesting paintings, recently acquired, which deal with the life of Christ. The beautiful El Greco, "Jesus at the House of Simon," which first was seen at the Arts club, has now been loaned by Joseph Winterbotham Jr. to the Art institute and hangs in all its grandeur in the large open gallery on the second floor. This is a truly magnificent painting.

The Christmas season does not lend itself to thoughts of death but close at hand is hung the tragic "Crucifixion" by Carlo Crivelli, considered one of the most important Crivellis in existence and a recent purchase of the Art institute. The exquisite interest of the detail and the beauty of the painting take much of the sadness from the picture.

Another El Greco owned by the Art institute and lending itself by suggestion to the present recital of paintings is the beautiful "Ascension of the Virgin" [and here we find Mary in the traditional blue robes], which is by many authorities here and in Spain considered El Greco's most gorgeous painting, at all events by far the most beautiful to be found outside of Spain

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The clever lines of this featherweight tweed dress will go a long way towards making the woman of average full figure look slender. The plaited section inserted at the front is stitched part way down from the top to give a smooth fit through the hips, and the inset pockets have flap closing. The diagonal lines on the front show the modern influence, and the full length sleeves are gathered and set into narrow bands. Brick red silk crêpe with matching sheer velvet and black crêpe satin, using the dull surface for the contrast are both smart suggestions.

The pattern, 2640, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 40 inch material with ⅝ yard of 40 inch contrasting, and ¼ yard of 9 inch light contrasting.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Open Mouthed.

Recently I changed positions and, in doing so, I arranged to have lunch an hour earlier than usual.

All during the afternoon I was ravenously hungry, and on my way home that evening I fell asleep long enough to dream of something good to eat.

Of course, I had to wake up before I got that something to eat, and I did wake up to find my mouth wide open in anticipation of food.

People were trying not to smile or grin at me, which made me feel just that much sillier. E. B.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Strawberry growers can make money now, even though winter is here, by mulching their patches and thereby increasing the crop of marketable fruit next season, according to Dr. A. S. Colby of the pomology division, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Mulching prevents alternate freezing and thawing of the soil, which lifts the plants out of the ground. It also protects the roots and crowns from the drying effect of winter winds. If carefully handled and removed at the right time, a mulch may keep the plants from starting into growth too early in an abnormally early spring. Weeds are less troublesome during the following fruiting season, valuable moisture is kept in the soil near the plants and the berries are cleaner and larger than they would be otherwise.

Among the mulching materials that may be used are stable manure, straw of various kinds, wild or marsh hay, leaves, planer shavings and pine needles. Cornstalks and rye straw are not recommended. Wheat straw is one of the best mulches. Marsh hay also is good, as it is free from seed. Oat straw often is used, but it may pack down rather tightly, an objection also found to the use of leaves.

If straw is used care must be taken to see that it is as free from grain and weed seeds as possible, for the seeds will germinate in the spring and it will be hard to keep the plantation clean. If old straw can be obtained it is to be preferred on this account. New straw should be shaken out before being used as a mulch. Chaff from the straw pile should not be used, as it may contain weed and grain seed and it has a tendency to pack. The mulch should be applied late, after the plants have become dormant. From two and a half to five tons of straw are sufficient for an acre.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Old Time Christmas Viands.

In "The Southern Literary Journal and Monthly Magazine" for March, 1836, which was published in Charleston, S. C., there is an article entitled, "Christmas in the Parishes." The Christmas guests arrived two days before Christmas and were received with a "mixture of stateliness and hilarity which marked the hospitality of that day." The writer says: "I have some dim memory of certain huge hams and a vast round of spiced beef, and sundry wild duck from the rice fields and a covey or two of partridges and a portly wild turkey of the sex called gobbler."

These were remembered as being placed on "the expectant supper table" by a strange set of servitors, half in liveries, half not, while some were shod and some were unshod, but all merry. The writer says that shoes and stockings seemed incompatible with each other, because some were shuffling along with huge shoes but no stockings and some wore stockings but no shoes.

But the supper was delicious and evidently contained items other than those mentioned, because it says: "After the havoc of many venison steaks and of multitudes of hot cakes of all sorts, poured in from the kitchen by regular and rapid express, and relays of young and light footed Negroes, the gay and hearty repast was finally crowned by a jocund bowl of frothy egg nog; which dismissed us, with little delay, to deep and dreamless repose, prolonged far into the ensuing morning."

The "morning" was the day before Christmas, or Christmas eve, and there was to be a grand hunt. The plantation on which this hunt took place was a small world of many people with all the paraphernalia of the hunt and all the gayety of young hunters playing many antics and full of merriment and laughter.

It is easy to find colorful descriptions of Christmas celebrations in European countries but we like to know of merry Christmases that have been in the United States.

Fashion Moves, Urban Christmas Day of Parties

BY THALIA ——.

Along with other horse and buggy traditions, the idea that Christmas day must be reserved for family gatherings to the exclusion of all other solicitations has gone into the discard. The family luncheon or dinner persists, but that is only one period in a day full of all kinds of parties. Of course, for those attending the "old home" Christmases, such as the Frank O. Lowdens are having at Sinissippi farm, and that of Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, who is surrounded by her family at her place at Oconomowoc, Wis., there is no running out to ride and dances later in the day, but for the town and suburban dwellers there is much partying.

The Richard T. Foxes are having a large Christmas day party at their place in Wheaton, and the John Crawford McKeowns of Winnetka are giving a début tea for their daughter, Miss Ann Winifred McKeown. This evening the Potter Palmers are to give a dance at their residence at 1350 Lake Shore drive, and there is also the black and white costume ball the Frank G. Logans are to give at the Blackstone for their débutante granddaughter, Miss Phoebe Logan.

George W. Dixon and his daughter, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, will entertain the various branches of their large family at the Dixon residence for Christmas dinner, Mrs. Wilton B. Martin, who went to California to be with Miss Grace Dixon for the holidays, and Miss Dixon will be the only missing members of the clan. The Bernard A. Eckharts will have with them their son and daughter-in-law, the Percy B. Eckharts of Kenilworth will have the latter's daughter, Marion and Eleanor, and the Rev. and Mrs. E. Reginald Williams and their children of Milwaukee, Wis. A granddaughter, Charlotte Eckhart, is studying in Paris, and Mrs. Truman W. Brophy [Hazel Eckhart] is in Egypt.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Dodge of New York City are here for a holiday visit with Mrs. Dodge's parents, the David R. Forgans of Evanston, the first trip to Chicago since their marriage last summer at St. Andrews, New Brunswick. Mrs. Dodge is the former Mrs. W. Vernon Booth Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Honoré Palmer and their sons, Honoré Jr. and D'Orsay, are in Chicago for one of their infrequent visits and they will, of course, be present at the Palmer dance this evening. The senior Prince and Princess Cantacusene were to have come to for Christmas, but the latter is in London with her son-in-law and daughter, the John Hanbury-Williamses, who recently became the parents of twin daughters.

Dr. and Mrs. Shirley Munns [Cyrena van Gordon] held open house at their residence at 67 East Division street last night.

Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy is to have two box parties at the Kinsolving musical morning tomorrow at the Blackstone, after which she is to give a luncheon for Claire Dux [Mrs. Charles H. Swift], who is to sing at the musical. Others beside the regular subscribers who have taken seats for the program include Mrs. Wilhelm L. Bonn, Mrs. George Lytton, Mrs. Henry Veeder, and Louis F. Swift.

The last performance of the Junior league's "The Patchwork Girl of Oz" on Saturday morning will be unusually gay. The cast is to come before the curtain and down into the audience after the play is over, so that the children can see all the characters close up. Meanwhile, the leaguers are busy today and tomorrow painting the scenery for the new play, "The Princess and the Goblins," which is to have its premiere on Jan. 4. Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III. has designed it with the assistance of Miss Jane Dunham.

The Chicago chapter of the alumnae association of Trinity college, Washington, D. C., will hold its annual dinner dance on Saturday evening at the Congress hotel.

Mrs. Austin H. Niblack, whose husband is M. F. H. of the Onwentsia Hunt club, Mrs. Laurance Armour, and Mrs. John Payne Kellogg are to pour at a tea to open an exhibition of Old English sporting prints and ale of the 18th and 19th centuries at the Carson Pirie Scott galleries on Friday, Jan. 3, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Miss Theodora Shaw is spending the Christmas holidays as the guest of Miss Frances Archbold at Thomasville, Ga., who was her house guest last summer. Her mother, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw, returned recently from a trip to Sicily and is at her apartment at 2450 Lakeview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Whitney and Miss Henrietta Eleanor Counties have cards out for an at home from 5 to 7 o'clock on New Year's Eve at the Whiting residence at 3134 Lake Shore drive.

Dog "Trees" a Kitten; Girl Calls Firemen

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 24.—[Special.]—"Thomson, save my child," cried a mother cat, a little Ashland girl surmised, and full of Christmas cheer, she turned in the fire alarm. The brave heroes arrived, expecting to encounter a Christmas tree fire. Up went a ladder, and soon the life saving job was complete. The bulldog which had treed the kitten on a telephone pole was treated to a dash of cold water.

U. of C. Profs. Busy During the Vacation; Will Attend Meetings

More than 100 members of the University of Chicago faculty left yesterday or will leave today to spend the holidays representing the university at various academic congresses being held this week throughout the country.

Chicago men will preside over three of the most important of these meetings: President William F. Ogburn as president of the American Sociological society at Washington, D. C.; Prof. William a Nitze as president of the American Linguistic society meeting at Columbus, O., and Dean Henry Gordon Gale as president of the American Physical society at Des Moines.

At Des Moines also the Ecological Society of America will meet with Dr. Warder C. Allee of the university zoology department presiding, and so will the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Society at the Opera

Society's preference for spending Christmas Eve around the family tree was responsible for the many vacancies in the box circle at the performance last night of "La Forza del Destino."

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn and Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McCormick were joint hosts in their boxes to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morris of New York, Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, and Thomas Furness. They arrived at the opening of the third act, following a dinner at the McCormick residence.

In the William Wrigley Jr. box Dr. Julia Strawn had a group of guests, including Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ince, Mrs. Mary Strawn Randall, Miss Harriet Hughes, and Mrs. Ida Strawn Randall. Mrs. Harold Leopold was hostess to Mrs. I. A. Karcher, Leonard Karcher, and Clayton Tobias.

Mrs. George F. James entertained a group in the Charles B. Pike box, including George F. James Jr., Miss Frances Ten Eyck, Miss Mary Caton, and Mrs. C. G. Sholes. Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Emerson, Dr. Alfred Romer, Miss Hope Hibbard, and Dr. and Mrs. Hackett Newman occupied the Charles H. Swift box.

In the Frederick H. Rawson box Mrs. George Halleck Taylor was hostess to Malcolm B. Conant, Leonard Prince, and Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis. Mrs. W. A. Nabors, Howard Henderson, Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, Dr. Mary Tipton Mullins, and Mrs. J. B. Weyman occupied the George T. Leach box.

Well, your beauty adviser could make out a perfectly appalling list of the features about you that are influenced for ill when this habit is let to run along unchecked, and the least of these would not be its effect on the skin and on the hair. Yes, and, if you will believe it, it's a habit that helps you pile on weight!

But to get back to the hair and the complexion: accumulated waste matter, in the simplest possible language, pollutes your blood stream.

P. B. M.: COFFEE AND TEA ARE not harmful if used in moderation. Caffein and tannic acid are the harmful agents in these beverages. The amount is increased by boiling. Tea should be steeped—not boiled.

I. F.: WHERE COLD SORES appear frequently there is reason to suspect some disturbance of digestion, which should be corrected. Camphor ice may be applied. It is well to soften the lips with cold cream several times during the day.

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Clubroom for Boys.

"We are establishing a club room in my basement as a congregating place for the boys in the neighborhood. We desire to give it a woodsy atmosphere as we are all lovers of the great outdoors. We would like to get some mission furniture, deer antlers and stuffed animals or birds to help carry out the general motif of a log cabin and would appreciate any you get for us. R. K."

This should be a most attractive meeting place for the boys to spend their leisure hours in once the decorating and furnishing are completed. Have you a piece or two to contribute?

Offers Mandolin.

"I have a mandolin with case which you might dispose of to some youngsters who could make use of it. If you know of any one, please let me know. C. R."

What a lovely gift this will make to the aspiring young musician who cannot afford the instrument he has been dreaming of and longing for! If you would like to have it I shall be glad to have you write; please do not telephone.

CANADA TO FIGHT U. S. ACTION ON LAKE DIVERSION

Minister Claims Chicago "Passes the Buck."

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, announced today that Canada would protest strongly against any attempt by Chicago to obtain congressional authority for diverting water from Lake Michigan into the Mississippi river.

"It is just possible," he said, "that advantage will be taken by Chicago to endeavor to secure from congress authority to divert some stated amount of water from Lake Michigan through the Chicago canal to the Mississippi river for the ostensible purpose of improving navigation on that route. This will have the effect of transferring the dispute to congress, where, of course, it is to be anticipated that the lake bordering states will undoubtedly oppose such a procedure, while Illinois and the Mississippi states may support the same."

Approves Hughes' Recommendation.

Mr. Stewart expressed satisfaction with the recommendation made to the United States Supreme court by Charles Hughes, whereby diversion from the great lakes by the Chicago sanitary district would be reduced in stages.

"The reduction to 6,500 second feet is to take place not later than July 1, 1930," he pointed out. "This means an almost immediate reduction of 2,000 second feet from the 8,500 second feet authorized in the permit of March 3, 1925. If there are no interruptions in construction works, the reduction to 1,500 second feet would be feasible on or before Dec. 31, 1938.

OPEN NEW CANAL SOON

BY STANLEY JACKSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 24.—Late next April or early next May 60 per cent of the new Welland ship canal, the fourth to be built across the Niagara peninsula to circumvent one of the world's greatest cataracts, will be used for navigation and by July 1 all of the new link in Canada's vital inland waterway will be open for ships.

It is estimated that the total cost of the new Welland ship canal will be slightly in excess of $120,000,000. The parliamentary appropriation for the current fiscal year was $10,000,000, of which $7,415,000 was spent up to the end of November. The total actual net expenditure on the new waterways up to Nov. 30 last, was $110,837,000.

The new Welland ship canal will have eight locks, less than one-third of the number in the old canal. The usable lengths of the locks will be 820 feet, and usable width 80 feet. The depth of water on the sills is 30 feet, the lift of the locks 46½ feet, and the height of the lower mitre gates, 82 feet. The width on the bottom of the canal prism is 200 feet and the width at water line 310 feet.

Water Depth 25 Feet.

The present navigable water depth is 25 feet, but it is capable of increase to a depth of 30 feet. The time estimated for filling a lock in the new canal is 8 minutes and the estimated total time for passage through the entire new canal from lake to lake, 8 hours, less than one-third required for passage through the old canal.

The actual length of the new canal is 25 miles, or slightly over 27 miles from the end of the new breakwater at Port Colbourne, in Lake Erie, to the end of the breakwater at Port Weller, in Lake Ontario.

Christmas Eve Oratorio Gives Elmer a Thrill

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Like a magnificent gift, welcome but unexpected was Bach's famous Christmas oratorio, from New York, through WGN, 8 to 9. The choir was that of the Society of the Friends of Music, the orchestral score was played by the studio orchestra, with bass drums added, and there was a competent soprano soloist, an organ and a harpsichord.

The orchestral part seemed bright and cheerful. Many of the choral numbers had a solemn tone, thoroughly lovely and thoroughly appropriate. If we could have just one great broadcast like this every evening what a wonderful thing radio would be—but that's asking too much.

I am sure the orchestral and vocal program of Christmas carols of many lands, through KYW, 7:30 to 8, was widely appreciated.

The W-G-N 7:30 to 8 orchestral program was secular, but peculiarly attractive, it being made up of numbers such as "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," "March of the Toys," and many Christmas selections.

A symphonic interpretation of the Nativity, composed by Alfred G. Wathall and played by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, was rather unique in character and pleasant both in story and music. In introducing the number, "Fantasy on Christmas Themes."

One of the most impressive, though among the less pretentious programs, was the last half of W-G-N's 9:30 to 10 half hour when the station orchestra burst out with an impressive orchestra number, followed by Sullivan's "Lost Chord."

A Christmas eve service was broadcast direct from the Messiah Lutheran church, through W-G-N, 11:30 to 12:30. Thus for late listeners did Christmas Eve end gloriously and Christmas Day begin as many of us would desire, with services and impressive sacred music.

Quin Ryan, dean of announcers, tells the story of the Three Wise Men on the first Christmas. He enacts the broadcast as though he were witnessing the trip of the men as they followed the Star of Bethlehem. This is one of the annual features of W-G-N's Christmas programs. A beautiful story, beautifully told this morning at 11:30.

St. Chrysostom's Choir Today

The Children's Choir, singing at the Christmas morning service of St. Chrysostom's Church, is to be broadcast today. Carols and hymns are to be sung under the direction of Harold Simonds. During the chorale, John Evans, religious editor of the Chicago Tribune, will talk about Christmas, and what it means. 10:00 a. m.

The Meaning of Christmas

A prominent clergyman of each of the outstanding religious orders in Chicago will give his views on "The Meaning of Christmas." The speakers will be Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary; Rabbi Abram Hirschberg of Temple Sholom, and the Rev. George H. Mahold of Loyola University. The talks will begin at 2:30 p. m.

Wathall's Rag Doll

An original musical interpretation of Carl Sandburg's "The Wedding of the Rag Doll and the Broomhandle," by Alfred G. Wathall, also prologue and announcements by Quin Ryan.

Artists Joke Over Gifts

The artists in the studio will discuss their Christmas presents before an eavesdropping microphone during the morning program. "What Did You Get?", this morning at 11:00.

Should a Widow Marry Again? The Answer Is: "She Does"

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Where betting and argumentative instincts abound, there will be betting and arguments. A fly on a shadow game can start a betting bout. A widow in an office can start an argument. One of her did. And what do you think was the argument? Whether a widow should marry again! As if all the money hadn't been paid off on that not-long chance, long ago! She do—and more power to her!

Every time a widow and a widower's names appears on a marriage license it's a boost for the institootion. For no one can tell like 'em as has tried it that it can be made quite a comfortable existence. Of course, we're not talking about those widdys who jump from one fireside chair into another just to see if the t'other isn't a bit more comfortably cushioned. That's another specie from the genie known colloquially as "sod."

As "Thos. Reilly" is the name appended to a letter telling of the office antics of widows, we may righteously suspect that Thos. is the homme to whom they flirt. Like femmes in murder cases, hommes in widow cases will out.

Well, this widow is showing faltering signs about running true to form. She has a 16 year old girl she wants to get through school and has one of these modern ideas that she can do it really alone. And here is where we ought to get right down and pray with a loud "amen from the male dorsal that the widows aren't going in for independent action, or marriage all have to look elsewhere for its lost publicity agents.

However, Thomas' widow looks young, is healthy—and lively. And $5 of it, the secret apparently not having been fully confided to Thomas.

That's all right, for now, Thomas claims. But how about ten years from now, he argues. Which argument we take is does not offer the lively widow, since there are so much more profitable methods of male approach. Ten years from now, the widow, indeed, may still look young, be healthy and lively. Women are like that, nowadays. You cannot tack any grandma's cap on their bobbed heads in their forties, in their fifties, nor in their sixties, either.

Thomases trying to sell themselves to widows need to produce excellent credentials, you see. Widows know their men from their alibis out, or else they haven't been paying attention in class. Even at that, if they're smart wives and charming ones, they're seemingly sympathetic with human failings.

Smart Accessories for Holiday Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.] Women believe firmly in chic headwear; men are always susceptible to the last word in footlines. Good dressers demands scrupulous attention to both, because these extremities decide the chic of any ensemble, and Paris is using the present time to give us something new for feet and head.

If you got a crown in the good old days, you were in a heaven of chic. Now there has to be something in the way of a brim, preferably the sort that reminds you of a halo in its admirable framing of the face. The latest thing in the way of Paris hats is equipped with crown and halo brim of fancy stuff, designed for the dinner and theater parties that are in store for these holidays, and at the same time giving a broad hint of spring fashions.

The dinner hat sketched here is from Agnès' newest holiday hat, made of crocheted lace straw with a satiny surface. The straw is crisp enough so that the ruffle, which begins halfway up the crown on the right side and travels around the back and part way up the other side, falls in fancy folds that stay put in any weather. The crown is close fitting; the forehead in front and low on the neck in back. The model shown is black, but Agnès makes this hat in silver or rosy beige, to match the dinner dress with which it is to be worn.

At the other end of the fashionable silhouette the shoes that Paris has made for the holidays are usually matched to purse, belt or gloves. These accessory ensembles are not matched to the costume, but are contrasted, and often add the one touch of bright color to a sober winter ensemble. At the bottom of our sketch is a new dress bag and shoe ensemble from Rondebart, combining brown, tan and green suede in a thoroughly modern manner.

In the center are shown Sandalari's new suedes in blue and silver kid, to wear with the negligée or pajamas at home during the holidays. By these examples you will see that footlines are going fantastic in a daring and delightful way.

WE
MORTGAGES

We are home mortgage specialists.

We confine the loans we make to second mortgages on homes (construing up to a three-flat building as a home)—and because of this concentration on a single type of transaction we are able to give lower rates and better terms on second mortgages than to home owners than can be obtained anywhere else in the city of Chicago.

Our charges are not based on a sliding scale, and do not vary. We charge
7% interest, which accrues monthly, and commissions, which work out as follows:

$35 per $1,000 for 1 Year.
$65 per $1,000 for 2 Years.
$90 per $1,000 for 3 Years.
